——R. 190-A—Settlement of fisheries otherwise than by auction — Provincial Government if can order settlement.

When a S. D. But that does not mean that the Provincial Government can make a counter proposal as regards the person upon whom the S. D. O. or Deputy Commissioner should settle the fishery. There is no rule which empowers the Provincial Government to name the person upon whom the S. D. O. or the Deputy Commissioner is obliged to settle the fishery.

ASSAM SETTLEMENT RULES (FRAMED UNDER ASSAM LAND AND REVENUE REGULATION (1 of 1886))

——R. 1 (c)—Annual lease — Sub-lessee — Right of, against Government — Order of ejectment of sub-lessee—Writ against order — Maintainability—(Constitution of India, Art. 226).

Rule 1 (c) of the Settlement Rules under the Assam Land and Revenue Regulation definitely says that an annual lease is a lease granted for one year only and confers no right in the soil beyond a right of user for which it is given. It confers no right of transfer or of inheritance beyond the year of issue or of subletting. In view of this rule the petitioner, as a sub-lessee, cannot claim any rights at all against Government and cannot question the cancellation of the settlement even if such a cancellation is not strictly regular and in accordance with law. Hence the sub-lessee who has no right in the land cannot ask the High Court to issue a writ against the order of eviction although such an order is not strictly in accordance with law. I L R (1954) 6 Assam 422 : A I R 1956 Assam 81 (81, 82) (Pr 4) (DB).

——Pr. 1 (d) and 53—Periodic lease—Meaning of.

It is clear from R. 53 that a periodic lease is intended for a person who has already acquired the status of a landholder. For acquiring the status of a landholder for the first time the lease will have to be for 10 years under S. 8 (1) (b) and once those rights have been acquired then they will not be lost even if the re-settlement is for a shorter period. A I R 1958 Manipur 1 (4) (Pt C) (Pr 15).

BANK

——Co-operative Bank—Bye laws—Board of directors —Powers of—Chairman—Power to convene meetings of Board — Duty of secretary— Meeting of working committee called by Secretary against directions of chairman —Validity.

Guidance of the Chairman. Since there is no bye-law empowering the Secretary to call a meeting of the Board and Byelaw 44 makes it his duty so to do and also to act, in the discharge of that duty, under the guidance and supervision of the Chairman, in this matter, he had to act in accordance with the directions of the Chairman. So also in the absence of any bye-law governing the matter, the power to sommon a meeting of the Board is within the implied powers of the Chairman and inheres in him by virtue of his very position as the Chairman and the chief executive authority in all matters relating to the affairs of the Bank. In this view, when the Secretary took up a defiant attitude, the Chairman was not only justified in calling a meeting of the Board but he was also entitled to do so. Further, the meeting of the Working Committee dated 5th August 1961 called against the Chairman's directions in order to prevent a consideration of the case against the petitioner 1 by the parent body, namely the Board, was clearly unauthorised and bad. 1962 M P L J 554.

A Bank vis-a-vis its branch or the branch vis-a-vis all other branches elsewhere, cannot be treated as distinct and different legal entities for the purpose of tax provisions and the relationship of creditor and debtor is not legally possible between them. A mere entry in the account books of the Head Office of the Bank that the branch is a debtor to the former cannot constitute the legal relationship of debtor and creditor between the two offices. Hence, in computing the income of the branch for purpose of assessment to the profession tax, a Municipal Council is right in disallowing the interest averred to be payable on amounts borrowed from the head office. 16 Trav L J 611 and 3 Trav L T 330, Rel. on. 1957 Ker L T 229 : 1957 Ker L J 319: (1957) 32 I T R 439 : (1957) 27 Comp Cas 439 : AIR 1957 Ker 58.

● —S. 10—Complaint against Advocate by private person — Enquiry by Bar Council —Complaint withdrawn — Report by Bar Council to drop enquiry — On facts, High Court refused to stop enquiry and directed Bar Council to continue it.

A complaint was made against an Advocate that he induced the complainant to agree to purchase a property of his client, knowing fully that the client had not title to it, that this misrepresentation the complainant parted with sums of money some of which amount was not paid by the advocate to the client and that a decree against the advocate was obtained for this sum. On this complaint, an enquiry was started by the Bar Council. After some adjournments the complaint was withdrawn on the ground that the complainant could not substantiate the charges. Upon this the Bar Council reported that the proceedings should be dropped :

Held that a mere statement by the complainant that he could not substantiate the charges against the advocate could not be accepted, especially having regard to the considered judgment of the High Court in the suit against the Advocate, in which the Judge had an opportunity of examining the entire evidence on the matter and it was common ground that the present proceedings were intimately connected with the proceedings in that suit. (Complaint was directed to be kept on file and if complainant was unwilling to conduct proceeding the Bar Council Tribunal was asked to appoint advocate to conduct the same.) In the matter of P. —S. 10—Advocate—Re-admission—Considerations.

Punishment under the Legal Practitioner's Act is not to operate as a permanent disability and that the Court has discretion at any time with due regard to circumstances brought to its notice to re-admit a legal practitioner whose name has been struck off the rolls. The test is whether the sentence of exclusion has had the salutary effect of awakening in the delinquent a higher sense of honour and duty, and whether, during the period between his expulsion and the date of the application for reinstatement, the applicant's conduct has been such as to satisfy the Court that he might be safely entrusted with the affairs of his clients. Having regard to the age, the assurance of the Petitioner. the representations made on his behalf and the certificates field in support of his application, the Petitioner was re-admitted to the office of the Advocate of the High Court: 51 Mys H C R 42; AIR (24) 1937 Bom 48; 1947-2 M L J 213, Rel. on. BENGAL LAND REVENUE SALES ACT (7 of 1868)

SECTION 37

——S. 37 — Revenue sales purchase — Ejectment — Claim of lekheraj title to disputed land — Onus is on plaintiff to prove his title and show the land form part of estate purchased by him—(Bengal Decennial Regulation (8 of 1793), S. 36).

The revenue sales purchaser of an entire estate acquires, by reason of his purchase, title to the mal assets of the estate, that is, to the lands on which the revenue of the estate is originally assessed and fixed, and also to the invalid lakherajs which form part of such mal assets. Such a purchaser under S. 37 of the Act, gets the estate free from all encumbrances and the claim of invalid lakheraj is also an encumbrance which have been imposed on the estate after the time of settlement. In order to succeed, therefore, in a suit under S. 37 of the Act for ejectment or resumption and assessment of rents, wherein the defence has set up the plea of lakheraj title to the disputed land, the purchaser will have to show that this particular emcumbrance was imposed upon the estate after the time of settlement. In other words, the purchaser must prove his title to the disputed land by showing that it forms part of the estate purchased by him and, therefore, is really within the mal assets of the estate at the time of the settlement.

Where the plaintiff, as the revenue sales purchaser, claimed the disputed land as appertaining to the estate purchased by him, and the defence put up a plea of lakheraj title to the suit land, held that the initial onus was on the plaintiff to prove his title to the disputed land. It was for the plaintiff to prove that the suit land formed part of the estate purchased by him. Since the documents relied on by the plaintiff did not prove his title to the disputed land, his suit for ejectment or resumption and assessment of rents under S. 37 of the Act could not be entertained. 20 C W N 1028; 14 M I A 152; 25 W R 209; 2 W R 205; ILR 8 Cal 230; ILR 9 Cal 813; ILR 12 Cal 182; 2 W R 207 (FB); 3 W R 33; 23 W R 24; 1955 S C A 158; 22 C W N 396; 58 C W N 288; 60 C W N 657, Rel. on. I L R (1960) 2 Cal 728 (DB).

——S. 8—Constitution of India, Art. 73—Prerogative —Income tax Act and Public Demands Recovery Act, if limit State to provisions of latter as respects recovery of income-tax—Income-tax Act (1922), S. 46 (2).

The reason why a statute is held in an appropriate case to have replaced the prerogative right to the whole or a part of its extent is that the Crown is an assenting party to a statute and where a statute does provide that the Crown can only do a particular thing under and in accordance with its provisions, the Crown is necessarily taken to have agreed to a curtailment or abolition of its prerogative power.

But the statute must be such that its terms do limit the Crown to its provisions and thereby exclude the prerogative or hold it in suspension, as in the case of temporary statute. It is impossible to read the Income-tax Act, as limiting the State to the provisions of the latter as respects recovery of income tax. 59 Cal WN 1119=96 Cal L J 194=(1955) 28 ITR 797= A I R 1956 Cal 26.

Where the number of members constituting a Union Board was fixed at 9, and 8 out of them were duly elected but the election of one was, due to some contingency postponed. This does not affect the power of the 8 elected members to function and they are entitled to elect their president; such an election would be saved by S. 17 (c). The result of holding that these elected members cannot function or proceed to elect their own president would be to attract the operation of S. 11 which extends the terms of office of the members in the last union board up to the date ol the first meeting of the newly elected members. SECTION 65

——Ss. 65 and 71 — Jurisdiction of Union Bench — Re-trial by Bench — Order for—Legality.

The Bengal Village Self-Government Act, 1919 contemplates the formation of the Union Bench and Union Court under S. 65 of the Act. A Union Bench is constituted for the trial in the whole or any part of the Union, of the offences specified in Schedule 4, if committed within the local limits of its jurisdiction or if the case is transferred to the bench by a District Magistrate or Sub-Divisional Magistrate.

It will be seen from S. 71, that while directing a re-trial, the case should be sent to a Court of competent jurisdiction subordinate to the District Magistrate or the Sub-Divisional Magistrate. It does not provide for a retrial by the Union Bench. In this view the order of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, so far as it relates to the re-trial by the Union Bench is concerned, is not legal. (1959) 63 Cal W N 519.

——S. 65—'Bench'—Meaning of — Conviction of accused on local inspection and report of only one member of the Bench — Legality — S. 101, Rules under R. 4 —Non-compliance—Effect.

The word 'Bench' has not been defined in the Act but it is clear from S. 65 that the Bench would mean two or more members constituting the Bench.

Where only one member held the local inspection and made a report which was taken into account for the purpose of finding the accused guilty.

Held, that it was not a mere irregularity but the non-compliance of the provisions of R. 4 amounted to an illegality. 1958 Cri L J 572 (573) (Cal) (Pt A) (Pr 4).

SECTION 71

——S. 71 — Jurisdiction of Union Bench — Retrial by Bench — Order for—Legality.

It will be seen from S. 71, that while directing retrial, the case should be sent to a Court of competent jurisdiction subordinate to the District Magistrate or Sub-Divisional Magistrate. It does not provide for a re-trial by the Union Bench. In this view the order of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, so far as it relates to the re-trial by the Union Bench is concerned, is not legal. See Panchayats — Bengal Village Self Government Act (5 of 1919), S. 65. (1959) 63 Cal W N 519.

SECTION 101

——S. 101, R. 28 — Union Board consisting of nine members — Election of one postponed — Right of others to proceed to function and elect president. The eight elected members have a right to function and they are entitled to elect their president. See Panchayats — Bengal Village Self Government Act (5 of 1919), S. 6 (4). (1959) 63 Cal W N 969.

——S. 101 — Rules under — R. 16 — Object and scope of.

Rule 16 is not a mere technical rule, but it has a purpose which is conducive to justice. As soon as a man is given the particulars of the offence of which he is accused, he may make a statement which might on the face of it be quite convincing so that the Union Bench may not think it necessary to proceed further with the matter. This is indeed a valuable right given to the person accused before a Bench.

Perhaps the accused may not have made a statement when asked to show cause why he should not be convicted but the fact of his having been examined does require to be stated in order to show that there was compliance with R. 16 of the Village Self-Government Rules. It cannot be considered to be a mere technical omission on the part of the Bench, if there is nothing on the record to indicate that the accused was asked any question on his appearance before the Bench. 1958 Cri L J 572 (573) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (Cal).

BENGAL VILLAGE SELF-GOVERNMENT RULES

RULE 11

——R. 11 — Scope of — Duty of Election officer.

Rule 11 of the rules for the election of members, etc., is very limited in its scope, enjoining as it does the duty upon the Election Officer to ascertain whether all the candidates are duly qualified under S. 7 (2) of the Act. The question whether the rule goes far enough or whether it ought to have been framed in a more comprehensive way so as to attract within its mischief Ss. 10, 10-A, etc., is a matter with which Election Officer need hardly concern himself at the preliminary stage. In a prosecution for offences under S. 47 (B), Bihar and Orissa Excise Act and Opium Laws Amendment Act, the prosecution cannot merely rely on the recovery of contraband articles from the house alleged to be in occupation of the accused but has further to prove that the articles were in conscious possession of all or any of the accused persons. No doubt under S. 10 of the Opium Act and under S. 48 of the Bihar and Orissa Excise Act, in the absence of a satisfactory explanation by the accused a presumption of guilt has to be drawn. But the question of such presumption can only arise when it is proved that a particular accused was in conscious possession of the same. That is a rebuttable presumption and even though the accused may be found to be in possession he may give satisfactory explanation about such possession so as to entitle him to an acquittal.

Where a large quantity of contraband opium and ganja was recovered from a house alleged to be in joint occupation of two accused the fact that one of the accused was present in the house at the time of search and had actually signed the seizure list could not by itself be taken as incriminating evidence against him. Even assuming that the mere signature of the accused on the seizure list amounts to an admission that he was in possession of those articles, the admission would be inadmissible in evidence because a confession to an excise officer would be hit by S. 25, Evidence Act. The mere fact, that a composition fee under S. 68 of the B. and O. The fact that the petitioner for renewal of the licence had paid a composition fee in lieu ot cancellation of the licence in the previous year does not mean that his conduct was satisfactory during the year within the meaning of R. 101 (3) of the Rules framed under the Act. 1964 BLJR 351.

If the stock of Ganja is found unfit for use, it cannot be sold or stored by the licensed vendor during the currency of the license. The stock has to be destroyed under the rules. Whether destruction had in fact taken place or not is not material. Title to the stock of Ganja found unfit for use is extinguished the moment the Superintendent of Excise comes to such a conclusion on personal inspection. An article which is destructible under the rule is valueless. Even if such article is not destroyed, the ex-licensee is not entitled to the recovery of its value — The conclusion that the article is unfit for use and is destructible is a thing or act either done or alleged to have been done in pursuance of the Act. Section 96 of the Act would govern such a case.

It must be assumed that the portion of the Ganja which was sold by Excise authorities was fit for consumption. The Ganja which is fit for consumption can be sold by the Excise department under Rule 124 on attachment after the expiry of the license. On sale, the vendor (the ex-licensee) to whom the excisable goods belonged is entitled to the price of the article. Non-payment of such price is not a thing done or alleged to have been done in pursuance of the Act. The limitation for the suit for the recovery of such price would be governed by Art. 62, Limitation Act (1908), and not by S. 96 of the Act. 31 Cut L T 832 = (1965) 7 Orissa J D 262=ILR (1963) Cut 669.

BIHAR AND ORISSA EXCISE RULES

—R. 101 (3)—Renewal of licence—Natural justice —Applicability—Opportunity of presenting his case to the licencee held given.

The Collector is bound as a matter of principle to give a fair opportunity to a licensee to present his case. The Collector should for instance give an opportunity to the licensee to make a relevant statement and to controvert the relevant statement made to his prejudice. But the Collector is not bound to decide the question as if he was sitting as a Court of law. The principle of natural justice, however, cannot be confined within the limits of any fixed formula, the question depends very much on the particular facts of each case.

In the instant case it appears from the report of the Superintendent of Excise that the licensee did not submit any explanation at the time of detection of the irregularity which was compounded, nor did he produce any defence witnesses at the time of detection before the Range Inspector, nor did he give any written statement at that time explaining the reason for the dilution of the liquor. The dilution of the liquor was detected by the Inspector of Excise on the 22nd July 1959, but the petitioner did not submit his explanation till a month later, namely, on the 21st August 1959. The licensee was asked to explain the irregularity on the 5th August 1959, but he did not do so and went on applying for time again and again. In view of this circumstance the Excise Superintendent considered that the explanation of the licensee was an afterthought and no reliance could be placed upon those witnesses whom the licensee named after a pretty long time. Consequently it could not be said that the Superintendent of Excise acted arbitrarily in refusing to examine the three witnesses named by the petitioner ('55) AIR 1955 Pat 345 (V 42)=ILR 34 Pat 254=1964 B L J R 351.

Section 62 of the Act has, for the purposes of the State of Orissa, to be read along with the provisions made in sections 3 and 4 of the Orissa Revenue Divisional Commissioner's Act, 1957 (Orissa Act 19 of 1957). The sub-section 2 (b) of section 4 of that Act clearly directs that the Revenue Divisional Commissioner, appointed under section 3, shall exercise only such power of the Board of Revenue under the Orissa Board of Revenue Act, 1951 or under any other law for the time being in force as the State Government may by rules prescribe. In exercise of the powers conferred thereunder in 1959 the Orissa Revenue Divisional Commissioner's Rules were framed. In apsendix I (item 23) appended to these Rules power of the Revenue Divisional Commissioner is confined to appeal and revision against all original orders of the Collector. The power of revision, however, against the appellate orders of the Collector continued to remain vested, under the Orissa Board of Revenue Act, 1951 (Orissa Act 23 of 1951) in the Board of Revenue. Those powers which were not given to the Commissioner (after the amendment) under the Orissa Board of Revenue (Amendment) Act, 1957 (Orissa Act 29 of 1957) remained with the Board of Revenue as provided in section 10 of Orissa Act 23 of 1951. That being so, the Bihar and Orissa Public Demands Recovery Act, 1914 must be taken to have been, by necessary implication, repealed to the extent of the provisions made in the aforesaid Orissa Act 23 of 1951 read with Orissa Act 15 of 1957.

Held that the order passed by the Member, Board of Revenue on 11-10-63 in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction against the appellate Order of the Additional District Magistrate and Collector, Balasore, passed on 2-11-62 was valid and legal. I L R (1965) Cut 653 = (1965) 2 I T J 826=AIR 1966 Orissa 124.

—R. 12 — Collector dropping the proceedings against Government servant, instituted on charge of illegal gratification — Commissioner is authorised to revive the proceedings — Constitution of India, Art. 226.

Where the Collector dropped the proceedings against a subordinate Government servant on charge of illegal gratification, the order of revival of those proceedings made by the Commissioner is valid, as it falls within the power conferred upon him under R. 12. The power conferred upon the State Government and the Heads of the Departments by this rule is a revisional power of wide amplitude, and it enables the authorities mentioned in the rule to call for departmental proceedings against subordinates at any time and "reverse or alter the order passed by a subordinate authority". Article 226 of the Constitution cannot be invoked, when the Commissioner passes order of revival of proceedings under R. 12. 1962 B L J R 852=I L R 42 Pat 521 (DB).

BIHAR HIGH SCHOOLS (CONSTITUTION POWERS AND FUNCTIONS OF MANAGING COMMITTEE) RULES (1964)

—Validity — Rules do not offend Art. 14 of the Constitution—Constitution of India, Art. 14.

The rules cannot be struck down as offending Art. 14 of the Constitution on the ground that they give unfettered powers to the authorities concerned and permit discrimination between various schools by imposing an ad hoc committee of officials on some schools by deliberately delaying in taking the various necessary steps to constitute the Managing Committees. Nor can it be said that the rules do not lay down any principles or policy for guiding the exercise of discretion by the officers concerned.

Though the Government officer concerned is conferred with wide discretion to take the various steps for the purpose of constituting the first Managing Committee of a School, nevertheless the rules clearly lay down a policy and principle for the guidance of his discretion by first requiring under R. 37 that the new Committee must be constituted within nine months and then by depriving the officer of any right to vote or to propose a candidate either at the meeting convened for the selection of guardian representatives under Rule 7 or co-option of local educationists under R. 8. Rule 39 does authorise the constitution of an ad hoc Committee until the Managing Committee is constituted in accordance with the rules. The contention that R. 39 encroaches on the power conferred by S. 5 (2) of the Act cannot prevail. 1965 B L J R 844=I L R 45 Pat 411.

BIHAR HIGH SCHOOLS (CONTROL AND REGULATION OF ADMINISTRATION) ACT (13 of 1960)

—Validity — Does not offend Art. 19 (1) (f) and Art. 31 (1) of the Constitution—Constitution of India, Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (1).

The Act does not offend Arts. 19 (1) (f) and 31 (1) of the Constitution because an interference with the right of bare management of an educational institution does not amount to infringement of the right to property under article. Even if it is held that the first Managing Committee had a vested interest in the properties of the school, such property right can be taken away by the operation of law. The Bihar Act is such a law, and, therefore, such deprivation of property would not offend either Art. 19 or Art. 31 (1) of the Constitution. —Ss. 5 (1) and 8 (3) — S. 5 (1) is not invalid as excessive delegation of legislative powers—Constitution of India, Art. 245 — Delegated legislation—Legislative control.

Section 5 (1) does not amount to excessive delegation or abdication of legislative powers by the Legislature, on the ground that it confers wide and excessive powers on the rule making authority to provide for the constitution of Managing Committees. It is true that S. 5 (1) has conferred wide powers on the State Government. But S. 8 (3) requires that the rules should be laid before the Legislature and if any modification is suggested by the Legislature the rules shall have effect only in such modified form. Thus, the Legislature has not completely abdicated its legislative function, but has retained its full control. Section 5 (1), therefore, is not invalid. BIHAR LIBERALISED PENSION SCHEME (1950) ——Para. 1 (2) (a)—Bihar Service Code, R. 55—Paragraph providing for compulsory retirement of public servant after completing qualifying service — Does not offend Art. 14 of the Constitution — Discretion given to State Government, not unfettered.

If a statutory provision lays down a policy or principle for the guidance of the exercise of discretion by the authority concerned in the matter of selection or classification of persons to whom the said provision should apply, the statutory provision will not be unconstitutional. AIR 1958 S C 538 (548), Rel. on. While it is true that the impugned sub-paragraph of the Bihar Liberalised Pension Scheme (1950) by itself does not lay down any policy or principle except the minimum requirement of 30 years qualifying service, the fixing of minimum qualifying service for itself, to some extent, prevents the unfettered exercise of the discretionary power. Moreover, the basic principle on which the provisions of the Bihar Service Code and the Bihar Pension Rules have been made seems to be that the services of a Government servant are at the disposal of the Government, which itself is functioning for the benefit of the public. Rule 55 of the Service Code clearly says that the whole time of a Government servant is at the disposal of Government which pays him. Hence, while exercising the discretionary power under the impugned sub-paragraph the authority concerned is required to bear in mind the availability for the whole time of the Government servant for further efficient service. The Government or the authority concerned will necessarily have to consider whether the further retention in service of the public servant is in public interest or not. Hence the impugned sub-paragraph cannot be said to contravene Art. 14.

A police officer must continue to be in high standard of physical fitness throughout his service, and if after 30 years of qualifying service his superior authority is authorised to terminate his services, it is implied in the exercise of the power that public interest, administrative convenience and the efficiency of the service will be the main basis for the exercise of that power. AIR 1964 S C 600 (observations of Shah, J., in Pr. 154, Rel. on). Because of the absence of specific directions in governing the exercise of authority conferred thereby, the power to terminate employment cannot be regarded as an arbitrary power exercisable at the sweet will of the authority. 1965 B L J R 909= AIR 1966 Pat 148.

BIHAR SATHI LAND (RESTORATION) ACT (34 of 1950)

——S. 2—Law—Meaning of.

Law in its legislative sense is of much wider import than the juristic notion of law as the command of a sovereign or as a rule laying down a general course of conduct. The term 'law' in Art. 245 must be construed so as to include in its scope all legislative Acts enacted in the prescribed manner and from. Sathi Lands (Restoration) Act was therefore 'law' in the strict sense and the declaration contained in it was not in the nature of a mere decree in respect of certain individuals' rights. The ad hoc committee constituted for the purpose of starting a college could be recognised by the University only for the purpose of the admission of the college to the University and, when the college is admitted, only the Governing Body constituted in accordance with the provisions of Art. 2 of statute 13 could be competent to manage the affairs of the college. 1962 B L J R 740 (DB).

STATUTE 13, ART. 5

——Statute 13, Art. 5 (2) and (3) — First meeting of Governing Body of admitted college — Procedure — Provisions of Art. 5 (2) and (3) do not apply.

A reading of statute 13 as a whole gives an impression that so much of sub-article (3) of Art. 5 as relates to the convening of the meetings by the Secretary does not apply to the first meeting of the Governing body. Similarly. sub-article (2) of Art. 5, which lays down that the President of the Governing Body shall preside at the meetings thereof and record the proceedings, applies only after the members have elected a President at the first meeting. In other words, the provisions of sub-articles (2) and (3) of Art. 5 regarding the President and the Secretary apply only when the President and the Secretary have been respectively elected at the first meeting. As the laws of the University are silent as to who shall call the first meeting and preside over it before the election of the President, the ordinary rule relating to the first meeting shall apply, namely, that, one of the members shall take the initiative to call the first meeting and the gentleman elected by the members at the first meeting shall preside. 1962 B L J R 740 (DB).

BOMBAY CINEMAS (REGULATION) ACT (11 of 1953)

—S. 3 –Rules under Act — Bombay Cinema Rules (1954), Rr. 104, 106 — Renewal of cinema license of touring cinema cannot be refused on ground that operator was operating his touring cinema at particural place for a long time — Right to operate cinema is fundamental right — Constitution of India, Art. 19 (1) (g).

The right to operate a cinema is a fundamental right guaranteed under Art. 19 (1) (g) of the Constitution. All that the law can do is to impose reasonable restrictions on that right.

Under the Bombay Cinemas (Regulation) Act, 1953 the only restriction that is placed on a person who operates a cinema is that he should obtain a license before operating the cinema in any particular place. Under R. 104 of Bombay Cinema Rules, framed under the Act the Licensing Authority has absolute discretion in refusing a license or in renewing the same if the cinema appears to him likely to cause obstruction, inconvenience, annoyance, risk, danger or damage to residents or passersby in the vicinity of the cinema.

There is no provision of law empowering the licensing authority to refuse to renew a license on the ground that the licensee has been operating his cinema in a particular place for a long time.

Renewal of the license of a touring cinema cannot be refused on the ground that it has been operating in a particular place for a long time, and that if permitted to operate for a long time in the particular place, it would do away with the distinction recognised by law between a permanent cinema and touring cinema are just those set out in the Act and the rules. The licensing authority cannot add to the same. There is no provision which prohibits an operator from operating his touring cinema in a particular place beyond a given period. Renewal cannot therefore be refused on the ground that the operator of a touring cinema was operating the same in a particular place for about a year or more. (1965) 2 Law Rep 244 (Mys).

BOMBAY CITY LAND REVENUE ACT (2 of 1876)

—Ss. 3 (4), 8, 9 — Superior holder — Who is — Lessee holding lease directly granted by Governor-General in Council –Provision for renewal of lease— Certificate under S. 173 (1) Government of India Act issued — It was Governor General in Council and not its lessee who was superior holder under Provincial Government — Government of India Act (1935), S 154.

A person in order that he should have the highest title to a land need not necessarily be in actual possession of the land; nor should he have an immediate right to possession thereof. It would be enough if he is entitled to possession of the land on the expiry of term, which may be for any number of years or even in perpetuity. In such a case he would, as between himself and the holder of the estate which he has created, be the person having the highest title to the land.

From the fact that a larger amount of compensation is allowed to the lessee than to the lessor it cannot be said that the lessee had a larger interest in, and consequently title to, land than the lessor. The question as to whether the lessor or the lessee has the highest title to land does not depend upon the amount of compensation to which they may be respectively entitled in proceedings under the Land Acquisition Act.

Certain piece of land in the City of Bombay was held on lease by one X from the Secretary of State for India in Council. The land was subsequently acquired by Government for G. I. P. Railways. Surplus plots out of this land were granted on leases to plaintiffs directly by the Governor-General in Council in about 1939, for a period of 99 years, with a provision that on surrender of the lease within first 49 years a new lease for a period of 999 years would be granted. On the question whether the lessees were superior holders so as to be assessed for land revenue:

Held, that ever since 1st April 1937, on which date the Government of India Act, 1935, came into force, the sovereignty of the crown over the territories which constituted the Province of Bombay became vested in the Provincial Government and ever since that date all the lands situated within those territories came to be held by their respective superior holders under the Provincial Government for the purposes of land revenue. Therefore, it was the Central Government which became the "superior holder" of the plots under the Provincial Government ever since 1st April 1937, but they were not liable to pay any assessment to the Provincial Government by reason of the exemption provided by S. 154 of the Government of India Act, 1935. But they still continued to be superior holders, despite the lease granted by them in favour of the plaintsffs. In any event, the plaintiffs were not "superior holders" within the meaning of S. 3 (4) and, therefore, they were not liable to pay any land revenue to the Provincial Government in respect of the lands held by them on lease from the Central Government. BOMBAY COURT FEES ACT (36 of 1939)

——S. 6 (iv) (d) and (j) — Suit for declaration that plaintiff-subtenant is entitled to protection under S. 14 of Bombay Rent Act and consequential relief of injunction — Fixed Court Fee of Rs. 30/- to be paid under S. 6 (iv) (j) — S. 6 (iv) (d) not attracted — Suit not for declaration as to the nature of tenancy in respect of immovable property. (Houses and Rents — Bombay Rents, Hotel and Lodging House Rates Control Act (57 of 1947), S. 14.)

The suit for a declaration that the plaintiff is the lawfully protected sub-tenant of the suit property and for a further injunction restraining the landlords from executing the order of eviction obtained against the head-tenant falls within the purview of S. 6 (iv) (j) and the court-fee payable on the plaint is Rs. 30/-. The prayer in the suit is not for a declaration as to the nature of their tenancy of any immovable property so as to attract the provision under S. 7 (iv) (d) of the Court Fees Act. The plaintiffs want a declaration that they are entitled to the status of statutory tenants and to the protection afforded to them under S. 14 of the Bombay Rent Act and consequent on this declaration they seek an injunction against the landlord. Statutory tenancy under the Rent Act is not tenancy of immovable property and the statutory tenant has no right or interest in the immovable property, but merely a personal right to retain possession. 46 Bom L R 916; 52 Bom L R 627 at 635, Ref. 67 Bom L R 210=1965 Mah L J 473 = ILR (1966) Bom 84.

I, Art. 1—Applicability—Suit for declaration that plaintiff is benamidar of defendant and has no interest in suit transactions—Suit dismissed—Appeal—Court-fee payable on the memorandum — Special provision in S. 6 (iv) (j) of the Bombay Act prevails against Sch. I, Art. 1 of the Court-Fees Act (1870).

Where the plaintiff sought a declaration that he was merely a benamidar in the various suit transactions specified in the plaint paras. 8 to 10 and that he was not interested in any manner whatsoever in the said transactions, which were entered into by the defendants in his name and the plaintiff was, therefore, not liable in that connection and the suit was dismissed, in the appeal against the decree it was contended that the appeal memo. was not properly stamped : on the question of applicability of relevant provisions of the Court Fees Act.

Held that as the plaintiffs claim was not as to the amounts mentioned in paras. 8 to 10 of the plaint but that he had no interest whatsoever in the said transactions, the suit was clearly covered by S. 6 (IV) (j) of the Bombay Court Fees Act, 1959, which came into force when the appeal was filed and therefore the appeal memo. was properly stamped under the said provision. In view of this special provision, Art. 1 of Sch. I of Court Fees Act, 1870 which was a general provision, did not apply. I L R (1965) Guj 971 = (1965) 6 Guj L R 855 = AIR 1966 Guj 159.

The Mamlatdar's Court cannot settle, decide or deal with any question which is by or under the Land Reforms Act required to be settled. decided or dealt with by the Mamlatdar, the Collector or Tribunal or by the Government in exercise of their powers of control. Under S. 61 of the Saurashtra Land Reforms Act, the Collector can summarily evict a person who is not entitled to the occupation or possession of any land under the provisions of the Saurashtra Land Reforms Act. But if a person is not entitled to possession or occupation of any land under the Saurashtra Land Revenue Code, S. 61 of the Saurashtra Land Reforms Act is not applicable and, therefore, the bar of jurisdiction of civil Courts and of the Mamlatdar's Courts does not operate after the issue of an occupancy certificate under the Saurashtra Land Reforms Act because after the issue of an occupancy certificate the rights and obligations are governed by the Saurashtra Land Revenue Code and not by the Saurashtra Land Reforms Act.

The State Government is vested with power of superintendence over the Police Force throughout the State under S. 4 of the Act notwithstanding the fact that police officers are appointed under the District Police Act. Though under S. 25 (2) the power to award punishment against members of the subordinate ranks of Police Force has been given to various officers, the power of superintendence vested in the State Government under S. 4 will always be available. Therefore, in matters of departmental action taken by officers authorised under S. 25 (2) the State Government can at any stage intervene under the powers of superintendence reserved to it under S. 4. In such cases the State Government is empowered to order further fresh departmental enquiry on the same charges against the defaulting officers, if according to the State Government the facts involved warrant such an enquiry. The plaintiff was a permanent servant in the clerical establishment of the School Board under the Local Authority Municipality in Dharwar and his services were lent to the Collector of the District for service in the Civil Supplies Department of the Government, keeping his lien in his parent department until his return from deputation. The Government issued instructions to the Collectors of the District to repatriate the servants on deputation to their parent departments but the plaintiff was however retained until his services were finally terminated. The plaintiff sought a decree against the defendant Chairman School Board Municipality. He did not implead the authorized municipality.

Held, the suit was not maintainable.

There could be no doubt from the provisions of the Act that it was the authorized municipality which alone was the corporate body having full control over the primary schools and the entire staff connected with Schools and their administration. The Municipal School Board was more or less in the position of a committee placed by the Government in charge of the management and day-to-day administration of the primary schools working within the municipal area. BOMBAY PUBLIC TRUSTS (UNIFICATION AND AMENDMENT) ACT, 1959 (6 of 1960)

——S. 86—Scope and applicability—Decision under S. 6 of M. P. Public Trusts Act, 1951 that one is not a Public Trust — Decision not challenged by way of suit for 6 months — Decision, held, did not acquire finality — No vested right acquired. (Misc. Petition No. 298 of 1962, dated 15-11-1962 (Madhya Pradesh), Diss.). (Madhya Pradesh Public Trusts Act (30 of 1951), Ss. 6, 7, 8, 35 and Rules 3, 6, 7, 8 of the Rules framed under the Act)—(Civil P. C. (1908), Preamble—Interpretation of Statutes)—(Bombay Public Trusts Act (29 of 1950), S. 19).

An order of the Registrar of Public Trusts under S. 6 of the Madhya Pradesh Public Trusts Act, 1951, since repealed by the Bombay Public Trusts (Unification and Amendment) Act, 1959, holding that a particular trust is not a public trust and which decision has not been challenged by any suit within 6 months as provided for under S. 8 of the M. P. Act, cannot be said to have acquired finality within the meaning of S. 86 of the said Bombay Act of 1959 since the said provision under S. 86 gives finality only to the entries made in the register as required by S. 7 (1) of the M. P. Act of 1951 and not to a finding and hence no vested right can be said to have been acquired.

Hence, an application under S. 19 of the Bombay Trusts Act which is made applicable to the Vidarbha Area relating to the same trust can be enquired into by the Charity Commissioner. However, the question if the order of the Registrar can operate as res judicata has to be considered at such enquiry.

Rules 3, 6, 7 and 8 of the rules framed under the M. P. Act of 1951 make it clear that the Registrar is not bound to maintain any register recording his findings about any particular trust not being a public trust. The 'suit' in S. 8 which has to be read with the other provision of the Act as a whole, in accordance with the well settled principle of construction of a statute, must relate only to such findings that the law requires to be transmitted to the registers required to be maintained under the provision of the Act. Sub-section (3) of S. 8 also indicates that the suit referred to in sub s. (1) of S. 8 relates only where an entry has been made in the register. The suit contemplated is one for the purpose of correction of the entries made in the register and not for getting an entry made in the register. Where a shipping company accepted goods for shipping under a bill of lading which stated "the company will not be liable for gold, silver, bullion . . . or beyond the amount of Rs. 500 for any one package unless a declaration of the value of such goods has been made prior to shipment and a special shipping order granted for the same."

Held, that the words "or beyond the amount of Rs. 500 for any one package" were not to be read ejusdem generis with the words 'gold, silver, bullion, etc.', preceding them. Therefore goods of any description would have to be declared before shipment and the special order for shipping had to be obtained if the package exceeded Rs. 500 in value. In the absence of the same the liability of the shipping company could not exceed the amount of Rs. 500. (1957) 100 Cal L J 45.

—S. 5 — Maintenance—Syrian Christians—Illegitimate minor children — Right of.

The personal law relating to Christians in Travancore does not make a father legally liable to maintain his children whether they be legitimate or illegitimate. Although the English law, which is applicable in cases which are not governed by either the Hindu or the Mohammedan law, recognises the duty of the father to maintain and educate his children, the Civil Courts have no direct means of enforcing this obligation, so as to compel him to maintain them out of property in which they have no interest. The illegitimate minor children of Christian father have a right to claim maintenance from him under the Criminal P. C., but no civil Court can give them that relief. 32 Cal 479, Dissented from. 1952 Ker L T 595 = ILR (1952) Trav-Co 850 = AIR 1953 Trav-Co 61 (62, 63) (Pt B) (Prs 3, 6) (DB).

——Preamble — Interpretation of Statutes — Statement of objects and reasons when can be resorted to in construing Statute.

The statement of objects and reasons attached to a Bill or to the Act are not aids to the construction of the terms of the statute which have, of course, to be given their plain and grammatical meaning. It is only when the terms of the statute are ambiguous or vague that resort may be had to the objects and reasons for the purpose of arriving at the true intention of the Legislature: AIR 1962 S C 1781 and AIR 1958 S C 578 and AIR 1960 S C 12, Foll. ●——Pre—Extent of binding character of precedents in India — Principle of superiority of numercial strength—Applicability to Full Benches.

Per Bhagwati J. — The doctrine of judicial precedents as it prevails in India removes to a large extent the vice of rigidity in law by accepting the principle of superiority of numerical strength in its application to the High Courts in India. A Division Bench of the High Court is not bound by the previous decision of a Single Judge of the High Court and can in effect overrule such decision by pronouncing it to be incorrect and, similarly, a Full Bench of the High Court is not bound by the previous decision of a Division Bench of the High Court and can examine the correctness of such decision and declare that the law is not correctly laid down in such decision. In these cases, the principle of superiority of numerical strength amongst Benches of co-ordinate jurisdiction is recognized and given effect to.

The same principle of superiority of numerical strength among Benches of co-ordinate jurisdiction prevails so far as Full Benches of the High Court are concerned. It is of course axiomatic that a Full Bench constituted of three Judges of the High Court, which is the minimum strength of a Full Bench, is bound by the previous decision of another Full Bench constituted of three Judges of the High Court. That is clear from the fact that both the Full Benches are Benches of co-ordinate jurisdiction and the numerical strength of the Judges composing both the Full Benches is the same. But a Full Bench consisting of a larger number of Judges can override the decision of another Full Bench consisting of a lesser number of Judges and declare that the law was not correctly laid down in such decision. ——Pre—Construction—Precedents— Value of—Precedents are useful guides—Precedents—Deed—Construction.

Precedents in the context of construction of documents will have their own limitations, because rarely the problem of construction is identical. Languages in documents vary and they have also to be read in the context, and surrounding circumstances in order to gather the true intention. Nevertheless, decisions are frequently cited and are looked into as they are of undoubted value and will show how the question of construction is approached and decided. 77 Mad L W 666.

—— Preamble — Interpretation of Statutes—Act containing interpretation clause — Usage when can be called in to explain words occurring in the Act.

Per G. K. Govind Bhat, J.—When an Act contains an interpretation clause, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context, that definition furnishes the dictionary for interpreting the expressions employed in the Act. When the meaning of the Act is so clear as to leave no doubt, usage cannot be called in to explain them; when the words of an Act are doubtful, usage may be called in to explain them.

Per K. S. Hegde, J.—It must not be forgotten that a definition given in a statute is a key to open the legislative mind. If one brushes aside that key he may not be able to unlock the legislative mind. Every definition given in statute must hold the field unless it is satisfactorily shown that in a given context that definition is clearly inapplicable. I L R (1964) Mys 697.

——Preamble — Interpretation of Statutes — Special provision.

Notification purported to be issued under S. 17 (b), Mysore Excise Act (5 of 1901) imposing fresh levy, not in continuation of pre-Constitution levy—Levy is not valid—See Constitution of India, Art. 277. ILR (1964) Mys 116.

——Pre—Interpretation of Statutes.

Power given to Mysore State Electricity Board under S. 79 (C) is very wide and method and manner of exercising it is entirely left to 'Board' — Board instead of framing its own regulations adopting State Civil Services Rules as its own regulations to govern service conditions of its emplopees — 'Board' passing order inconsistent with Note 7 to R. 41 — Employees of 'Board' held not entitled to benefit of N. 7 to R. 41—Note should yield place to order in question—Rules do not bind 'Board' on their own force—As 'Board' has power to make regulations, it has also the power to amend any of the provisions contained in 'Rules' — Order clear and unambiguous applying to all selectees — No question of permitting both Note and order to operate in different fields by adopting rule of harmonious construction — See Electricity (Supply) Act (1948), S. 79 (C). (1964) 2 Mys L J 7.

——Preamble—Interpretation of Statutes—Language of statute plain and unambiguous.

When the language of a section is plain and unambiguous, no question of interpretation arises. There is no justification to mutilate the provision on the basis of the supposed intention of the legislature. The legislative command as gathered from the language of the relevant provision must be obeyed. (1964) 1 Mys L J 40-1.

——Preamble — Interpretation of Statutes—Taxing Statute—Provisions clear and validly enacted—Court cannot sit in judgment over soundness of policy enunciated in the provisions. (1964) 52 I T R 987 (Mys).

——Pre — Interpretation of Statutes — Words plain and unambiguous.

The Court is not concerned with the results that might ensue from giving effect to the plain meaning of the words used by the Legislature. If the results are unfortunate, it is for the Legislature to provide for a remedy and not for the Court to usurp the functions of the Legislature by straining the meaning of the words which lend no scope for any ambiguity or alternative construction. (1963) 2 Mys L J 532=ILR (1963) Mys 499 (DB).

——Preamble — Interpretation of Statutes—Meaning of words — Phrases should not be viewed detached from context in Statute.

The key to the opening of every law is the reason and spirit of the law; it is the animus imponentis, the intention of the law-maker expressed in the law itself, taken as a whole. Hence, to arrive at the true meaning of any particular phrase in a statute, the particular phrase is not to be viewed detached from its context in the statute : (1867) L R 2 Q B 144 and 1898 A C 735, Relied on. (1963) 2 Mys L J 495 (DB).

——Preamble — Maxims.

Two maxims have to be borne in mind in construing a deed. Courts are bound so to construe contracts or agreements by deed or parol 'ut res magis valeat quam pereat' (i. e.; that it may be made to operate rather than be inefficient). The other maxim is 'falsa demonstratio non nocet', i. e., a mere false description does not vitiate if there be sufficient certainty as to the object. In order to ascertain this the false description in the instrument should be omitted. Without it, if there is certainty as to the property conveyed, the instrument is valid. AIR 1918 P C 102;

——S. 2 and O. 23, R. 1 — Concession by counsel on a question of law and abandonment of plea — Distinction.

There is a distinction between a concession made by a counsel on behalf of his client on a question of law and an abandonment of a plea by him on behalf of his client on a question which involves an investigation into questions of fact. If the concession is of the former category, that concession does not bind the client so as to preclude him from urging that plea in a higher Court. But, if, on the contrary the concession is not a concession on a question of law or as to the interpretation of a statute but is really no concession in any sense of the term but what the counsel did was to abandon a part of the case of his client, it is clear that that part of the case which was so abandoned which the counsel had the power to abandon cannot be revised in the higher Court. ——Ss. 2 (2), 144, 115, 96 — Order dismissing application for restitution — Appeal and not revision lies against such order.

A suit was instituted by the plaintiff for a declaration that the trust in dispute was a private trust and not a public trust, and also for recovery of possession of the same. The suit was decreed. Accordingly on the basis of the decree the plaintiff got delivery of possession over the property in suit. The decree was however reversed in appeal. Subsequently an application was filed by the defendant for restitution of the property taken over in delivery of possession by the plaintiff on the basis of the decree passed by the trial Court. The trial Court on hearing the application made for restitution held that "the proper authority for recovering the possession of the suit property from the opposite party is the Assistant Commissioner of Endowments.

Held that the order passed by the trial Court dismissing the application made for restitution was clearly covered by the definition of the word 'decree' as given in S. 2 (2). The order clearly determined the maintainability of the application made before it under S. 144. Hence the remedy of the defendant was to file an appeal against the order passed by the trial Court and not a revision. ILR (1965) Cut 943 = 32 Cut L T 393.

A plaintiff brought a suit for declaration of his title and recovery of possession of a strip of land. There was no prayer in the suit for mesne profits, past or future. After contest the suit was decreed, the plaintiff's title declared and order made that possession be restored. After obtaining the decree and putting it into execution the plaintiff brought a suit for mesne profits for a period subsequent to the filing of the first suit.

Held, (i) that a distinction must be drawn between a suit for recovery of past mesne profits and a suit for mesne profits pendente lite or future mesne profits. If the plaintiff had claimed mesne profits for any period for which he could have claimed in the first suit itself, he would have been barred by O. 2, R. 2, because the cause of action had already arisen. A person who asked for and obtained possession but did not claim mesne profits in the first suit would not be debarred from claiming them in respect of a future period in a future suit: AIR 1963 M P 194 and AIR 1949 P C 78 and AIR 1918 Nag 242, Rel. on. (ii) that O. 20, R. 12 would not have bearing on a suit, in which the plaintiff asked for declaration of title and possession only reserving his right to claim future mesne profits in a separate suit; (iii) that the judgment-debtor had asked for a remeasurement and correction of the boundaries or the area of the strip, possession whereof was already given to plaintiff in execution of the decree of the first suit, was not a proceeding which would call for a stay of the suit under S. 10 of Civil P. C., or as for that matter under any other provision of law. If the area given to the plaintiff was substantially reduced, in further proceedings the defendants could certainly ask for a pro rata restitution out of the mesne profits awarded in the suit. 1965 Jab L J 1012=AIR 1966 Madh Pra 186 (Pt B).

——S. 2 (12), O. 20, Rr. 12—'Mesne profits'—Suit for specific performance of agreement of reconveyance decreed—Liability of defendant for mesne profits—It arises only when title actually passes to plaintiff.

Until a conveyance is actually executed pursuant to an agreement of sale, the promisee under the agreement is not entitled to any proprietary interest in the property at all. Even upon a decree for specific performance, no title to the property passes until a conveyance is actually executed by the defendant in obedience to the decree or by the Court in execution of the decree. SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Jurisdiction of Courts—General.
   (a) Difference between absence of jurisdiction and error in exercise of it.
   (b) Acquiescence or waiver.
   (c) Jurisdiction with reference to subject-matter.
3. "Subject to the provisions herein contained."
4. Suits of civil nature.
   (a) Suit relating to property.
   (b) Right of person as member of club or society.
   (c) Right relating to religious and other processions.
   (d) Other common law rights — Wrongful dismissal from service.
5. Suits not of civil nature—No suit lies where there is no such right as that claimed.
6. Suit relating purely to religious rites or ceremonies.
7. Suit expressly barred.
8. The rule does not apply in the case of summary and concurrent remedies.

1. Scope.

——S. 9, O. 18, R. 13—Applicability to Small Cause Courts—Recording of evidence by Provincial Small Cause Courts.

As far as recording of evidence goes neither S. 9 nor O. 1 exempts the operation of R. 13 of O. 18, Civil P. C. which therefore applies to Small Cause Courts because of S. 17 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2075.

2. Jurisdiction of Courts—General.

——S. 9 — Legislature — Powers of, to take away jurisdiction of Civil Courts.

It cannot be said that it is only when a right is created by a statute and a tribunal is set up for the determination of that right by that statute that the urisdiction of a Civil Court as to a question concerning that right is taken away. A competent legislature may take away a Civil Court's jurisdiction to try other questions also. Akbar Khan Alam Khan v. ——S. 9—Want of jurisdiction—Plea as to.

If a defendant or judgment-debtor raises any objection to the jurisdiction of the Court, the Court has not only the power but is under obligation to decide that matter. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 21, R. 90. AIR 1955 Assam 12.

——S. 9—Presumption is in favour of jurisdiction of Civil Court.

The ordinary rule is that the jurisdiction of the Civil Court cannot be excluded unless it is specifically barred. Normally, a Civil Court shall be presumed to have jurisdiction to decide all such civil questions. 61 BLR 1087, Foll. 1963 Mah L J 633= ILR (1964) Bom 80.

——S. 9—Court-Fees Act (1870), S. 7 (iv)—Court-fee and jurisdiction—(Suits Valuation Act (1887), S. 8)—The question of jurisdiction of a Court depends not merely on the nature of relief sought in the prayer, but the relief that the plaintiff would be entitled to if he succeeds in the suit. See Court-fees Act (1870), S. 7 (iv). AIR 1956 Bom 649.

——Ss. 9, 100—Plea as to jurisdictton.

A plea as to jurisdiction may be taken at any stage, and if a Court or authority has no jurisdiction, even the fact that the party does not raise the plea of jurisdiction will not confer jurisdiction upon that Court or authority. AIR 1955 Bom 75.

——S. 9—Delegated legislation — The principle that whenever power is conferred upon the Legislature to pass laws in a field mentioned, the power carries with it the power to pass laws on matters which may be called subsidiary or ancillary cannot possibly be applied where subordinate powers of legislation are conferred upon a body whether it may be Municipality or the Central Government itself. 52 Cri L J 1381=AIR 1951 Bom 397.

——S. 9 — Competent Court — Distinction between decree passed by Court having no inherent jurisdiction and Court irregularly assuming jurisdiction pointed out—See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 11. AIR 1958 Bom 30.

——S. 9 —There is a basic difference between want of jurisdiction and irregular and illegal exercise of jurisdiction. Where there is illegality or irregularity in the exercise of jurisdiction, the defect if any, can be corrected according to the procedure established by law by way of appeal or revision and where the appellate Court has pronounced its decision against the petitioner, the matter having been finally decided, it should not ordinarily be reopened in a proceeding by way of writ. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1953 Pat 75.

——S. 9—Existence of jurisdiction is very different from the exercise of jurisdiction. See Houses and Rents — Bihar Buildings (Lease, Rent and Eviction) Control Act (3 of 1947), S. 18 (2). AIR 1952 Pat 458.

——S. 9, O. 21, R, 91—Setting aside of sale—Conditions.

The Court sale cannot be set aside, on the ground that the judgment-debtor had no saleable interest in the property sold. The order is not null and void or one made without jurisdiction though there is irregular assumption of jurisdiction by the executing Court. The irregularity is one which would be cured by failure to object in good time. AIR 1953 Trav-Co 620.

2 (b). Acquiescence or waiver.

——Ss. 9, 47, 2 (2) and 100 — Execution "consigned for default" in payment of process-fee—No question relating to execution, discharge or satisfaction of decree, held determined —Order held did not amount to decree — Order is not appealable — Acquiescence does not vest lower appellate Court with jurisdiction —Matter held could be agitated in second appeal for first time. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 47. AIR 1965 All 589.

——S. 9—(Partnership Act (1932), S. 69.)—Duty of Court — Consent of defendant — Effect— No act of defendant can make a suit good which is at its inception bad and, therefore, the consent of the defendant in such a suit cannot enable the Court to pronounce a decree in favour of the plainfiffs-partners who are found to be an unregistered firm. See Partnership Act (1932), S. 69. AIR 1954 Bom 364.

——S. 9—Want of jurisdiction apparent on face of proceedings—Acquiescence by submission to jurisdiction —Proceedings are liable to be quashed by certiorari. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. 1960 Cri L J 75 = AIR 1960 J and K 29.

——S. 9—Absence of inherent jurisdiction — Consent cannot confer jurisdiction — Rule does not apply to Extra Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction of High Court. AIR 1961 Punj 87 (91) (Pt D) (Pr 20).

——S. 9—Order for delivery of possession of property in possession of mortgagee —Failure to issue notice— Waiver of no objection to jurisdiction—Effect. When forcible possession of property is taken without notice the proceedings are without jurisdiction. The want of jurisdiction in the Custodian in such a case being of an inherent nature waiver on the part of the mortgagee cannot confer any jurisdiction on the Custodian. See Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 7. AIR 1952 Raj 184.

2 (c). Jurisdiction with reference to subject matter.

——S. 9—Trade and Merchandise Marks Act (1958), Ss. 105 and 2 (e) — Suit for passing off goods — District Court of Mysore closed for vacation — Plaintiff instituting suit in High Court of Mysore — High Court if possesses ordinary original civil jurisdiction then alone it would be "District Court" within S. 2 (e)—High Court, though at apex of civil Courts, possesses no original jurisdiction in matters not expressly declared within its cognizance — It is not invested with ordinary original jurisdiction of District Court and is not competent to entertain passing off action. See Trade and Merchandise Marks Act (1958). S. 105. AIR 1965 S C 1449.

——S. 9—Erroneous decisions of inferior tribunal — Error apparent on face of record — High Court has jurisdiction to quash order though subject-matter was one which was within the jurisdiction of tribunal. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1953 Nag 148.

——Ss. 9 and 21—Jurisdiction by consent or waiver. When the Court has no inherent jurisdiction over the subject-matter of a suit, the parties cannot, by their mutual consent or waiver convert it into proper judicial process. Section 21 has no application to cases of exclusive jurisdiction. AIR 1953 Nag 136.

——S. 9 — Jurisdiction with reference to subject-matter of suit how determined stated, See Houses and Rents—Saurashtra Rent Control Act (22 of 1951), S. 12 (4). AIR 1956 Sau 58.

3. "Subject to the provisious herein contained."

——S. 9—Execution proceedings—Objection to jurisdiction — Rule as to. The objection that the Court passing the decree has no territorial jurisdiction would be barred in execution proceedings by the principle of "res judicata" embodied in S. 11 read with Expl. 4, of the Act. ——S. 9—Trustees of a temple borrowing on promissory note — Absence of necessity — Ex parte decree on the promissory note and sale in execution thereof temple property — Suit by succeeding trustees to recover properties without setting aside the sale in execution of the decree — Maintainability.

Where a communal temple was managed by three trustees who executed a promissory note in favour of one K and his assignee brought a suit on the note and obtained an ex parte decree and thereafter the defendant brought the suit properties to sale in execution of the decree and purchased the same and took delivery of possession also, in a suit by the succeeding trustees for recovery of the properties :

Held, (1) that the defendants had to establish justifying necessity for the transaction of borrowing by the trustee, i.e., they had to establish that the promissory note was supported by consideration which was utilised for a justifying necessity.

(2) That the ex parte decree was not valid and binding upon the trust as in the absence of a stipulation in the terms of the transaction making the temple properties liable for the borrowed amount, a decree could not be passed against the devaswom. (1950) 2 M L J 636, Foll.

(3) Thu trustees in suffering a decree against the temple were acting fraudulently and in collusion with the creditor.

(4) That a decree obtained against a limited owner or shebait of a mutt or a manager or trustee of a temple or charity could not bind a reversioner or a succeeding trustee without the necessary and appropriate issues raised, tried and decided in a previous suit on the same subject-matter. The question certainly could be raised or opened in a subsequent suit.

(5) That the suit to recover possession of the properties sold was properly brought and it was not necessary for the plaintiffs to seek to set aside the original sale.

(6) That the suit was not barred by Art. 12 or Art. 95 of the Limitation Act. (1952) 2 M L J 871 = 65 Mad L W 1147 = AIR 1953 Mad 624.

In the times of erstwhile Rules of Jaipur State, before an adopted son could succeed to the Jagir his adoption had to be recognised by the Ruler for purposes of succession. The power of recognising succession vested in the Rajpramukh on the integration of Jaipur in the State of Rajasthan. But this power lapsed on the coming into force of the Constitution, and the question of succession to Jagirs became purely a civil matter justiciable by the ordinary courts of the land. A validly adopted son became entitled to succeed to the Jagir on the coming into force of the Constitution without his adoption being recognised by any authority. By valid adoption is meant an adoption valid in accordance with the personal law of the adopter Jagirdar. Writ Petn. No. 187 of 1956 (Raj), Relied on. Prem Ballab Shebait v. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 151. AIR 1960 Cal 45.

——Ss. 10 and 151 — Suit for arrears of rent pending in civil Court — Application by tenant for determination of fair rent to Rent Controller—Civil suit should not be stayed. A I R 1953 Hyd 55.

——S. 10 — Suit by manager of deity for recovery of rent — Suit questioning title of manager already pending — Question in both essentially different—Stay of suit for recovery of rent cannot be granted.

It is well settled that a de facto manager of a deity can always bring a suit for money or for the realisation of rent. A suit filed by the manager of a deity for money or for realisation of rent from the tenants cannot be stayed on the ground that a previously instituted suit, in which the title of the manager is questioned, is already pending. The question involved in both the suits is essentially different. Moreover, when the tenants are not parties to the previously instituted suit and they have executed rent-deeds in favour of the manager, they cannot be allowed to go behind the terms of the rent-deed and question the title supreme in suit for rent. 1963 Kash L J 10.

—S. 10 — Suit for declaration of title and possession of land decreed in plaintiff's favour — Separate suit for future mesne profits — Suit is not barred — Stay of suit not justified. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 2 (12), O. 20, R. 12, O. 2, R. 2. A I R 1966 Madh-Pra 186.

—S. 10 — Section 4 of M. B. Muafi Inam Tenants and Sub-tenants Protection Act (32 of 1954) is not repugnant to Civil P. C See Tenancy Laws — M. B. Muafi and Inam Tenants and Sub-tenants Protection Act (32 of 1954), S. 4. AIR 1957 Madh-Bha 63.

—Ss. 10 and 151 — Stay of suit — Powers under S. 151—When can be exercised— In the instant case held, that, exercise of powers under S. 151 was essential for stay of suit. ILR (1965) Cut 533=A I R 1966 Orissa 53.

—S. 10—Stay under—What is intended to be stayed is the trial of suit challenging validity of Commissioner's order and not all proceedings—Court can pass interlocutory order of injunction for ends of justice — There is no distinction between stay under S. 10 of Civil P. C. and stay under S. 3 (1) of Orissa Hindu Religious Endowments (Amendment) Act (31 of 1947). See Orissa Hindu Religious Endowments (Amendment) Act (31 of 1947), S. 3 (1). A I R 1951 Orissa 339.

3. Ex parte decree.
4. Former suit.
5. Might and ought.
6. Parties and Representatives.
7. Litigation must be under the same title.
8. Competency of Court.
9. Heard and finally decided.

1. Scope.

—S. 11—(Arbitration Act (1940), S. 14)—Dismissal of application under S. 14 of Arbitration Act with consent—Review — Applicant seeking decree on the award through a review application—Party cannot, apart from the docrine of res judicata contained in S. 11, be allowed to apply again for a decree. See Arbitration Act (1940), S. 14. A I R 1958 All 720.

—S. 11—Applicability of principle of res judicata—Previous decision when can be reopened—Limitation on—(Evidence Act (1872), S. 115). The principle of res judicata or estoppel by record does not strictly apply to the Income-tax authorities in relation to the proceedings before them. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 5. 1956 Cri L J 712=AIR 1956 Bom 375.

—S. 11—Assessment proceedings—Principle of res judicata cannot be applied to assessment orders pertaining to different periods and based on different causes of action. (1965) 2 Mad L J 254=78 Mad L W 662=ILR (1966) 1 Mad 404=A I R 1966 Mad 220.

—S. 11 — Successive applications—Principle of res judicata— Applicability—The general principle of res judicata apart from S. 11, can be made applicable to writ applications also. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1956 Pat 182.

—S. 11—No conflict between S. 17 (2) of Administration of Evacuee Property Ordinance (27 of 1949) on the one hand and the law of limitation and the principles of res judicata. See Administration of Evacuee Property Ordinance (27 of 1949), S. 4. AIR 1960 Punj 354.

—S. 11—(Criminal P. C. (1898), S. 403)— Principle of res judicata — Applicability — Dacoity — Several persons apprehended, tried, and acquitted—After conclusion of trial two more persons connected with same dacoity and who were absconding arrested and tried separately—Finding given in the previous trial not binding in second. See Criminal Trial—Principle of res judicata. 1964 (1) Cri L J 378 = AIR 1964 All 139.

—S. 11 — Scope — Applicability—U. P. Industrial Disputes Act (1947)— Reference of dispute to labour Court is purely admininitrative decision—Principles of res judicata do not apply. See U. P. Indistrial Disputes Act (1947). (1963) 1 Lab L J 340 (All).

—S. 11— Application of principle of res judicata —Prior suit for redemption decided as time barred—Subsequent suit for redemption —Principle of res judicata will apply. See T. P. Act (1882), S. 60. AIR 1963 Mad 226.

—S. 11 — Plea of res judicata. See Evidence Act (1872), S. 44. ILR (1951) 1 Cal 168 (DB).

2. Directly and substantially in issue.

—S. 11—Issue framed in former suit not necessary for its decision—Finding on that issue cannot operate as res judicata in second suit raising the point involved in that issue.

The finding on a question in a suit cannot be considerd to be res judicata when the point involved therein arises for determination in a later suit where that decision in the earlier suit is not the basis of the judgment in that suit. A I R 1924 Mad 893 (2) and AIR 1935 Mad 551, Rel. on.

A filed a suit against B for declaration of his title to a land and possession. In that suit B pleaded in defence that the said land had been agreed to be sold to him by A and in pursuance of that agreement certain money had also been paid to A. He also averred that the dispute has been referred to arbitration. The Court therefore framed an issue as to whether there was such an agreement and a valid arbitration proceeding and if so whether they had any bearing on the suit of A and found the issue against B. But it decided the suit in favour of A by finding for him the issue of ownership and occupation on the basis of an admission made on behalf of B during the course of argument, B then brought a suit for the return of the money alleged to have been paid by him under the agreement for sale.

Held, that the finding on the issue in A's suit did not bar B's suit on the ground of res judicata. Although an issue has been framed in A's suit in that regard the suit could have been disposed of merely on the admission of the party without giving a finding whether there was a sale agreement and if so, whether any considerarion had passed between the parties in respect of the said sale agreement. The second suit filed by B for the return of the consideration on the basis of agreement for sale stated to have been executed by A proceeds altogether on a different footing and is therefore not barred by res judicata on the ground of the finding given in A's suit. (1965) 2 Andh W R 13=AIR 1966 Andh 221.

—S. 11 — Departmental inquiry—Taking action of two stages — Rule of res judicata — Applicability — The order of the proper authority censuring the public servant and making him pay certain sum in consequence of the inquiry does not operate as res judicata barring the authority taking action against him under Fundamental Rule 56 (b) (1)—See Fundamental Rules, R. 56 (b) (1). (1956) 60 Punj L R 277.

——Ss. 11, 10 — "Matter in issue" — Meaning of — The words "matter in issue" mean "the entire matter in controversy between the parties" and not one of several issues in the case — See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 10. AIR 1951 Punj 275.

● ——S. 11 — Suit for partition — Interest of one coparcener vesting in Official Receiver in insolvency pending suit — Final decree for partition directing Official Receiver to pay certain sum to another coparcener by way of owelty by sale of insolvent's property — Lien or charge over insolvent's share — Payment by Official Receiver in oursuance of direction — Subsequent decision of High Court holding that no charge was created by decree — Official Receiver was not entitled to claim back those monies — See Hindu Law—Partition. AIR 1957 S C 577.

——S. 11—Matter not in issue. AIR 1954 All 215.

——S. 11 — Reasonable rent previously assessed — Decision cannot be res judicata as regards rent actually payable — Rent actually payable held was known — See Houses and Rents — West Bengal Premises Rent Control (Temporary Provisions) Act (17 of 1950), S. 9. AIR 1953 Cal 782.

——S. 11 — Matters in issue in two suits different—A suit for possession of the plaintiff's share after partition is not barred by dismissal of his prior suit for recovery of specific plot of land based on his exclusive title. AIR 1955 N U C (Mad) 2413.

——S. 11—Res judicata—Former petition for divorce on ground of sodomy — Subsequent petition setting up adultery, desertion and cruelty — Latter petition is barred by res judicata regarding sodomy or attempt at sodomy but not regarding adultery and cruelty — See Divorce Act (1869), S. 10. AIR 1953 Mad 792.

——S. 11 — Annual tenant — Meaning—Decision in previous suit that tenant was annual tenant — Res judicata — Tenant of antiquity — Held on facts that the decision in the previous suit was not res judicata — See Berar Land Revenue Code (1928), S. 73 (1), Proviso. AIR 1953 Nag 40.

——S. 11—No trial of issue—The judgment will not operate as 'res judicata' on that issue in subsequent case. AIR 1953 Trav-Co 450.

——S. 11, O. 22, R. 5—Matters collaterally in issue—Question whether certain person is legal representative of deceased plaintiff under O. 22, R. 5 — Question can operate as res judicata. AIR 1951 Pat 537.

● ——S. 11 — Fixation of standard rent — Second application after change of circumstances — Whether barred — A second application may be barred by res judicata or principles analogous thereto, but for that the material circumstances must remain the same. The bar would not apply in altered or changed circumstances — See Houses and Rents — West Bengal Premises Rent Control (Temporary Provisions) Act (17 of 1950), S. 17 (2). AIR 1961 Cal 432 (FB).

3. Ex parte decree.

——Ss. 11 and 13 — Suit in India on ex parte foreign judgment on promissory note and in alternative on promissory note — Ex parte decree set aside and suit restored — Suit in India allowed to be dismissed — Fresh suit in India on judgment in restored suit in foreign Court—No relief on promissory note—Suit if barred. AIR 1958 Ker 126.

——S. 11 — Ex parte order settling fair and equitable rent—Subsequent suit claiming nishkar right — The ex parte order does not preclude the tenant from proving his nishkar right in subsequent suit for declaration of such right — See Tenancy Laws — Bengal Tenancy Act (8 of 1885), S. 105. A I R 1951 Cal 45.

——S. 11 and O. 9, R. 13 — Suit to set aside ex parte decree—Decree—Effect of—Prior suit — If revived. It is extremely unreasonable to say that because the plaintiff procured a decree by a trick in not having the summons of the suit served on the defendant, he should not be permitted to establish his case after his fraud has been discovered and the decree obtained by him has been set aside. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 9, R. 13. A I R 1957 Mad 512.

4. Former suit.

——S. 11 — Interlocutory order — Order of Court holding certain document to be privileged — Order cannot be attacked at subsequent stage of the same proceedings. AIR 1951 Nag 212.

——S. 11 — Any order, either interlocutory or final in its nature passed in the presence of parties should be taken as closing the controversy once for all for the purposes of the proceeding or suit so far as it goes. The order may or may not operate as res judicata but in order to avoid multiplicity of proceedings some sort of finality limited within the scope of the suit or the proceedings in which it is passed has to be attributed to it—See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 33, R. 9. AIR 1951 Orissa 349.

——S. 11 — In writ petition A challenging recovery proceeding taken by Collector — State not pleading that they can or will seek remedy before civil Court — State is not estopped from subsequently instituting suit for recovery against A — When proceeding by Collector was without jurisdiction it was not necessary for State to oppose writ petition—It could leave High Court to quash proceeding and thereafter decide what further action to take — In writ petition High Court cannot be unduly guided by any step which other party may take or can take after decision of writ petition—Constitution of India, Art. 226. (1965) 2 I T J 740 (All).

——S. 11—Decree for ejectment—Execution—Adjustment in appeal—Res judicata —Estoppel. See Houses and Rents — U. P. (Temporary) Control of Rent and Eviction Act (1947), S. 3 (1) (a). 1958 All L J 640.

——S. 11, Expl. IV and S. 47 — Attachment before judgment —Failure to raise objection to attachment—Res judicata —Party not barred from raising the same in execution. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 47. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 99.

——S. 11—Non-deposit of stamp within time — Sale confirmed on compromise — Effect—Judgment-debtor's application to set aside execution sale on ground of failure to deposit amount for stamp for sale certificate — Application dismissed — Matter cannot be re-agitated by judgment-debtor. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 21, R. 85 (Mad). AIR 1953 Mad 929.

——S. 11—Proceedings under S. 145, Criminal P. C.—Decision on basis of special oath — Conclusive character of — If res judicata in subsequent civil suit on title — Evidence given on special oath — Value of in subsequent suit — The result of the order made on Special Oath does not bar a suit in civil Court, to establish his right to the property concerned in those proceedings. See Oaths Act (1873), S. 8. AIR 1951 Pat 370.

——S. 11 and O. 21, R. 22 — Omission to sign or verify application — Execution application signed by decree-holder's lawyer but not verified is in accordance with law if acted upon by Court— Subsequent application — Notices under O. 21, R. 22, Civil P. C. served on judgment-debtor—No objection that application was barred by limitation — He is precluded from raising such objection in still later execution application. See Limitation Act (1908), Art. 182 (5). AIR 1966 Raj 44.

——Ss. 11, 48—"Fresh application"—Execution petition within 12 years from decree not containing prayer for attachment — Petition for attachment after 12 years for including prayer for attachment—Petition held to be fresh application and barred. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 48. AIR 1957 Trav-Co 194.

●——S. 11—Execution proceedings —Matter in issue different—No res judicata. AIR 1952 Trav-Co 333 (FB).

——S. 11 — Compromise decree—One of the parties breaking terms of compromise — Effect on question of res judicata. AIR 1955 All 665.

——S. 11 and O. 23, R. 3 — "Lawful agreement"—Decree passed in terms of compromise against B father of deceased defendant — B not objecting to term relating to personal liability or continuation of attachment — No appeal filed against order — B must be deemed to have waived objections and would be estopped from pleading in execution that decree should be construed as one not creating personal liability against him. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 23, R. 3. AIR 1953 Mys 153.

——S. 11—Plea of decree being nullity not having been signed by judge who pronounced judgment raised in second appeal against decree in supplementary grounds—Dismissal of second appeal—Same plea raised in execution second appeal is barred by res judicata. Obiter. (The plea was however decided on merits.) ILR 44 Pat 742 = 1965 BLJR 628.

●——S. 11 — Proceedings under S. 488 of Calcutta Municipal Act (1923) — Corporation not asking for demolition but that relief can be claimed under S. 363 of that Act — There is no question of application of constructive res judicata. ●——S. 11, Expl. IV — Mortgage of inalienable property—Decree passed without objection by mortgagor on the ground of inalienability — Plea in execution—It is open to the executing Court, on being satisfied that the lands are service inam lands and therefore not saleable, to stay its hand. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 47. AIR 1960 Mad 377 (FB).

——Ss. 11, 47—Bar of suit — Award decree relating to division of properties of Aliyasanthana family — Award giving directions as to manner in which division should take place — Construction — Suit to enforce directions in award decree — If barred—The order dismissing the execution application of the plaintiff as time-barred did not operate as constructive res judicata against the suit. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 47. AIR 1960 Mys 193.

——Ss. 11 and 47—Judgment-debtor dying pending execution of decree for possession — Legal representative attacking decree as nullity — Res judicata — Remedy—The party's omission to take the objection in the execution proceedings does not bar the separate suit by the principle of constructive res judicata. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 47. AIR 1956 Pat 194.

——S. 11 — Bar of limitation not raised in previous application for execution — Plea in subsequent execution at late stage—Where in a previous execution filed more than six years after the decree, the judgment-debtor did not raise the bar of limitation under S. 11, Punjab Debtors' Protection Act, he would not be precluded by the principle of constructive res judicata or waiver and estoppel to raise that plea in the subsequent execution even at the late stage. See Debt Laws — Punjab Debtors' Protection Act (2 of 1936), S. 11. AIR 1959 Punj 521.

——S. 11 and O. 21, R. 46—Execution proceedings—Attachment of debt due to judgment-debtor without any notice to garnishee as contemplated by O. 21, R. 46—No enquiry as contemplated by O. 21, R. 46 instituted in pursuance of such attachment and garnishee not having any opportunity to dispute validity of attachment — Garnishee is not precluded from disputing validity of attachment and sale in a subsequent suit against him for recovery of the debt. AIR 1952 Trav-Co 508.

——S. 11—Relief under S. 14 of Madras Agriculturists' Relief Act (1938) — If can be claimed in execution proceedings — Substantive application if necessary — A substantive application is not necessary for a judgment-debtor to obtain the benefit of S. 14 of Madras Agriculturists' Relief Act—It is sufficient if the debtor raises the objection based on S. 14 of the said Act in his counter affidavit in the execution petition and his objection must be upheld. See Debt Laws — Madras Agriculturists' Relief Act (4 of 1938), S. 14. AIR 1953 Mad 548.

——S. 11, Expln. 4—Might and ought.

Plaintiff suing in a representative capacity is not bound to include his individual rights. AIR 1951 Mad 285.

——S. 11—Might and ought — Identity of subject-matter.

On facts held that the plaintiff as defendant in the previous suit was bound to defend the suit on all the grounds available to him and the present suit was barred by res judicata. AIR 1953 Nag 19.

——S. 11, O. 20, R. 12 and O. 34, R. 7 — Defendant purchasing lands including lands given in 'zarpeshgi' to predecessor-in-interest of plaintiffs — Defendant filing suit for redemption and obtaining decree—Before suit plaintiffs kept out of possession of "zarpeshgi" lands by defendant for certain period—Suit by plaintiffs for mesne profits for such period — Suit held was not barred by "res judicata" because of plaintiffs' failure to press their claim for mesne profits in redemption suit as such claim could not have been added to principal amount in redemption suit — Plaintiffs held were entitled to compensation and not mesne profits. AIR 1953 Pat 220.

——S. 11, Explanation — Applicability — Suit for possession of premises — Eviction on ground of personal requirement—Essentials—Bar of res judicata — When applies — Houses and Rents — Delhi Rent Control Act (59 of 1958), S. 39.

In order that a plea might be barred on the principle embodied in Expln. 4 to S. 11, it must be one which not only "might" have been raised in the former suit but "ought" to have been raised therein. In the case of a landlord not wanting to occupy the premises for himself at the time of the institution of an earlier suit it cannot be said that he "'ought" to have raised the plea. A landlord may have a very limited accommodation and yet his circumstances may not permit him to shift to his own house or he may not like to shift. It cannot, in those circumstances, be said that the plea of bona fide requirement was one which "ought" to have been raised.

Where a landlord sues for possession on the plea of personal requirement, the basis of the plea is two-fold (1) that the landlord has either insufficient accommodation or no accommodation available and (2) he wants to occupy his house. Unless both the elements are present at the time of the institution of the former suit the applicability of the principle of constructive res judicata does not arise. 1964 P L R 1005, Ref. 1965 Pun L R (Sup) 172.

● ——S. 11—Amending Act XXII of 1951—Effect of.

As there was no change of law, the applicability of the principle of constructive res judicata to an objection in execution under S. 17 of Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950) that the property was evacuee property and could not be sold will not be excluded for that reason if on the facts of the case that can be invoked. ——S. 11—Application under S. 235, Companies Act (1913) — Death of respondent during proceedings — Right of suit against legal representatives of deceased.

In proper cases the Official Liquidator can institute a regular suit against the legal representatives or heirs of a deceased director. The mere fact that the person against whom proceedings have been lawfully taken under S. 235 of the Companies Act of 1913 dies during the proceedings (but who is not exonerated) would not take away the right of the Official Liquidator to proceed against his legal representatives in cases where the right to sue survives. The principle of res judicata will not apply in such cases. Though the principle of actio personalis moritur cum persona has been inflexibly applied in regard to all actions based on tort, the profits arising from a wrong done by a deceased person can be followed against his estate where such profits take the shape of property of the proceeds or value of property withdrawn from the rightful owner and acquired by the wrongdoer. Where a director of a company is guilty of misconduct in sanctioning a loss fraudulently and in violation of the rules, a suit against him by the company for compensation is not one merely for tort committed, but is one for breach of fiduciary obligation towards the company and therefore the right to sue survives on his death against his legal representatives. (1965) 1 Comp L J 1=A I R 1966 Mad 247.

Decision of the Revenue Court on the question whether the tenant is in arrears of rent or not being only incidental to the exercise of its jurisdiction to grant eviction cannot operate as res judicata in subsequent suit for recovery of arrears of rent. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 9. AIR 1961 Mad 423.

—S. 11 — Date of lease disputed — Jurisdiction of Collector to act. The decision of the Collector will not be conclusive and may be open to challenge before a superior Court or before a Civil Court. See Tenancy Laws—Orissa Estates Abolition Act (1 of 1952), S. 5 (i). AIR 1958 Orissa 197.

—S. 11—Principle of res judicata — Applicable in a suit before the Rent Control Authority under the M. P. Accommodation Control Act (21 of 1955), S. 9.

The principle of res judicata is much wider than the terms of the section and therefore, recourse may properly be had to the general principles of estoppel by record. Consequently, the judgment and decree of a Civil Court, if given in a suit decided earlier, shall operate as res judicata in the suit before the Rent Control Authority under S. 9 (4) of the M. P. Accommodation Control Act (23 of 1955). 59 I A 247 and ILR 1947 Nag 691, Rel. on. ILR (1963) M P 347.

——S. 20—Carriage by Railway.

Where a railway impleaded as defendant in the suit is owned by the Central Government and is represented by the Governor-General-in-Council the latter cannot be said to voluntarily reside or carry on business or personally work for gain in carrying on the administration of the Railway. See Presidency Small Cause Courts Act (1882), S. 18 (c). AIR 1951 Cal 37.

——S. 20 — Agreement to sue only in one out of several competent Courts—Validity.

Although an agreement confining the parties to have recourse to only one of the several competent Courts may not be within the mischief of S 28 of the Contract Act, yet, it is of such a nature that if permitted, it defeats the provisions of law under S 20, C. P. C. It is therefore, hit by S. 23 (2), Contract Act and being enforceable thereunder cannot be pleaded in bar of action in one of such Courts — See Contract Act (1872), S. 23 (2). The principle which would be applicable to commercial corporations does not apply to the Government. See Displaced Persons (Institution of Suits) Act (57 of 1948), S. 4. AIR 1951 Punj 92.

——S. 20 — Jurisdiction of Court.

Section 4 of the Indian Independence Pakistan Courts (Pending Proceedings) Act did not expressly bar the jurisdiction of the Court which were otherwise competent to take cognizance of the suit by vtrtue of S. 20, Civil P. C. See Indian Independence Pakistan Courts (Pending Proceedings) Act (9 of 1952), S. 4. AIR 1961 Raj 162.

——S. 20 — Agreement — Acknowledgment to pay interest — Suit if can be dismissed — Maintainability.

If there is a stipulation to pay interest, there is agreement, and a suit based on a document embodying the agreement cannot be dismissed as not maintainable on the ground that it was based only on an acknowledgment. See Contract Act (1872), S. 2 (e). AIR 1958 Raj 260.

●——S. 20 (c) — Cause of action arising in native State against non-resident foreigner — Decree—Execution.

As the cause of action arose in Vala, and the Civil Procedure in Vala and British India was the same Vala Court will have jurisdiction to entertain and decide the suit against non-resident foreigner. — See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 13 (a). AIR 1953 Sau 16 (FB).

——S. 21 — Want of jurisdiction — Objection—Rule as to — Applicapility to execution proceedings.

The objection that the Court passing the decree had no jurisdiction would be barred in execution proceedings by the principle of res judicata. But the general rule is subject to well defined exceptions, two of them being S. 21 and S. 11, Suits Valuation Act. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 11. AIR 1955 All 569.

See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 24. AIR 1960 Pat 244 (FB).

——Ss. 21, 38 — Executing Court — Power to go behind decree — Objection relating to territorial jurisdiction.

The executing Court can refuse to execute a decree where want of jurisdiction of a Court is apparent on the face of the record, because such a decree is null and void and incapable of execution. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 38. AIR 1959 Pat 484.

●——S. 22—Section 22 of the Code provides for the transfer of a suit to another Court when a suit which could be instituted in any one of two or more Courts is instituted in one of such Courts. In view of the provisions of this section, it was open to the respondent to apply for the transfer of the suit at Asansol to the Indore Court and, if the suit had been transferred to the Indore Court, the two suits could have been tried together. It is clear, therefore, that the Legislature had contemplated the contingency of two suits with respect to similar reliefs being instituted and of the institution of a suit in one Court when it could also be instituted in another Court and it be preferable, for certain reasons, that the suit be tried in that other Court. ——S. 24—City Civil Court Act (21 of 1953), S. 9—Arbitration Act (1940), S. 34—Transfer of suit sought under S. 24 or S. 9 — If purpose is to apply powers under S. 34 it will be indirect attempt to achieve what is directly forbidden by S. 34.

If a transfer of suit is sought for trial of suit in High Court there is no reason for that course of action. If on the other hand a transfer is contended for the purpose of bringing the suit in the High Court and then applying powers under S. 34 of the Arbitration Act, such an order will be an indirect attempt to achieve what is directly forbidden by the language of S. 34. Furthermore this will be a transfer not for the trial but for stay of suit and that is not the scope and intent of S. 9 of the City Civil Courts Act or S. 24 of the Civil P. C. Law Reports 63 I A 311, Ref. to. ('62) 66 Cal W N 1078.

—S. 24 — Transfer of suit — Although High Court need not give any reasons, it has to use restraint in exercising the power to transfer suit.

In the absence of a properly constituted application High Court should not exercise its supervisory jurisdiction. Although the High Court need not give any reasons for suo motu exercise of its jurisdiction for transferring a case, where the only motive is that the petitioner wants an order under S. 34 of the Arbitration Act the High Court will not use its power as such exercise of power will be abusing the power which the High Court possesses and the strength of power lies in the restraint of use. ——S. 35 — Costs — Computation of — No vested right as to calculation of costs in a particular manner or under particular rules — Rules as to Advocate's fees — Applicability — Whether Hyderabad High Court Rules, 1954 or A. P. High Court Rules (extended to Telangana area by Notification d/- 16-8-1960) would apply while taxing Advocate's fee.

It is manifest that S. 35, Civil P. C., leaves the award of costs entirely to the discretion of the Court, but this discretion which has to be judicially exercised, is however controlled by such condition and limitations as may be prescribed in the Code and also by the provisions of any law for the time being in force. The costs contemplated by section are indeed costs of suits and all applications in suits. In fact, the words "incident to all suits" used in the section are wide enough to cover costs incurred by a party even before the filing of the suit provided they are naturally and intimately connected with the suit. The award of costs being discretionary, which discretion has to be exercised at the time of passing the final order, it cannot be said that a litigant has vested right in matter of costs for a specific amount, unless of course any provision of law for the time being in force confers on him an indefeasible right thereto. This discretion, having regard to its wide amplitude, should be deemed to extend to disallowance of costs to the successful party and even making him to pay to the losing party and to apportion the costs between the parties. This again negatives the theory of vested rights. But the discretion is controlled by the provisions of any law for the time being in force. In other words, if any particular law which is in force at the time makes a provision that the costs should be awarded in a particular manner or should not be awarded at all, that cannot be ignored and the award will be made accordingly.

The expression "any law for the time being in force" contemplates the law which was in force when the award of costs had to be made by the Court. Such being the case only the Andhra Rules which were in force at the time would be taken into consideration and not the old Hyderabad Rules while taxing the advocate's fee which is included in the costs awarded by the Court. Since there is no provision in the notification extending the Andhra Rules for the continued application of the Telangana Rules to the pending cases, the Andhra Rules extended under notification to the Telangana area would be made applicable and the advocate's fee will be taxed accordingly. ILR (1965) Andh Pra 68.

——S. 35—Solicitor— Costs — Lien—Costs incurred by Solicitor for his client — Right to recover — Lien and charging order —(High Court Rules and Orders —Bombay High Court Original Side Rules, Rule 1079.)

The principles with regard to the rights of a Solicitor in Bombay as regards recovery of his costs are these : (1) a solicitor is entitled to proceed against his own client for the costs to which the Solicitor is entitled in respect of the work done by him for his client. One of the facilities that the Court affords him is that he need not file a suit against his client to recover his costs but he can get a pay order from the Chamber Judge which he can execute as a decree; (2) the right to what is known as the common law lien. A Solicitor has at common law, and apart from any order of the Court or statute a lien over property recovered or the proceeds preserved of any judgment obtained for the client, by his exertions; and (3) the right to obtain what is in short called a charging order. A solicitor is entitled to apply to the Court for an injunction against his client, restraining the client from receiving payment without notice to himself, or if the fund is in Court for an order for payment there out of his costs. A charging order follows upon a declaration of lien. (S) AIR 1955 Bom 126 and AIR 1927 Bom 542 and ILR 10 Bom 248, Rel. on. 60 Bom L R 999 = AIR 1959 Bom 162.

——S. 35 — Costs incurred for client — Charging order when can be made.

Normally it is the client who has to pay the cost of his own solicitor even when a judgment or decree has been in favour of that client for his costs of the litigation which resulted in such judgment or decree. But cases arise where the solicitor may apprehend that he may not succeed in recovering costs from his own client, not only from his client's own funds and properties, if any, but even from the amount awarded to his client under the judgment or decree if once the client recovers the same. It is to meet such an eventuality that the necessity of declaring the solicitor's lien or granting a charging order arises. The whole object of the lien is, therefore, to intercept the amount payable under the judgment or decree before it reaches the hands of his client. Such orders are made before the judgment-debtor has actually paid over the amount or if the judgment-debtor has parted with the amount, the amount is a fund in Court or is deemed to be a fund in Court, but if that amount has actually reached the hand of the client, there could not be any question of declaring a lien thereon or giving a charging order thereon. In such an event the solicitor must obtain a pay order and execute the same against his client and attach the said amount in the hands of the client like any other moneys or properties of his client. The use of the word "lien" in the case of a solicitor's particular or common law lien is a misnomer, because such a lien of the solicitor is not based on any possession by the solicitor, but even then such so-called lien, which really is an equitable interference by the Court, must of necessity be applicable only to cases where the fund has not reached the hands of the client. The provisions of Ss. 3, 4, 13 of the Bengal, Agra and Assam Civil Courts Act (1887) provide that all Subordinate Judges having the same territorial jurisdiction are of the same position about their jurisdiction in regard to cases that may arise within their territorial jurisdiction. The position is the same in regard to Additional Subordinate Judges because he is also a Subordinate Judge.

Decree passed by the Second Additional Subordinate Judge can be taken as passed by the Subordinate Judge for purposes of its execution.

After the abolition of Court of the Second Additional Subordinate Judge, the Court of Additional Subordinate Judge was the only Court competent to maintain the execution proceedings. ILR 13 Pat 5, Rel. on; AIR 1952 Pat 4, Expl.

Though suit could not have been filed before the Additional Subordinate Judge, S. 37 of Civil P. C. makes it clear that jurisdiction to try the suit is the point to be taken into consideration for purposes of determining whether the Court would be competent to execute the decree. As the Additional Subordinate Judge had jurisdiction to try the suit it was quite competent to maintain the execution within the meaning of Ss. 37 (b) and S. 38, Civil P. —S. 64, O 38, R. 5, O. 21, R. 54 — Attachment order is effective after due promulgation and not from the time it is made—Formalities complied with —Constructive notice to all can be presumed.

It is well settled that attachment takes effect not from the date of the Court's order, but only from the date of its actual promulgation in the manner prescribed in the Code, and that where the mode prescribed is not complied with S. 64 is not attracted. It is only when both the requirements of an attachment, namely, prohibitory order and its publication in the prescribed mode, are fulfilled that a private transfer of the property attached or any interest therein is void as against all claims enforceable under the attachment.

When a property is attached in the absence of any evidence to contrary, it must be inferred that the required formalities were duly complied with. 61 IA 371, Rel. on. A I R 1961 Orissa 22 and AIR 1931 Cal 763, Foll.

The whole object of insisting on the compliance with the necessary formalities is to give notice to all persons of the attachment. In fact, it is only a constructive notice, when the formalities are complied with, so that a person who accepts a private transfer of the property cannot be heard to say that he has no knowledge of the attachment. In a suit against the Railway Administration for short delivery of the consignment of groundnut oil, the plaintiff alleged misconduct and carelessness on the part of railway staff but in notice delivered under S. 80 of Civil P. C. and also in the plaint as presented, he gave details of one kind of misconduct and negligence but he introduced another instance of negligence and misconduct, viz., deviation from the agreed route, by amendment of plaint. The point for consideration was whether notice under S. 80 which did not contain another instance of negligence and misconduct was a valid notice.

Held, that unless permissible under the law mere allegation of negligence or misconduct was not sufficient. Therefore, it was necessary to consider two questions; firstly, on whom did the burden lie to prove negligence or misconduct on the part of the railway administration or its servants; and secondly whether it was necessary for the plaintiff to give particulars of negligence or misconduct in the notice under S. 80, Civil P. C. and also in the plaint. As the agent of the consignor had mentioned in the forwarding note that the goods were liable to leakage, in view of S. 76 read with S. 74-A of the Railways Act, 1890 (before amendment of sections in 1961) the burden of proof lay on the plaintiff and not on the defendant and mere proof of loss was also not sufficient to grant him compensation. It was, therefore, necessary for the plaintiff to give particulars of negligence or misconduct in the plaint and to sufficiently state such facts in the notice under S. 80 to enable the railway administration to decide whether the plaintiff's claim should be accepted or resisted, negligence, carelessness or misconduct could be of various kinds. Some merely relate to the state of mind and others arise out of a breach of duty or contract. In a case of the present nature where the goods were to be carried by a route not agreed upon, it was not the mental condition which was of importance, but it was the breach of contract. As the loss was caused during the transhipment of tins of groundnut oil, plaintiff's suit could have been decreed if it was alleged in the notice that the goods were carried by a route other than the agreed one. It is true, the Code of Civil Procedure does not contain any express provision laying down the procedure to be followed where a foreign Ruler or a foreign State affected by a claim in a proceeding filed in Courts in this Country, claims immunity in respect of the processes of this Court. There is no provision in the Code for the foreign Government entering a conditional appearance to the suit as is provided for in the Rules of the Supreme Court in England under O. 12, R. 30 nor is there provision in the Civil P. C. for giving notice of motion for an order that the writ should be set aside on the ground that it had impleaded a foreign sovereign State. But the foreign Ruler or the foreign State directly or indirectly impleaded in the proceedings filed in a Court in India will not be left without any remedy by the absence of any specific procedure in the Civil P. C. Since laws are general rules, they cannot regulate all cases that may possibly happen. Since the Civil P. C. is not exhaustive, any particular point not specifically dealt with must be governed by general principles.

The foundation for the application to set aside the writ and all subsequent proceedings thereto is to be found in two propositions of International law. The first is that the Municipal Courts of a country will not implead a foreign sovereign, that is, they will not by their process make him, against his will, a party to legal proceedings whether the proceedings involve process against his person or seek to recover from him specitic property or damages. The second proposition of International Law is that the Municipal Courts will not by their process, whether the sovereign is a party to the proceedings or not, seize or detain any property which is his or of which he is in possession or control. There has been some difference in the practice of nations as to possible limitations of this second principle as to whether it extends to properties only used for the commercial purposes of the sovereign or to personal private property. 1938 A C 485 and (1952) 1 All E R 572 and 1955 A C 72, Rel. on.

A foreign Government is not bound as a condition of obtaining immunity to prove its title to the interest claimed, but it must produce evidence to satisfy the Court that its claim is not merely illusory nor founded on a title manifestly defective. The Court must be satisfied that conflicting rights have to be decided in relation to foreign Government's claim. When the Court reaches that point, it must decline to decide the rights and must stay the action, but it ought not to stay the action before that point is reached. 1955 A C 72 and 1958 A C 379, Rel. on. The doctrine of immunity, extends to the case of a claim for damages. 1952 A C 582 (612) and 1938 A C 485, Rel. on. It has also been extended to an action for breach of promise of marriage. (1894) 1 Q B 149, Rel. on. The doctrine of immunity has also been applied in an action claiming damages for an alleged libel in an article in a weekly newspaper published by a business of news agency. (1949) 2 All E R 274, Rel. on. Sections 86 and 87 of the Code have no relation to the principles of Private International Law based on the independence of a foreign sovereign or of a foreign State but these provisions of the Code afford an additional protection or privilege to a foreign sovereign providing immunity from being sued in the Municipal Courts of this country without previous permission of the Central Government being obtained to the institution of such suits. But this is quite apart from the principles of International law relating to sovereign immunity based on absolute independence of a foreign sovereign. A I R 1938 P C 165, Ref.; A I R 1962 S C 73, Rel. on. After the amendment of the Civil P. C. in 1951 a specific provision has been inserted in S. 86 of the Civil P. C. to the effect that the privilege conferred by the section can be waived. Absence of pleading of S. 86 does not lead to the conclusion that the immunity available under the principle of International Law has been waived by reason of omission of such pleading.

In a suit filed in a Court in India against Nepal Airlines Corporation having offices in Calcutta, for damages on account of the death of the plaintiff's husband who was a pilot, in an accident met by him in Nepal Territory while flying an aircraft, even if the Nepal Airlines Corporation, the defendant in the case had been in fact a corporate body, that would not prevent the defendant or the Ambassador of the King of Nepal from claiming sovereign immunity on behalf of the King of Nepal provided the defendant can be regarded as a Department of the State of the Government of Nepal.

Held, on materials on record that the defendant was a Department of the Government of Nepal and as such was entitled to claim immunity from the process of the Indian Court to exercise its jurisdiction in respect of the claim for damages which had been brought by the plaintiff against the defendant. Held further that there was no waiver of the immunity, or submission to the jurisdiction by the defendant Corporation, and that the Court had no jurisdiction to entertain and try the suit on the ground of sovereign immunity claimed by the defendant and the Ambassador of Nepal to the Government of India and that the Ambassador of Nepal need not necessarily be a party to the suit for the purposes of claiming the immunity. Judgment and order of Mullick, J. in Suit No. 1678 of 1961, dated 26th May 1964 (Cal.), Reversed.

Per Mitter, J. :—A foreign sovereign cannot be impleaded directly in respect of his person and property ; a suit will not lie where damages are claimed against the sovereign personally. A foreign sovereign cannot even be impleaded indirectly, viz., by a proceeding in rem against a public vessel which would include a vessel which was also used for commercial purposes.

A proceeding with the object of seizing or detaining property in the possession or control of a foreign sovereign will not be allowed to go on. A foreign Government will be allowed to intervene in such an action. So far as property used only for commercial purposes of the sovereign is concerned, although there is some difference in the practice of nations immunity is granted by the English Courts.

A suit will not lie against the agent of a foreign State where the act complained of is purported to be done as such agent. A suit will not lie against a department of a State. An incorporated body which is a juristic personality carrying on business in the country where proceedings are started against it, will be outside the "protective umbrella" of immunity.

An immunity can be claimed even when the foreign sovereign does not figure as a defendant. A notice of motion to set aside the writ based on the certificate or affidavit of the Ambassador of the foreign State to the effect that the defendant is a department of State and is not a corporation will be disposed of in favour of the applicant. The effect of incorporation under a foreign law will have to be considered by the Court on the materials presented.

If the title to property, the subject-matter of the suit, is in dispute the claim to immunity will not be given effect to before the Court is satisfied that the claim is not illusory nor founded on a title manifestly defective. 69 Cal W N 767=A I R 1966 Cal 319.

When the particular purpose for which a charitable trust is created fails or by reason of certain circumstances the trust cannot be carried into effect either in whole or in part, or where there is a surplus left after exhausting the purposes specified by the settlor, the Court will not when there is a general charitable intention expressed by the settlor, allow the trust to fail but will execute it 'cy pres', that is to say, in some way as nearly as possible to that which the author of the trust intended. In such cases, it cannot be disputed that the Court can frame a scheme and give suitable directions regarding the objects upon which the trust money can be spent. It is well established however, that where the donors' intention can be given effect to, the Court has no authority to sanction any deviation from the intentions expressed by the settlor on the grounds of expediency and the Court cannot exercise the power of applying trust property or its income to other purposes simply because it considers them to be more expedient or more beneficial than what the settlor has directed. ●——S. 92—Debutter properties—Permanent lease—Competency of Shebait to grant — Legal necessity — Value of recitals in the document — Lease called in question long after the grant.

If all the original parties to a transaction (in this case, a permanent lease of debutter property) and those who could have given evidence on the points as to the existence of legal necessity for the transaction have passed away, a recital in the relevant document consisting of the principal circumstances of the case assumes greater importance and cannot be lightly set aside.

Where the validity of a permanent lease granted by a shebait is called into question a long time after the grant, although it is not possible to ascertain fully what the circumstances were in which it was made, the Court should assume that the grant was made for necessity so as to be valid beyond the life of the grantor.

The circumstances which could be gathered from the recitals in the permanent lease together with the fact that the document had remained unquestioned for more than half a century was held to be sufficient to support the conclusion that the grant was made for legal necessity and was binding on the deity. The Commissioner in second appeal, by the rival candidate and the Malguzar of the village of Bajna, Kumaun Division, set aside the appointment of J as Ghar Padan of the said village of Bajna by the Deputy Commissioner who held on the report of the Patwari and the Naib Tahsildar that the village was a pucca khaikari one and the villagers had a right to demand the appointment of J of their choice as Ghar Padan. On revision to the Board:

Held, appointment of Lambardars and consequently of Ghar Padans and Malguzars are non-judicial proceedings so far as Kumaun Division is concerned. But the Board is empowered to call for the records of a non-judicial proceeding and pass such orders as it deems fit. Hence the Board can entertain the revision.

The question of determination of the status of a village as pucca khaikari is fairly difficult. It involves the determination of many points whether it was so included in the list of pucca khaikari villages, whether it was at the settlement of 1872 in its entirety in the possession of the whole body of khaikars and whether the other incidents were also found. Hence it could not be held to be one such on the mere report of the Patwari that the village was said to be one such and the statement of the Naib Tahsildar.

Even in a pucca khaikari village the appointment of a Ghar Padan is not essential, the villagers have no right to demand the appointment of a Ghar Padan. 1952 All L J (Rev) 219=1952 All W R (Rev) 202 = 1952 R D 357.

If a fund given to charity is not exhausted by the particular purpose specified by the donor the surplus will be applied cy pres if the donor had a general charitable intention. If no such intention is disclosed, the testator must be held to have left the surplus undisposed of. The temple was dedicated with the sole object of propagating Vaishnav cult; the succeeding Shebaits were to be Brahmacharis devoted to the work of God and were enjoined to propagate a particular aspect of Hinduism namely Vaishnavism; the income of the property was to be spent over the deity, entertainment of guests and visitors and maintenance of the Pathashala; Shebaits were restrained from alienating the temple property except for the benefit of the deity; the selection of Shebaits was to be made by thirteen persons from the public authorised in this behalf and the main criterion for the selection was the possession of necessary qualifications laid down in the deed.

Held, that on a reading of the deed as a whole in the light of the history of the institution, its object, profession of the founder and the beneficiaries thereof, there was no doubt that the intention of the founder was to dedicate the temple to the public and not to particular persons: 1957 S C J 75 : (1957) 1 Mad L J (SC) 28 : (1957) 1 Andh W R (SC) 28: AIR 1957 S C 133, Applied. 1961 B L J R 206.

——S. 92 — Public — Essence of public foundation consists in dedication to public. AIR 1955 N U C (Pat) 5963.

——S. 92 — Temple public or private endowment — Considerations.

The question whether the temple is public or otherwise depends upon evidence as to user by public. The character of the endowment is a legal inference to be proved from evidence. on a question of this description, long user by public is a material consideration from which inference of dedication to the public may be drawn. Besides user by public the conduct of the founder and his descendants is also relevant and if in fact they had held out the temple to be a public temple, very strong presumption of dedication would arise. The facts that repairs and additions in temple building are made by public subscriptions and the festivals in the temple are also performed with the aid of public funds certainly lead to the inference of the temple being a public one. 1953 B L J R 656 = AIR 1954 Pat 279 (DB).

——S. 92 — Function of Advocate General under — Nature of — Judicial or administrative—Order refusing permission to sue — Interference under Arts. 226 and 227 — The functions of the Advocate General are judicial in nature. He can refuse permission to sue. Interference under Arts. 226 & 227 is not possible. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1956 Pepsu 65.

——S. 92 — Advocate-General acting under S. 92 — Nature of his function—The function of the Advocate-General cannot be called judicial or quasi-judicial function. Hence, there is no question of revising it under Art. 227, or issuing a writ under Art. 226 of the Constitution, compelling him to do anything. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1955 Raj 166.

——S. 92—Religious endowment—Public temple.

When no tax is leviable on a public temple under the municipal rules the mere fact that a temple is levied with municipal tax would not show that the temple is a private one but only that the assessing authority has its own opinion on the matter.

Held, that the Jain temple at Nowgong was a public temple raised by subscription. AIR 1953 Vind.Pra 4.

——Ss. 107, 100 — Conclusion arrived at by trial Court without closely reading evidence — First appellate Court without going through evidence accepting trial Court's conclusion — Case liable to be remanded.

It is not open to the second appellate Court to assess the evidence one way or the other and disagree with the assessment of the first appellate Court. But it is wholly within the jurisdiction of the second appellate Court to examine if the first appellate Court keeps itself within its bounds and applies its mind properly and comes to a conclusion on materials on record i.e., if the first appellate Court exercises its jurisdiction properly vested in law under S. 107.

Hence, where the trial Court did not closely read the evidence and the first appellate Court also did not go through the evidence and mentioned that it had arrived at the same conclusion as of trial Court on scrutiny of evidence the case was liable to be remanded to the first appellate Court to go through the entire evidence carefully after hearing the parties. (1962) 2 O J D 269 = 1 Fac L R 177 = 28 Cut L T 506.

● ——S. 110—Supreme Court appeal — Court-fee — Single petition under Art. 226 of Constitution challenging various assessment orders — Appeal to Supreme Court—Court-fee.

The case originated out of one petition under Art. 226 of the Constitution challenging the validity of various assessment orders. There was only one proceeding and it could not be said that there were as many proceedings as there were assessment orders for the petitioner had by a single petition challenged them all together.

Held, that when an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court from the judgment of the High Court in such a petition, it was impossible to contend that there were more appeals than one. Therefore, the appellant before the Supreme Court was liable only to pay one set of court-fee and other charges as in a single appeal. ● ——S. 110 (3) — Constitution of India, Art. 133 (1) —Appellate Court making variation in decision of trial court either because of concession in that behalf or consent of parties — Variation does not affect character of a ppellate decree — Principle of affirmance on which provision rests postulates either affirmance or variation by appeal Court as an order of adjudication and that necessarily means decision of appeal Court on merits. AIR 1961 S C 1795.

——S. 110—Substantial question of law — Where the question is of great public importance but there is no divergence of views among High Courts, it cannot be held that a substantial question of law is involved. See Constitution of India, Art. 133 (1) (c). AIR 1956 Ajmer 71.

● ——S. 110 — Application for certificate under Art. 133 (1) of the Constitution — Prayer — Prayer must state specific provision under which certificate is asked for — Prayer in general terms not sufficient. See Constitution of India, Art. 133 (1). AIR 1959 All 572 (FB).

——S. 110—Suit instituted in 1940 — Valuation of subject-matter of appeal more than Rs. 10,000/- but less than Rs. 20,000/- — Question of vested right of appeal — No vested right of appeal — No appeal lay as of right to the Supreme Court. See Constitution of India, Art. 133. AIR 1956 All 638.

——S. 110—"Substantial question of law" — Meaning of — The words 'substantial question of law" must be given the same meaning under S. 7 (1) (a), Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tripunal) Act (1950), S. 7 (1) (a) as is given under S. 110 of Civil P. C. See Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act (1950), S. 7 (1) (a). AIR 1956 All 491.

——S. 110—Claim for share not involving partition—Question is not one with respect to whole property. See Constitution of India, Art. 133. AIR 1956 All 321.

——S. 110 — Decree of variance — A decree of variance must be one where there is variation in the substantive relief in respect of the whole or part of party's claim. See Constitution of India, Art. 133(1)(b). AIR 1955 All 680.

● ——S. 110 — "Judgment, decree or final order appealed from"—Meaning. It means not in entirety but that part of the judgment, decree or final order of the High Court which is the subject-matter of the proposed appeal. See Constitution of India, Art. 133. AIR 1952 All 942 (FB).

——Ss. 110, 109—Reference under S. 66, Income-tax Act — Decision on, is not judgment within the meaning of Art. 133 of the Constitution—Neither Art. 133 nor Ss. 109 and 110 of Civil P. C. will apply — S. 66-A(2), Income-tax Act is applicable in such cases. See Constitution of India, Art. 133. AIR 1962 Andh Pra 391.

——S. 110 — Leave to appeal — A person desiring to appeal to the Supreme Court under the Constitution in a civil matter must simultaneously make his appeal under the Civil P. C. See Constitution of India, Art. 133. AIR 1958 Cal 296.

——S. 110 — Subject-matter of dispute — Does not mean the property or the matter to which the dispute relates but means the matter over which the parties are in disagreement. See Constitution of India, Art. 133 (1) (a). AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 4509.

——S. 110 — "Amount or value of subject-matter in appeal".—Means the amount or value of the subject-matter of all disputes between the parties. See Constitution of India, Art. 133 (1). AIR 1953 Cal 509.

——S. 110—Substantial question of law—The arrangements made by the parties whether would be binding on the plaintiff is a substantial question of law. See Constitution of India, Art. 133 (b). AIR 1953 Cal 282.

——S. 110—Value of subject-matter of dispute—The dispute was whehter or not the plaintiff was entitled stitution must be interpreted in the same manner as it was done in S. 110, Civil P. C. — See Constitution of India, Art. 132. AIR 1951 Pepsu 61.

——S. 110 — Suit instituted before Constitution — Vested right of appeal — Effect of coming into force of Constitution — In regard to a judgment which is passed after the Constitution came into force the appeal is governed by Art. 133 (1) (a) and not by S. 110 of the Code — See Constitution of India, Art. 133 (1). AIR 1956 Punj 228.

——S. 110 — Substsntial question of law — Question as to special agricultural custom — No substantial question of law involved in the case for purposes of S. 110, even though the custom may be at variance with the general custom on the question. AIR 1951 Punj 293.

——S. 110 — Constitution of India, Art. 133 (1) — Difference between — Clauses of Article are independent entities — Interpretation — Earlier decisions under S. 110 — Use of — Each clause in Art. 133 (1) is marked separately and begins with "that", and stand as independent entity and not as an alternative to any portion of the next preceding clause. Therefore, many of the observations in the earlier judgments, must be read subject to this vital difference.— See Constitution of India, Art. 133 (1). A I R 1956 Raj 169.

——S. 110 — Certificate of fitness — Appreciation of approver's evidence by High Court — The question whether the High Court went wrong in placing reliance upon the approver's evidence is hardly a matter that could be made the subject-matter of an appeal to the Supreme Court — See Constitution of India, Art. 132. AIR 1951 Trav.Co 45.

——S. 110—Person over 60 years if disqualified from holding office as Judge — There is nothing in the High Court Act or in the Indian Constitution to indicate that a person who is qualified and fit to hold office as a High Court Judge would be deemed to be disqualified and unfit for the place merely because he has passed the age of sixty years — See Constitution of India, Art. 132. AIR 1951 Trav. Co 45.

——S. 111 — Appeal from order in revision of Single Judge to F. C, (S C.) does not lie — See Letters (Patent) (Pat), Cl. 31, AIR 1951 Pat 548.

——S. 112—Objection in appeal as to admissibility of evidence—No objection to the admissibility could be allowed to be raised in an appeal before the Supreme Court—See Evidence Act (1872), S. 5. AIR 1959 S C 488.

——S. 112 — High Court's power to extend time for making deposits — See Supreme Court Rules (1950), O. 12, R. 1. AIR 1956 Tripura 20.

——S. 113 — Constitution of India, Art. 133 (1) — 'Court immediately below' — Refers to Court which is subordinate to High Court — Decision of subordinate Judge reversed in appeal by a single Judge of High Court but restored by a Division Bench on Letters Patent appeal — Judgment is one of affirmance. AIR 1962 Mad 490 (DB).

——S. 113 — References under — Distinct from each other — Non-applicability of principles of abatement to reference under S. 113 read with O. 46 — Cannot make these principles non-applicable to reference under S. 18. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 18. ILR (1963) 2 Punj 442.

——S. 114 and O. 47, R. 1 — Grounds — Erroneous view of law on debatable point is not error apparent on face of record and is not ground for review. A I R 1951 Ajmer 84.

——S. 114 and O. 47, R 1—Grounds — Discovery of fresh evidence—To be a ground for review. AIR 1951 Ajmer 84.

——S. 114 — Cancellation of leave to appeal to Supreme Court—Effect—Neither review of order nor fresh application for leave is competent—In view of the provisions of S. 112 of the Code no resort can be taken either to S. 114 or O. 47 of the Code. See Supreme Court Rules (1950), O. 12, R. 3. A I R 1962 Andh Pra 245.

——S. 115 — "Case decided" meaning of—Interlocutory order. Where the Court assumes jurisdiction which it does not possess, the order will amount to "case decided" and a revision lies against it. See Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (1887), S. 25. AIR 1956 Ajmer 9.

——S. 115 — "Case decided" — Includes decision on any matter in controversy — Interlocutory orders would not be covered—No line can be drawn between what is "case decided" and what is not. AIR 1951 Ajmer 90.

——S. 115 — Case decided — Stay order under S. 10 — It can be said that there was a case decided within the meaning of this section. AIR 1952 All 940.

——S. 115 — Order rejecting pauper application is case decided — Application rejected on irrelevant consideration — It is a fit case for interference in revision. AIR 1952 All 582.

——S. 115 — Case decided—Interlocutory order.

Where a Court orders that old issues should be reframed and some fresh issues added no case is decided by the Court and no revision lies against the order. AIR 1952 All 355.

——S. 115 — "Case decided" — Mistake in interpretation of law or evidence would be no ground for interference by the revisional Court. See Bhopal and Vindhya Pradesh (Courts) Act (1950), S. 34. AIR 1956 Bhopal 25.

——Ss. 115 and 151 — Case decided — Interference — (Constitution of India, Art. 227).

High Court can interfere if there has been obvious error in procedure. AIR 1953 Sau 30.

8. Interlocutory orders.

——S. 115 — Revision under interlocutory order — Suit finally decided — Maintainability. The right to challenge interlocutory order is not taken away. See Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (1887), S. 25. AIR 1956 Ajmer 9.

——S. 115 — Interlocutory order — Order refusing to admit document in evidence — Order cannot be set aside in revision as it would cause grave injustice to the plaintiff. AIR 1951 Ajmer 72.

——S. 115—Jurisdiction—Material irregularity—Revision.

Where the lower Court can be said to have acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction with material irregularity, an application for the remission of the order is not governed by any law of limitation. See Kutch Province (Courts) Order (1948), S. 35 (1) (b). A I R 1952 Kutch 31.

——S. 115 and O. 39 R. 1 — Held, appellate Court ought not to have interfered with discretion exercised properly by trial Court in refusing to grant temporary injunction even though different view was possible on materials on record—Appellate Court, therefore, acted in exercise of its jurisdiction with material irregularity, if not in excess of its jurisdiction : Case law discussed. (1965) 2 Law Rep 521 (Mys).

——S. 115 and O. 11, R. 19 — Court having jurisdiction under O. 11, R. 19 to decide question of priviledge claimed by party upholding it after considering nature of documents—No illegality or material irregularity in arriving at conclusion — No interference in revision. AIR 1951 Nag 212.

——S. 115 — Words "illegally" and "material irregularity" — Words do not cover either errors of fact or law.

The revisional jurisdiction of High Court is circumscribed by the language of S. 115. The words "illegally" and 'material irregularity' do not cover either errors of fact or law. They do not refer to the decision arrived at but to the manner in which it is reached. The errors contemplated relate to material defects of procedure and not to errors of either law or fact after the formalities which the law prescribes have been complied with:: A I R 1957 Pat 450, Rel. on.; A I R 1938 Cal 161 and A I R 1934 Lah 563, Ref. (1964) 66 Pun L R 264.

——S. 115(c)—"May refer the point"—Failure to refer —Material irregularity. See Soldiers (Litigation) Act (1925), S. 12. AIR 1951 Punj 235.

——Ss. 115 and 151 — "Or as to which any question may arise therein" — Account books and other documents having evidentiary value—Order under R. 7(1) (a) of O. 39 in respect of such documents — Material irregularity — Order if can be passed under S. 151. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 39, R. 7 (1) (a). A I R 1958 Raj 218.

——S. 115—Material irregularity in arriving at decision—What amounts to.

Where the Court totally misunderstands the question which he was to determine in order to come to a decision in the case, there is no material irregularity. See Bhopal and Vindhya Pradesh (Courts) Act (41 of 1950), S. 34 (1) (a). AIR 1955 Vindh Pra 42.

14. Failure to exercise jurisdiction.

——S. 115 and O. 21, R. 90 — Powers of High Court —Where Lower Court properly considers relative evidence and finds that there was no fraud on the part of execution creditor, the High Court cannot interfere — But held on facts that question of fraud was not properly disposed of involving as it did failure to exercise jurisdiction and vested by law (and therefore High Court interfered). 59 C W N 1082, Rel. on. ILR (1962) 2 Cal 210.

——S. 115 — Refusal to exercise jurisdiction — The High Court would interfere in revision. A I R 1953 Cal 94.

——S. 115—Erroneous decision not followed by exercise of jurisdiction—Revision.

No revision can be entertained. See Kutch (Province) Courts Order (1948), S. 35. A I R 1953 Kutch 16.

——S. 115 — Jurisdiction — Failure to exercise. The High Court will be justified in interfering. See Limitation Act (1908), S. 5. (1965) 2 Mad LJ 107=78 Mad L W 250.

15. Objection raised for first time in revision.

——S. 115 — Objection that notice of date of hearing not given raised for first time in revision before High Court — Objection disallowed. See Arbitration Act (1940), S. 30. AIR 1964 All 231.

——S. 115 — Suit for ejectment — It is for defendant tenant to contend and show before the Rent Controller that under the order his lease was extended — Defendant cannot raise the contention for the first time in revision. See Houses and Rents—Kutch Houses Rent Control Order. AIR 1952 Kutch 13.

——S. 115—New plea in revision — Cannot be raised for the first time. See Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (1887), S. 25. AIR 1955 Mad 555.

16. Error of law or fact.

——S. 115 — Cultivatory lessee — Right to redeem — (Debt Laws — U. P. Agriculturists Relief Act (2 of 1939), S. 12) — (Civil P. C. (1908), S. 115 — Error of of law). See T. P. Act (1882), S. 91 (1) (a). A I R 1955 All 610.

——S. 115—Order to deposit rent — Order of Munsif was legal and there was no error of law or jurisdiction—The discretion was correctly exercised in favour of tenant. See Houses and Rents — Bihar Buildings (Lease, Rent and Eviction) Control Act (3 of 1947), S. 11-A. AIR 1958 Pat 103.

——S. 115 — Error of law not affecting the jurisdiction of the Election Commissioner to decide the matter and no revision lies. AIR 1951 Pat 209.

17. Application for revision or appeal.

——S. 115—Application in revision— If vested right. There is no authority for the proposition that an application in revision stands on the same footing as an appeal and that both are vested rights which can be taken away by enactment or necessary intendment. See Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (1887), S. 25. AIR 1958 All 409 (FB).

——S. 115—Time barred appeal — Refusal to extend time — Appeal dismissed but decree not drawn up — Revision — Competency — Conversion to appeal. The revision filed in the High Court cannot be treated as appeal. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 41, R. 1. AIR 1959 Tripura 6.

18. Decisions as to court-fee.

——S. 115 — "Marries again" — Suit by second wife for maintenance—Second wife cannot claim separate maintenance because in her case husband has not "married again" — Leave to appeal rightly refused—Order rejecting petition and demanding court-fee held legal. See Hindu Married Women's Right to Separate Residence and Maintenance Act (1946), S. 2 (4). AIR 1955 NUC (All) 3549.

——S. 115—Order demanding additional court-fee—No revision can lie against it. See Court-fees Act (1870), S. 6A. AIR 1952 All 644.

——S. 115— Revision — Order requiring payment of additional court-fee is revisable. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 149. AIR 1953 Madh-Bha 81.

——S. 115—Decision as to Court-fee — Interference.

Interference in Civil Revision at the instance of defendant is not permissible if it concerned merely a question of payment of less court-fee. If, however, by a wrong determination of the valuation of the suit a Court illegally exercised jurisdiction which it had not, the order is liable to be quashed under the section, even though as a result of such interference the plaintiff might be called upon to pay higher court-fee. AIR 1961 S C 1299, Foll. (1966) 32 Cut L T 434=ILR (1965) Cut 946.

——S. 115 — Question as to valuation of court-fee cannot be canvassed in revision — S. 12, Court-fees Act (1870) also does not entitle party to invoke High Court's revisional power against decision as to valuation. Court-fees Act (1870), S. 12. AIR 1961 S C 1299 and AIR 1959 Punj 629, Foll. (1964) 66 Pun L R 264.

——S. 115—Order demanding additional court-fee. An order demanding additional court-fees is revivable under S. 115, as in such cases there is a refusal to exercise jurisdiction in the matter and try the case on the merits unless additional court-fee demanded is paid. AIR 1951 Punj 238.

Per Chakravarti C. J.—"For sometime past we have been noticing with a feeling of distress the growing carelessness exhibited by Solicitors of this Court in preparing petitions and paper-books. Petitions are hardly ever revised, with the result that innumerable typing mistakes remain uncorrected and the papers are handed up to the Court in a condition which makes it difficult to follow their contents. Proofs of paper-books are hardly ever read. And if the papers are handed over to the Court in such a condition, the special reason for maintaining a particular class of legal practitioners whose duty and privilege is only or mainly to act would seem to disappear." 60 Cal W N 840=AIR 1956 Cal 630.

1. Inherent power.
A. Applicability and scope.
B. Who can exercise.
C. When can be exercised.

1-A. Applicability and scope.

——S. 151 — Application for permission to furnish security — When to be made — Actual direction of Court — If to be previous to such application — Failure of Court to give direction at proper time— The Court should exercise the powers under the section to mitigate hardships. See Provincial Small Cause Courts Act (1887), S. 17 (1), Proviso. A I R 1960 All 612.

——S. 151 — Contempt proceedings — Nature of— Order awarding costs in—Enforcement of—Jurisdiction—Power of District Magistrate to recover—Contempt proceedings are neither civil nor criminal but sui generis and an order awarding costs cannot be enforced under either of the Codes. But under the authority of the High Court they get invested with the power to do so. See Contempt of Courts Act (1952), S. 1. A I R 1956 All 79.

——S. 151—"Same cause of action" — Interpretation of—Application under the section could not be said to have been founded on the same cause of action on which suit under Rule 63 was founded. See Limitation Act (1908), S. 14 (1). A I R 1956 All 5.

——S. 151—Interference with orders under inherent powers — Court held had authority to pass order under the section which could not be interfered with under S. 115. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 115. A I R 1954 All 43.

——S. 151, O. 6, R. 17 — Proceedings under S. 87, Madras Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Act (19 of 1951)—Civil P. C. does not apply—Principle underlying O. 6, R. 17 will however apply. (1965) 2 Andh W R 503=1965 Mad L J (Cri) 904= A I R 1966 Andh Pra 33.

——S. 151—Court has no inherent power to sanction refund of court-fee apart from matters mentioned in Ss. 63 to 66. See Andhra Court-fees and Suits Valuation Act (7 of 1956), S. 63. A I R 1965 Andh Pra 395.

——S. 151 — Power of Court to remove a party to suit from possession of property or to direct receiver to remove him and take possession — Court has inherent power to appoint receiver. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 40, R. 1 (1) (d). A I R 1965 Andh Pra 143.

——S. 151—Application for transfer of suit — Maintainability — Applicability of Ss. 24 and 151 of Civil P. C. See Madras Civil Courts Act (3 of 1873), S. 4-A. (1959) 2 Andh W R 301.

——S. 151 — Reference under S. 66 (2) and (7) of Income-tax Act (1922) — Stay of collection of tax— Powers of High Court — Inability to pay if ground for stay—High Court has power to order stay collection of Income-tax arrears. However mere inability to pay is not sufficient ground for such stay order. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 66 (2). A I R 1957 Andh Pra 672.

——S. 151 — Power under — High Court has ample power to vary the order in proper circumstances in order to grant relief and do justice between the parties. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 11. A I R 1954 Andhra 40.

——S. 151 — Suit for damages in respect of injuries caused to plaintiff by defendant's rash driving— Defendant insured against third party risk — Notice to Insurance Company—Defendant outside India and not likely to defend suit—Insurance company's right to leave to defend in name of defendant — Inherent powers. See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 96. A I R 1955 Bom 39.

——S. 151 — Certificate Officer attaching money in hands of executing Court—Application raising question of priority—Applicability—Import of S. 151 not necessary. See Bengal Public Demands Recovery Act (3 of 1913), Rules under, R. 22, Proviso. A I R 1956 Cal 26.

——S. 151 — Claim for refund of excess amount of rent—When maintainable. See Houses and Rents— West Bengal Premises Rent Control (Temporary Provisions) Act (17 of 1950), S. 7. (1956) 60 Cal W N 867.

——S. 151 — Prevention of multiplicity of suits — (Specific Relief Act (1877), S. 54). A I R 1952 Cal 347.

——S. 151—Removal of suits—High Court has very wide discretion — Where the Court comes to a conclusion that the applicant feels that he is not likely to get a fair trial, Court must transfer the case. See Letters Patent (Cal.), Cl. 13. A I R 1951 Cal 286.

——S. 151 and O. 39, Rr. 1 and 2 — "Or other injury of any kind"—Execution of decree cannot be held to amount to committing an injury. A I R 1955 N U C (Madh Bha) 4328.

——S. 151 — Inherent power — Extent and limit — The section does not confer any new powers on Courts but only saves their inherent powers. These powers cannot be extended to make a new law on the subject. See Companies Act (1956), S. 283. AIR 1960 Mad 482.

——Ss. 151, 145 — Inherent powers of Court—Even if S. 145 will not apply, the Court has ample jurisdiction in its inherent power to enforce the bond by way of execution in the same proceeding. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 145. AIR 1960 Mad 324.

——S. 151 and O. 41, R. 6 — Petition filed only under S. 151 — Petitioner can rely on O. 41, R. 6, if it will help him. AIR 1958 Mad 366.

——S. 151 — (Partition Act (1893), S. 2) — Coparcenary house not impossible of reasonable division— No demand by more than half of coparceners for sale — Order for sale of house was cancelled and direction to divide house was given. See Partition Act (1893), S. 2. AIR 1955 NUC (Mad) 900.

——S. 151 — Probate proceedings — Appointment of receiver during pendency. See Succession Act (1925), S. 247. AIR 1951 Mad 393.

——S. 151 — Acceptance of next friend and appointment of guardian — Distinction — Continuation of next friend — Rule as to — The Court should act under the inherent powers. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 32, R. 3. AIR 1959 Mys 157.

——S. 151 — Power of High Court, indicated. See Debt Laws — Mysore Agriculturists' Relief Act (18 of 1928), S. 4. AIR 1955 NUC (Mys) 1237.

——S. 151 — Consequential orders to give effect to compromise — Jurisdiction of Court to pass. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 23, R. 3. AIR 1951 Pat 299.

——S. 151 — Inherent power to restrain party from proceeding before another tribunal. AIR 1951 Pat 224.

——S. 151, O. 1, R. 10—Necessary and proper parties. AIR 1951 Punj 318.

——S. 151 — Certificate under R. 12 of the Privy Council Rules — Cannot be cancelled or withdrawn by the High Court under S. 151 or O. 47, R. 1, Civil P. C. See Privy Council Rules, 1920, R. 12. AIR 1951 Punj 43.

——S. 151 — (Jaipur Hindu Law of Inheritance (Amendment) Act (1945), S. 2) — No retrospective effect — Transposing defendant as plaintiff. See Jaipur Hindu Law of Inheritance (Amendment) Act (30 of 1945), S. 2. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 293.

——S. 151 and O. 14, R. 2 — Inherent jurisdiction of Court to decide one question first. AIR 1953 Sau 30.

——S. 151 — Power of Court — Exercise of on behalf of defendant is within the jurisdiction of the Court. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 39, R. 1. AIR 1957 Trav-Co 286.

——S. 151 — "Possession" meaning of — Application by stranger before dispossession — Maintainability — Inherent power. In the instant case there is no scope for resorting to the inherent powers. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 21, Rr. 97 to 100. AIR 1955 Trav-Co 225.

1-B. Who can exercise.

——S. 151 — Order of D. C. directing name of certain person to be entered in Mutation Ragister as "Shebait" — Competency of successor D. C. to vacate order — He would be justified in invoking his inherent powers under the section. See Assam Land and Revenue Regulation (1 of 1886), S. 151. AIR 1951 Assam 45.

——S. 151 — Inherent jurisdiction—The Court would not hesitate to exercise its inherent jurisdiction under S. 151 by restoring possession and allowing mesne profits in the interest of justice. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 21, R. 101. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 5567.

——S. 151, O. 20, R. 18 — Preliminary decree in partition suit — Delivery warrant returned with shera that warrant was duly executed—Final decree passed — Subsequent application alleging that shera was false — Jurisdiction of the trial Court to enquire into genuineness of shera — Trial Court can enquire into the genuineness of the shera on the warrant. AIR 1957 Mys 71.

——S. 151—Application for stay before filing written statement but after taking various steps in suit — Interference for ends of justice. High Court could interfere with the order passed by the trial Court. See Arbitration Act (1940), S. 34. AIR 1964 Pat 542.

——S. 151 — Appellate authority certifying standing orders — Correction of clerical mistake — Inherent powers — The rule that every Court must be deemed to possess the inherent powers, which applies to all Courts cannot apply to an Appellate authority under the Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act. See Industrial Employment (Standing Orders) Act (20 of 1946), S. 6. AIR 1958 Pat 427.

——S. 151 — Compensation money paid in contravention of S. 31 (2), Land Acquisition Act — Jurisdiction of District Judge to order refund of compensation money from claimants before hearing reference — The District Judge has no power either under the Land Acquisition Act or S. 151 of Civil P. C. to direct collector to realise the compensation money. See Land Acquisition Act (1894), S. 18. AIR 1956 Pat 360.

——S. 151 — Commission — Question of law — Application under by party to reference to obtain directions and opinion on question from Court issuing commission does not lie. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 26, R. 1. AIR 1960 Punj 430.

——S. 151—Power of Collector.

The Collector to whom a decree is transferred for execution under S. 68 of the Code, or any person to whom such authority may in law be delegated by the Collector, can dismiss an execution petition as well as restore it in the exercise of his inherent powers under the section. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 270.

1-C. When can be exercised.

——S. 151; O. 21, R. 100 (1)—"Such property"—Meaning of—Means property covered by the decree—When all the circumstances leading to the dispute are not known the High Court in revision will not be justified in interfering with the order of the lower Court. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 21, R. 100(1). AIR 1961 Assam 79.

——S. 151—Practice — Technicalities of procedure—No undue importance should be given. See Practice. AIR 1956 Bhopal 9.

——S. 151—Eviction of tenant — Compensation — Amount determined ex parte by Controller — Appeal by tenant to re-hear question of compensation — Refusal — Validity — Interference by High Court — Controller is not entitled to make his own assessment of the compensation without finding that the landlord and tenant are unable to reach an agreement regarding compensation — Such an assessment being contrary to law, is a fit case for interference by High Court in exercise of its revisional powers. See Tenancy Laws — Calcutta Thika Tenancy Act (2 of 1949), S. 27. I L R (1962) 1 Cal 125.

——S. 151, O. 39, R. 1—Inherent power—When and how should be exercised—Injunction pending pauper application under inherent powers — Form of — An order restraining step-mother from selling any property without the permission of the Court till the disposal of the suit held was eminently reasonable one. AIR 1951 Cal 357.

——S. 151—Inherent powers cannot be invoked to grant temporary injunction. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 94(c). AIR 1959 Ker 45.

——S. 151, O. 14, R. 2, O. 15, R. 3 — Trial of some issues first — The Court has power to determine any particular issue first, if it considers to be convenient and beneficial to the conduct of the case. AIR 1955 N U C (Madh Bha) 3711.

——S. 151—Court has got inherent power to set aside sale on ground of material irregularity or fraud, even though petitioner had locus standi or not to file application for setting aside the sale. 78 Mad L W 498= (1965) 2 Mad L J 197=AIR 1966 Mad 84 (b).

——S. 151—Deliberate withdrawal of application—Applicant cannot be permitted to press it again for no obvious or no clear reason. AIR 1955 N U C (Mys) 1840.

——S. 151 and O. 14, R. 2—Question as to jurisdiction—When can be decided as preliminary issue. AIR 1953 Sau 30.

——S. 151 — Preliminary decree passed — Suit dismissed for default — Legality — The order is without jurisdiction and is, therefore, a nullity. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 9, R. 8. AIR 1957 Trav-Co 197.

2. Court cannot override express provisions of law.

——S. 151—Justice, equity and good conscience—Principles of, cannot be invoked by Court when there are statutory provisions governing the matter—(Practice). 1956 Andh W R 1082=I L R (1956) Andh Pra 1076= AIR 1957 Andh Pra 981 (985) (Pt D) (Pr 16) (DB).

——S. 151—Suit—Multiplicity of litigation.

Multiplicity of litigation has to be avoided but this is to be achieved only if possible under the law as it stands. The Courts cannot go beyond the law in order to achieve the above object. AIR 1955 Bhopal 3 (5) (Pt B) (Pr 8).

——S. 151—Express provision of law — Section 151 can be invoked only in cases where there is no clear provision in the Code. AIR 1955 N U C (Raj) 4666.

3. Setting aside of decree or order.

A. Compromise decree.
B. Ex parte order or decree.
C. Other illustrative cases.

3-A. Compromise decree.

——S. 151—Decree passed under O. 37, R. 2(2) on failure of defendant to comply with conditional order — Court setting aside decree in its inherent powers—Order held without jurisdiction — Scope of S. 151 stated—Proper remedy is to file an appeal. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 37, R. 4. AIR 1963 Bom 85.

——S. 151—Compromise recorded when one of parties was minor — No leave obtained — Application under, to set aside order recording compromise can be treated as application for review. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908). O. 47, R. 1. AIR 1954 J & K 31.

——S. 151—Order recording or refusing to record compromise — Appeal — No appeal lies against an order passed under the section. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 43, R. 1(m). AIR 1958 Pat 618.

3-B. Ex parte order or decree.

——S. 151 and O. 9, R. 13—Ex parte decree—Setting aside—Application under O. 9, R. 13 barred—It cannot be set aside under inherent powers. AIR 1951 Ajmer 39 (1).

——S. 151—Ex parte final mortgage decree for sale—Setting aside of — Sufficient cause. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 9, R. 13. AIR 1961 Cal 534.

——S. 151 and O. 41, R. 21—Ex parte order passed on revision petition — High Court has power to set aside such order. AIR 1945 Mad 103, Diss. (General Clauses Act (1897), S. 21), (M. P. General Clauses Act (3 of 1953), S. 21), (High Court Rules and Orders (Civil) (Nagpur now M. P.), Part I, Chap. 4, R. 12).

The High Court has power to set aside an ex parte order passed on a revision petition and a petition to set aside such order is therefore tenable. AIR 1957 Nag 83; AIR 1961 Cal 474, Foll. AIR 1962 S C 527; A I R 1953 H P 102; (1962) M P L J 317, Rel. on. AIR 1945 Mad 103, Diss. from; AIR 1943 Mad 260 and AIR 1951 Mad 672, Ref. 1965 Jab L J 997=1966 M P L J 65.

3-C. Other illustrative cases.

——S. 151 — Application for judgment on award — Order setting aside award and also dismissing application — Award held valid in appeal from former order — No appeal against latter order. See Arbitration Act (1940), S. 17. AIR 1961 Cal 118.

——S. 151, O. 41, R. 33 and O. 39, R. 2 (3) — Setting aside order under O. 39, R. 2 (3) against deceased defendant. Held, order can be set aside even against the deceased defendant under O. 41, R. 33 read with S. 151. AIR 1955 NUC (Cal) 2920.

——Ss. 151, 148 and 115 — Time granted by Court for payment of costs while setting aside ex parte decree — S. 148 does not apply — S. 151 however applies — Trial Court not adverting to exercise of power under S. 151—Order liable to be interfered with under S. 115 (b). 31 Cut L J 757 = ILR (1965) Cut 506=AIR 1966 Orissa 44.

——S. 151 — Executing Court fixing order in which property is to be sold—Non-compliance with Court's order renders sale voidable and not void. Application filed after 30 days of date of sale to set it aside is barred by time. See Limitation Act (1908), Art. 166. AIR 1964 Orissa 91.

——S. 151—Controller can set aside or interfere with his previous order where there is fraud practiced by party in obtaining order—Moreover there is inherent power in controller in setting aside ex parte order — Finality does not attach to every order. See Houses and Rents — Pepsu Urban Rent Restriction Ordinance (2008), S. 16 (4). AIR 1955 NUC (Pepsu) 1880.

——S. 151 — Decree based on award without complying with mandatory provisions of S. 14 of Arbitration Act (1940) — Decree can be set aside under inherent powers. See Arbitration Act (1940), S. 17. 1965 Pun L R (Sup) 117.

——S. 151, O. 22, R. 9 (2) — Setting aside abatement —Exercise of inherent powers. As there is a specific provision in O. 22, R. 9 (2) for setting aside abatement, the Court's inherent powers under S. 151 cannot be exercised for this purpose. AIR 1955 NUC (Sau) 4086.

4. Restoration.

——S. 151 — Application for restoration of appeal filed after expiry of period prescribed by Art. 163 of Limitation Act (1908) not maintainable under the section. See Limitation Act (1908), Art. 168. AIR 1964 All 124.

——S. 151 — Dismissal for default — Restoration — Grounds. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 115. AIR 1951 Assam 36.

——S. 151—Suit by minor— Dismissal for negligence of guardian — Remedies of minor. Courts have wide powers to restore suits. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 9, R. 9. AIR 1954 Bom 214.

——Ss. 151, 12; O. 9, R. 9 and O. 23, R. 1 — Suit dismissed under O. 9, R. 8 — Remedy is under O. 9, R. 9 — Fresh suit is barred. See Civil P. C (5 of 1908), O. 9, R. 9. AIR 1955 NUC (Manipur) 4556.

——Ss. 151, 148 and 149, O. 7, R. 11 (c) and O. 47, R. 1—Rejection of plaint under O. 7, R. 11 (c)—Plaint can be restored under S. 151, 148 or 149 — Review under O. 47, R. 1 not the only remedy—Ss. 148, 149 and 151 do not provide for notice to other side — Remedy of other side against restoration — Extension of time for filing deficit court fee—Plaint to be taken as validly presented on date it was filed. AIR 1955 Pat 370 (FB) and AIR 1949 Pat 36 and AIR 1957 Pat 430 (FB) and AIR 1938 All 497 and 43 C W N 417 and ILR 39 Mad 876 and AIR 1956 Pat 20 held no longer good law in view of decision in AIR 1961 S C 882.

The use of the inherent powers under S. 151 is not restricted to the pendency of an action in Court till final order of disposal one way or the other is passed. Whether the Court ultimately will use such powers in favour of a party will be a different matter and will depend upon the facts and circumstances of the case; but to say that inherent powers cannot be invoked after the disposal of the case in regard to anything of that case, will be to detract from the scope of S. 151 and to defeat the main purpose of a fundamental principle of administration of justice. Exercise of inherent powers does not necessarily depend upon a party moving the Court for such exercise. An application for that purpose does not put the Court in a position different from or less than that where it exercises suo motu such powers in an appropriate case.

An order of the Court passed under S. 151 vacating its order rejecting the plaint for failure to pay the deficit court-fee and restoring the plaint on payment of deficit court-fee is within jurisdiction and discretion of the Court: AIR 1939 Pat 678 (FB) and AIR 1949 Pat 112, Rel. on; AIR 1961 S C 882, Foll.

An application for review under O. 47, R. 1 on payment of requisite court-fee is not the only remedy against rejection of the plaint or the suit: A I R 1955 Pat 370 (FB) and AIR 1949 Pat 366 and AIR 1957 Pat 430 (FB) held no longer good law in view of decision in AIR 1961 S C 882.

The order passed restoring the plaint and granting further time for payment of the deficit court-fee can well be taken to have been made under Ss. 149 and 148. Mere labelling the order to be under S. 151 does not exclude the competency of that order to be under Ss. 148 and 149. It cannot be said that extension of time under S. 148 or 149 can be granted only when a Court has a case before it, in regard to which it has got jurisdiction : AIR 1961 S C 882, Foll.; AIR 1938 All 497 and 43 C W N 417 and ILR 39 Mad 876 and AIR 1956 Pat 20 held no longer good law in view of AIR 1961 S C 882.

Action under S. 151 (or under S. 148 or 149) would not become void in absence of any notice to the other side, when such notice is not provided for in those provisions. It is, however, true that a party who is likely to be adversely affected should be given notice of a proceeding in which a final order may be passed against him; that is, on principles of natural justice, The rejection of the plaint creates a valuable right in favour of the defendants inasmuch as they are relieved of the claim made in the suit and if and when that order is going to be set aside and their valuable right is being revoked, it is proper that they should be noticed and given a chance to raise that objection about the sufficiency of cause for further extension of time for filing the deficit court-fee.

When the defendants find, after notice of the suit is served on them and before they file the written statement, that an order under S. 151 restoring the plaint had been passed behind their back, they can move the higher Court against that, and obtain a direction for reconsideration of the matter by the trial Court. If they fail to avail themselves of that step, it is too late for them to contend that the order ultimately passed under S. 151 was void or ultra vires.

Once the time for filing the deficit court-fee is extended under any of the three Ss. 149, 148 and 151 the plaint will be taken to have been validly presented on the date it was filed in Court, though the deficit court-fee was paid much later, and in that view, there would be no bar of limitation if the plaint had been originally filed within time. (1963) ILR 42 Pat 704 (DB).

——S. 151 and O. 34, R. 3 — Application for making preliminary mortgage decree final, dismissed for default — Subsequent application beyond three years should not be dismissed on ground of limitation but previous application should be restored under S. 151. —Ss. 151 and 144 — Restitution can be ordered under inherent jurisdiction — See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 144. AIR 1964 Mad 404.

—Ss. 151, 144—Restitution—Inherent power.

Cases where the injury that has been done has to be repaired consequent not on the variation or reversal of decree, but by other means. In such cases it has been uniformly held that the Court has inherent power to proceed under S. 151 and order restitution — See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 144. AIR 1955 Mad 173.

—S. 151 — Application for mesne profits by way of restitution against auction-purchaser—Each requires to be determined on its own facts — See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 144. AIR 1953 Mad 930.

—S. 151—Inherent power to direct restitution.

The power to direct restitution is inherent in the Court itself — See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 144. AIR 1951 Mad 804.

—S. 151—Restitution—Principle of—Applicability —Inherent jurisdiction—Persona designata entrusted —Power of.

The inherent jurisdiction to order restitution apart from the provisions of S. 144, C. P. Code, can be exercised not only by a Court but also by a persona designata entrusted with the duties and powers normally performed and exercised by a Court of Law. Hence even if the District Munsiff to whom a decree is transferred under S. 66 of the Madras Village Courts Act could be regarded as a persona designata, he has power to order restitution after the reversal of the decree which had been previously executed by him. Though the party has presented the application under S. 144, C. P. Code, it is competent for the District Munsiff to order restitution under inherent powers. 44 M L J 735; A I R 1922 P C 269, Rel. on. AIR 1960 Mys 337.

——S. 151—Order under S. 7, Guardians and Wards Act not decree—Order reversed — Restitution — Inherent power.

Application for restitution does not lie under S. 144, though the Court can order restitution under S. 151—See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 144. AIR 1952 Nag 190.

——O. 1, R. 8 — (T. P. Act (1882), S. 53 (1)) — Suit by creditor to set aside transfer as fraudulent — Section not applicable in Punjab — Suit need not be on behalf of all creditors. See T. P. Act (1882), S. 53 (1). AIR 1961 Punj 398.

——O. 1, R. 8 — Representation — Ordinarily one co-owner cannot represent another in legal proceeding. AIR 1955 NUC (Trav-Co) 2565.

——O. 1, R. 8 — Ejectment of lessee — Suit by one only — Maintainability — Existence of decree for partition among co-sharers — If can be pleaded by lessee as valid defence to suit.

One of several co-sharers of joint property is competent to maintain a suit for eviction of a lessee and to recover from him possession of the whole property on behalf of himself and the other co-sharers provided all the other co-sharers are made parties to the suit. The fact that there is a decree for partition which the plaintiff co-sharer can execute and work out his rights is no ground of defence which the lessee can plead or urge for not surrendering possession of the property according to the terms of the lease deed executed by him. ILR (1951) Trav-Co 585 = 1951 Ker L T 647 = AIR 1952 Trav-Co 258.

——O. 1, R. 8 — Suit by one alone to eject a trespasser is maintainable. 1951 K L T 210 = AIR 1952 Trav-Co 195.

——O. 1, R. 8, O. 2, R. 3 — Joint petition by two or more — Maintainability — The applicants will have to take the risk that there will have to be a joint order. And even if the claim of one is rejected the entire application will stand the risk of being rejected. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1962 Tripura 7.

——O. 1, R. 9, O. 31, R. 2 and S. 99 — Suit against managing trustee of temple for his act of negligence — Other co-trustees should be made parties — Effect of non-joinder — Defect is fatal and decree passed cannot be sustained. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 99. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 412.

——O. 1, R. 9 — P, student in P. U. C. class filing suit for declaration that his age as entered in S. S. L. C. Register was not correct — P impleading Registrar of University as defendant but Registrar contending that University was not proper party as it had no interest or concern in matter — Despite this, P neither impleading Director of Public Instructions nor Secretary, Secondary Education Board as defendant — Before filing suit, P not making any attempt to have his age corrected in manner specified in G. O. Ms. No. 1263 of 6.5.61 (Education) — After obtaining decree, P applying to University and D. P. I. for correcting his age in concerned registers — University complying with request, while D. P. I. refusing to make corrections — After passing his examination, P applying for admission to pre-professional course — Selection Committee refusing admission on ground that P's age as entered in S. S. L. C.

Register did not qualify him for admission — By petition under Art. 226, Constitution of India, P requesting Court to direct Selection Committee to make corrections in S. S. L. C. Register in relation to his age, as per decree — Held. declaration obtained by P would not be effective against persons entrusted with admissions to Pre-Professional Course or the Director of Public Instruction or the Secretary, Secondary Education Board — Before a suit could be brought for declaration as to correct age, concerned student should adopt procedure contemplated by the Government order. ILR (1963) Andh Pra 396.

——O. 1, R. 9 — (Constitution of India, Art. 226) — Parties to writ petition — Misjoinder—The defect is not fatal enough to entitle dismissal of petition. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1956 Bhopal 43.

——O. 1, R. 9 — Vessel of plaintiff requisitioned by Government under Vessel of India Rules — Joint liability of India and Pakistan — Liability was statutory and not contractual — Cause of action partly in India and partly in Pakistan. See Indian Independence (Rights, Property and Liabilities) Order (1947), Para. 8. AIR 1964 Cal 196.

——O. 1, Rr. 9, 10, 1, 3 — Misjoinder, non-joinder — Multifariousness. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 1, R. 1. AIR 1955 NUC (Manipur) 4337.

3. Transposition of parties.
4. Misdescription of parties.

1. Applicability and scope.

——O. 1, R. 10 (2) — Custodian — If necessary or proper party. Custodian is a proper, though not a necessary party to a suit for ejectment of a lessee of half share in a property where the lessee is also an allottee of the other half of the property which has been declared to be evacuee property. See Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950), S. 50 (2). AIR 1959 All 574.

——O. 1, R. 10, O. 23, R. 3 — Pendency of proceedings — By reason of the filing of the compromise petition itself in the second appeal it cannot be regarded as having come to an end. Till a compromise decree is passed, the litigation cannot be regarded to have terminated. AIR 1960 Andh Pra 32.

——O. 1, Rr. 10, 8 — Scope — Necessary parties.

Where the suit is brought in the interest of a group of persons for public good the Court should not stick to mere technicalities and dismiss the suit simply because all necessary parties were not before the Court. This defect can be remedied by amendment. AIR 1955 NUC (Assam) 5525.

——O. 1, R. 10 — (Constitution of India, Art. 226)— Necessary parties — Application to compel Corporation of Calcutta and Commissioner of Police to maintain public streets and foot-paths for unobstructed user by public and for declaration that latter has no right to permit hawker's corners there — Hawkers are not necessary parties to such applications. See Constitution of India, Art. 226. AIR 1961 Cal 389.

——O. 1, R. 10 — Person whose nomination paper has been accepted is necessary party. See Municipalities — Madhya Bharat Municipalities Act (1954), S. 14 (1) (i). AIR 1955 NUC (Madh Bha) 3701.

——O. 1, R. 10; O. 22, R. 3 and S. 2 (11) — Suit by benamidar, not in representative capacity — Real owner cannot be brought on record as his legal representative upon his death. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 2 (11). AIR 1961 Mad 376.

——O. 1, R. 10 — Position of co.widows under Hindu Succession Act — Right of co-widow to institute suit for ejectment of trespasser in her own right after coming into force of Hindu Succession Act, 1956— Other co-widows whether necessary parties.

If either of the parties want that during the pendency of the proceedings it would be desirable to implead the other co-widows as parties it may be open to them to apply under O. 1, R. 10 and implead them. But their presence cannot be held to be necessary for the purpose of granting relief in the suit. AIR 1959 Mad 349.

——O. 1, Rr. 10, 9, 3, 1 — Misjoinder, non-joinder— Multifariousness. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 1, R. 1. AIR 1955 NUC (Manipur) 4337.

——O. 1, Rr. 10 (2) and 8—Applicability to club — Club — Suit against—Will not apply since a suit against unregistered and non-proprietary club is not a proper suit. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 1, R. 8. AIR 1954 Nag 29.

——O. 1, R. 10 — Applicability.

In a suit for damages against the driver, owner of the bus and the Insurance Company with whom the bus is insured, can be impleaded as defendant. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 1, R. 7. AIR 1951 Nag 280.

——O. 1, R. 10, O. 22, R. 10 and 43, R. 1 (1) — Devolution of part of interest — Application for being added as party by person on whom interest devolved — Rejection of — Appeal.

Such application cannot be deemed to be one under O. 1, R. 10 and the order rejecting it is appealable under O. 43, R. 1 (1). See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 22, R. 10. AIR 1952 Pat 323.

—O. 1, R. 10—Suit by vendee for breach of indemnity of title—Property purchased subject to encumberance along with other properties — Effect of non-disclosure — Liability of vendor for damages — Extent of — Liability of other properties for contribution — Form of suit. See T. P. Act (1882), S. 55 (1) (a). AIR 1957 Trav-Co 59.

2. Addition of parties — General.

● —O. 1, Rr. 10, 3, 9—Necessary and proper parties —Who are — Effect of non-joinder. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 4. AIR 1963 All 549 (FB).

—O. 1, R. 10—Addition or striking out of parties is not governed by considerations of delay. See Debt Laws — Bombay Agricultural Debtors Relief Act (28 of 1947), S. 46, Proviso. AIR 1956 Bom 201.

— O. 1, R. 10—(Limitation Act (1908), S. 22)—Suit for dissolution of partnership — Addition of parties after period of limitation — Effect — Bar of suit— Parties cannot be added. See Limitation Act (1908), S. 22. AIR 1960 Mad 134.

—O. 1, R. 10—Suit in the name of liquidator — Maintainability. The liquidator is empowered to institute a suit "in the name and on behalf of the Company." See Companies Act (1913), S. 179 (a). AIR 1956 Nag 204.

—O. 1, R. 10—Cause of action arising from orders of Revenue Officers — Province though not necessary party, held proper party. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 1, R. 3. AIR 1951 Orissa 342.

—O. 1, R. 10—List of nominated candidates prepared only after withdrawal under R. 24 — Person withdrawing under R. 24 not necessary party to election petition against returned candidate — Petition cannot be dismissed for non-joinder of such person. See Panchayats — Bihar Panchayat Raj Act (7 of 1948). 1962 B L J R 260.

—O. 1, R. 10—(Limitation Act (1908), S. 22) — Addition of parties on application made for the purpose —Addition must be deemed to take effect from date of presentation of application. AIR 1956 Pepsu 17.

—O. 1, R. 10—Parties to divorce petition —Divorce petition filed by wife against her husband — Female adulteress joined as co-respondent—She is neither necessary nor proper party under Rules 11 and 12 (a) of Rules framed under Act—Her application to remove her name from divorce petition must succeed. See Hindu Marriage Act (1955), S. 13. ILR (1965) 2 Punj 537 = (1966) 68 Punj L R 16D= AIR 1966 Punj 337.

● —O. 1, R. 10—Accident of vehicle of transport company due to negligence of driver—Driver not impleded as party — Transport Company joined as party is sufficient in a claim for compensation. See Tort. 67 Pun L R 386 = AIR 1966 Punj 283 (FB).

● —O. 1, R. 10—Person having no right of pre-emption made co-plaintiff by pre-emptor—Right of pre-emption is not forfeited—Right lawfully created must be respected. See Pre-emption. 1965 Cur L J 598 = 67 Pun L R 849 = ILR (1965) 2 Punj 706= AIR 1966 Punj 36 (FB).

—O. 1, R. 10 (2)— Scope — Addition of parties — Discretion of trial Court — Interference in revision. Where the Court has acted in aid of justice and has added a person to the suit, the High Court will not interfere. AIR 1951 Punj 352.

—O. 1, R. 10—Necessary and proper parties.

Held, in the circumstances of the case, that M could not be regarded as a necessary or proper party. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 151. AIR 1951 Punj 318.

2-A. "Who ought to have been joined."

● —O. 1, R. 10—Constitution of India, Art. 226 — Petition for writ of certiorari —Necessary and proper parties — Distinction between — Who are necessary and proper parties to the petition — Person in whose favour impugned order is passed not joined as parties — Petition held not competent — See Constitution of India, Art. 226. A I R 1963 S C 786 (788) (Pr 7).

● —O. 1, R. 10; O. 6, R. 17; O. 23, R. 1 and Representation of the People Act (1951), Ss. 38, 55-A, 82, 85, 90 (3) — "Contesting candidate" — Who is — Non-joinder of necessary party — Effect — Defect if can be cured by amendment — Defect of non-joinder of necessary parties to the election petition cannot be cured by amendment — See Representation of the People Act (1951), S. 38. AIR 1958 S C 687.

● —O. 1, R. 10—Joinder of parties after limitation when operates in dismissal of suit — Principle stated. —AIR 1960 Andh Pra 98 (FB).

2-B. Whose presence before the Court may be necessary.

—O. 1, Rr. 10, 9; O. 22, R. 4 — Suit under O. 21, R. 63 — Necessary party — Judgment-debtor is a necessary party and after his death, his sons and widow must be brought on record as his legal representatives. AIR 1951 Ajmer 27.

—O. 1, R. 10; O. 34, R. 1 — Suit for redemption — Parties—Under O. 1, R. 10 only those persons would be regarded as necessary parties without whose presence the matters in controversy could not be effectually and completely adjudicated upon — See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 34, R. 1. A I R 1956 Hyd 172.

—O. 1, R. 10; O. 14, R. 2 — Necessary party not before Court.

So long as necessary parties to a case are not before the Court, it would be ridiculous for the Court to say that the plaintiff's claim is within time or that it is well founded. A decision on the point of jurisdiction also would be equally premature. AIR 1955 N U C (Pepsu) 4001.

2-C. Partition suit.

—O. 1, R. 10 — Partition suit — Preliminasy decree passed:— Joining of creditors of father—If allowed— See High Court Rules and Orders — (Madras) Civil Rules of Practice and Circular Orders. A I R 1956 Mad 288.

—O. 1, R. 10 — Partial partition—Some properties falling to share of one branch — Subsequent suit for partition of such properties between members of that branch is maintainable — See Hindu Law—Partition. AIR 1955 Nag 241.

——O. 1, R. 10—Suit for partition—Necessary parties — In a suit for partition every person who claims an interest in the joint family property is a necessary party — See Hindu Law — Partition. AIR 1951 Nag 350.

——O. 1, R. 10 (2) — Partition suit — Preliminary decree passed — Subsequent application to implead co-sharers as parties to suit — Addition of parties cannot be allowed as it would affect determination in preliminary decree, which has become final.

There is no dispute that in all suits where only one decree is passed completely disposing of the suits, there cannot be any addition of parties under O. 1, R. 10, Civil P. C., subsequent to the decree. AIR 1963 S C 992, Foll.; AIR 1916 Nag 120 and AIR 1924 Oudh 38 and AIR 1935 Nag 64, Rel. on; (1904) ILR 32 Cal 483, Distinguished; A I R 1964 Andh Pra 260 and A I R 1942 Pat 185 (2) held no longer good law in view of AIR 1963 S C 992. I L R (1965) Cut 799 = AIR 1966 Orissa 160.

——O. 1, R. 10; O. 22, Rr. 3, 10, 11; S. 107 (2) — Appeal from preliminary decree in partition suit — Death of one of appellants pending appeal — Legal representative not brought on record within time—Appeal abates against heirs of deceased—O. 22, R. 10, does not apply — Legal representatives cannot be made parties — See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 22, R. 3. AIR 1961 Pat 178.

——O. 1, R. 10 — Co-sharers — Partition—Suit for—Parties—Proof.

Where the plaintiff has brought the suit for partition as a co-sharer by impleading all the co-sharers interested in the tauzi there is no defect of parties. In order to succeed in the suit the plaintiff has to prove unity of title and unity of possession. I L R 30 Pat 213=AIR 1952 Pat 11 (14) (Pt A) (Pr 15) (DB).

2-D. Suit for rent.

——O. 1, R. 10 — Rent decree — Decree against all recorded tenants.

A decree for rent obtained against all the recorded patnidars would be a rent decree even though the landlord has failed to implead certain part-transferees of an interest in the putni, who were not recognised by the landlord. I L R (1953) 2 Cal 336 = AIR 1953 Cal 398 (400) (Pt B) (Pr 11) (DB).

——O. 1, R. 10—Rent suit — Co-sharer's right to sue for his share of rent. AIR 1953 Nag 25.

2-E. Mortgage suit.

——O. 1, Rr. 10, 9; O. 34, R. 1—Non-joinder of mortgagor in suit by mortgagee — The suit could not be dismissed on account of the omission to implead the mortgagor as a party — See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 34, R. 1. AIR 1955 Mad 439.

2-F. Government as party.

——O. 1, R. 10 and S. 80—Notice given to the Secretary of State but not to public officer—Waiver.

Where no objection is taken at an early stage that the suit is bad for want of notice to the public officer, the notice will be deemed to have been waived — See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 80. A I R 1952 Nag 213.

——O. 1, R. 10 and Ss. 80, 99—Government as party.

Government need not be impleaded as a party—See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 80. A I R 1955 N U C (Raj) 1137.

2-G. Suit for possession.

——O. 1, R. 10 — Suit for possession — Necessary parties. It is well settled law that one of the several co-owners can maintain an action against a trespasser without joining the other co-owners as parties to the action. AIR 1955 N U C (Madh B) 3343.

——O. 1, Rr. 10, 9 and O. 41, Rr. 4 and 33 — Suit for possession and mesne profits against several defendants having distinct and separate interest in suit lands—Decree for possession — Costs awarded jointly against defendants and plaintiff allowed to withdraw amount deposited as past mesne profits — Appeal by some defendants only — Permitted to continue appeal though other defendants were not impleaded — See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 1, R. 9. A I R 1965 Pat 510.

2-H. Suit for declaration.

——O. 1, R. 10 and S. 80 — Suit for declaration that grant by State to defendant is illegal — Plaintiff offering payment of Nazarana to State for decree for possession — State is necessary party — Notice under S. 80 is necessary — See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), S. 80. AIR 1953 Bilaspur 7.

2-I. Suit for damages.

——O. 1, R. 10 — Accident — Plaintiff injured— Suit for damages against owner of vehicle — Joinder of insurer—See Motor Vehicles Act (1939), S. 96. A I R 1961 Punj 190.

2-J. Suit by or against Hindu Joint Family.

●——O. 1, R. 10; O. 34, R. 1 — Hindu Law — Joint family — Manager — Right to sue — Objection as to non-joinder of other adult co-sharers to be taken at early stage — Waiver — Suit by manager to enforce mortgage — Effect of non-joinder — Limitation Act (1908), S. 22 not attracted. See Hindu Law — Joint family. AIR 1961 SC 1277.

——O. 1, R. 10 and S. 11—Decree against manager.

The joint family would be bound by a decree properly passed against the manager of the family either in respect of a family property or a family debt. See Civil Procedure Code (1908), S. 11. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 688.

——O. 1, R. 10 — Suit by Manager of joint Hindu family — He can sue or be sued in respect of transactions entered into on behalf of the family. AIR 1955 NUC (Assam) 2809.

——O. 1, R. 10 and O. 30, R. 1 — (Limitation Act (1908), S. 22) — Joint family trading name — O. 30 of the Code not attracted — Suit instituted in joint family trading name — Plaintiff seeking to bring on record persons forming such names — No addition of new parties. See Limitation Act (1908), S. 22. AIR 1960 Cal 327.

——O. 1, R. 10—Hindu Law—Joint family—Status—Nature of—Suit by family to set aside alienation—Partition of family—Effect—Right of divided member to continue suit — O. 1, R. 10 could be properly invoked. See Hindu Law—Joint family. AIR 1964 Ker 144.

●——O. 1, R. 10—Joint family property—Alienation—Suit—Representation.

A suit filed against the manager qua manager of a joint Hindu family in a representative character binds all members of the family although not made parties to the proceedings when the debt is due by the whole family. AIR 1951 Mys 38 (FB).

2-K. Suit on promissory note.

——O. 1, Rr. 10, 6, O. 8A, R. 1 (Mad) — Suit on promissory note by holder in due course against maker—Third party procedure not applicable against original payee — But original payee proper party and should be impleaded under O. 1, R. 10. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O, I, R. 6. AIR 1962 Mad 202.

——O. 2, R. 2—Breach of contract of reconveyance—Suit for specific performance—Claim for damages or compensation for value of crop harvested during pendency not included — Subsequent suit for such claim barred—Specific Relief Act (1877), S. 19.

Where after the suit for specific performance, filed by the plaintiff on the defendant's refusal to execute the reconveyance of the garden in plaintiff's favour, was decreed, the plaintiff instituted a suit for the amount of the value of the crop harvested by the defendant during the pendency of the earlier suit for specific performance.

Held, that the suit was barred by the provisions of O. 2, R. 2, C. P. C. The breach of the contract had taken place before the institution of the suit for specific performance, which breach entitled the plaintiff not only to a claim for specific performance of the contract but also to a claim in addition thereto for such damages or compensation as he might in the circumstances be entitled to, which may be taken as loss caused or likely to be caused to the plaintiff by the delay of the defendant to perform the contract, from the date of which he should have properly performed it till the date he actually performed it. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 960, Foll.

So far as the claim for damages in substitution for specific performance was concerned, such an alternative prayer was ordinarily or normally made by way of caution for the reason that the granting of a decree of specific performance was discretionary with the Court even if the plaintiff had proved that a breach of contract had arisen in circumstances entitling him to make a prayer for specific performance. The provisions of S. 19 of the Specific Relief Act which enabled a plaintiff to ask for compensation for breach of contract in addition to a prayer for specific performance proceeded upon the legal principle that the cause of action for additional damages was the same as the cause of action for the prayer for specific performance viz., breach of the contract of sale.

The plaintiff could make a claim against the defendant in respect of the loss occasioned subsequent to institution of suit, because the defendant who unlawfully refused to perform the contract entered into by him making it necessary for the plaintiff to go to Court, could not absolve himself of the responsibility for the consequences flowing from the breach. The manner in which the plaintiff could pay court-fee in respect of damages which might accrue subsequent to the filing of the plaint, was that the plaintiff should make a reasonable estimate of the damages which he claimed in the same way as a plaintiff in a suit for any other type of damages would have to. ——O. 2, R. 2 — Partition — Rule that partition suit should comprise all family property is not inflexible —Question whether second suit for partition is or is not permissible depends on reason for institution of incomplete first suit—In first suit for partition certain site not included on account of litigation then pending between members of family and outsider who claimed part of sight as his own — Second suit for partition of site — Held, partition has two-fold concept — Division of right and division by metes and bounds — Since while plaintiff instituted first suit there was obscurity created as regards identity of suit site as well as its extent because of litigation then pending, plaintiff could not have then sought division of site by metes and bounds—In other words omission to claim partition of suit site was ascribable to an acceptable reason, namely, impossibility of partition by metes and bounds — Hence, second suit was maintainable. The common law lien on property or funds recovered, known as particular lien, has also been recognised by the Courts in India in cases of solicitors and attorney. The same principle has been applied in India in the cases of advocates and pleaders because they not only plead but, like solicitors in England, also act for their clients. But in order to have the lien the fruits of the litigation must have been recovered by the solicitors' exertions. Where the deposit in Court was made on the application of the judgment-debtor and in the absence, and therefore without any aid or exertion, of the pleader, the pleader is not entitled to recover and retain the deposit towards his fees in exercise of his right of particular lien. Further the particular lien is not available for the general balance of account between the solicitor and the client but extends only to the costs of the proceedings in which the property is recovered. ——O 3, R. 4—Lien for fees — Advocate of Mysore High Court—Right of—Extent of the lien of solicitors and Attorneys — Enforceability in summary jurisdiction—(Legal Practitioners (Fees) Act (1926), S. 3).

An advocate has no "particular lien" for the payment of his fees upon the property recovered for his party by his exertions as is sactioned by the Solicitor's Act in England and allowed in the case of attorneys of the High Court in India and solicitors enrolled as attoryeys; such a lien can only be supported by an express agreement of the client in his favour and the lien of the attorney cannot extend to more than the taxed costs allowable to him. (A I R 1932 Mad 256; AIR 1942 Bom 102, Rel. on). The lien, if it exists, should extend only to the extent of the fees allowed by the Court as in the case of the solicitor in England and it is limited only to the taxed and taxable costs. It cannot extend to any amount agreed to by the client. The ordinary original jurisdiction of the Court is different from the insolvency jurisdiction and the Insolvency Court having become functus officio the Court could not in its ordinary jurisdiction allow a 'lien' claimed in respect of fees due on the insolvency side. Where there is a prior charge known to the person claiming the "particular lien" on the property it cannot be granted. The 'lien' for fees does not subsist when any other security had already been taken from the client. AIR 1932 Mad 256, Foll.

A pleader acting for a party has the duty imposed on him, when a compromise is sought to be filed, to make sure that the terms of the compromise as recited in the fair copy are explained to his client and to be satisfied that the client has understood the terms. When the client is illiterate the responsibility of the pleader signing the petition of compromise is greater. He must explain the terms of the proposed compromise, when they are fair copied, to his client and he must be reasonably satisfied that his client has understood the terms. A mere statement that the terms were read over and explained to the client is not enough. AIR 1952 Pat 48.

——O. 6, R. 1—Contract Act (1872), S. 73—Pleadings not to be examined in pedantic manner — Plaintiff pleading that it suffered loss on resale—What is intended is that loss on resale was criterion for measuring damages.

The pleadings ought not to be scrutinised and examined in a pedantic manner so as to reject them merely because there is want of preciseness and specification. If the plaint read as a whole can be interpreted as substantially presenting a case before the Court then it is the duty of the Court to find out what that case is.

Thus when it was pleaded by the plaintiff that it suffered a loss on the resale after giving notice to the defendant, what it intended to plead was that loss on resale was the criterion for measuring the damages for the breach of the contact on the part of the defendant. It is well settled what the damages in a particular case for breach of contract would be and the basis of their calculation would not form a part of the cause of action on which a suit for recovery of damages is filed. —O. 6, R. 17 — Landlord and Tenant—Ejectment suit—Landlord's ownership denied—It is not necessary for landlord to obtain declaration of title.

In a suit for ejectment of the tenant, it is not necessary for the landlord to obtain a declaration of title that he is the owner of the house. The question of ownership is relevant only to the extent that it enables the landlord to prove a contract of tenancy between himself and the defendant.

Where therefore in a suit for ejectment the defendant denies the title of the plaintiff as the landlord, it is not necessary for the plaintiff to amend his plaint by adding a prayer for declaration of his title and ownership. AIR 1962 All 122.

—O. 6, R. 17 — Suit for possession — Possession claimed on exclusive rights — Partition relief not claimed in suit — If suit can be regarded as one for partition—Power of Court to permit amendment of plaint — Amendment seeking alternative relief of partition — Permissibility.

Even without an amendment, in a suit for possession of certain property with sole and exclusive rights therein, a decree for partition could be granted notwithstanding the absence of an alternative prayer, provided such a relief would not result in such prejudice or injustice to the other side. It would be permissible to allow an amendment even if a fresh suit is barred on the amended claim if special circumstances exist. That being the legal position, there cannot be any insuperable difficulty to allow a plaintiff to amend the plaint seeking an alternative relief in furtherance of justice and if it does not involve the other side in real hardship.

In the instant case, the plaintiff's claim to a half share in the property is traceable to his status as the adopted son. The basis of the claim, namely, the adoption remains the same and the alternative claim would not involve a change of cause of action or variation in the nature of the suit. In such a situation, it would be meaningless to drive the plaintiff to another suit to obtain the same relief. Such a direction would entail great hardship and avoidable inconvenience and expense and that would be encouraging unnecessary litigation. Judged in the light of these principles this is a fit case for allowing amendment. (1962) 1 Andh WR 282=(1962) 2 Andh L T 425=AIR 1963 Andh Pra 78.

—O. 9, Rr. 6, 8, 9 — Sufficient cause for non-appearance — Appearance, meaning of — Physical presence of party engaging a lawyer, after the lawyer lets him down, is not appearance within Rr. 6, 8 — Appearance of party engaging a lawyer means appearance with his pleader.

Where a party is not able to conduct his suit because his lawyers were not ready for the hearing after refusal of adjournment to them by the Court, it is a sufficient cause for non-appearance within the meaning of O. 9, R. 9, Civil P. C. It is not a case of a party pleading the negligence of a lawyer as an excuse for its own default but the case of a party who has suffered because of the refusal of the lawyer or lawyers to conduct the case.

When a petition for adjournment by a lawyer is rejected and he retires from the case, the mere physical presence of the party in the precints of the Court does not constitute an appearance within the meaning of O. 9, Rr. 6 and 8. The word appearance under O. 9 has a technical meaning and does not mean mere physical presence. When a party does not want to conduct his case in person but engages a lawyer, the appearance of such party must be an appearance through that lawyer when the suit in question is called on for hearing. A party who engages a competent lawyer cannot thereafter be held to be in default for the laches or negligence of that lawyer. After the rejection of the lawyer's petition for adjournment, it could not be said that the petitioner had appeared in the suit and that accordingly the petition under O. 9, R. 9 was not maintainable. —O. 9, R. 6 — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 114) — Ex parte decree.

Where the defendant is absent, it would be open to the Court to hear the evidence of the plaintiff in the absence of the former, and make such order as that evidence justifies. AIR 1955 NUC (Raj) 4621.

—O. 9, Rr. 7, 8— Amendment of ex parte decree.

An amendment can be allowed if the decree is not in conformity with the judgment or there is any mistake due to accidental slip or inadvertence. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), S. 151. AIR 1955 Mys 2.

—O. 9, R. 7—Scope of the rule.

Where an absenting party does not wish to challenge any orders passed during his absence he need not make an application under O. 9, R. 7 and may continue to appear and take part in the proceedings as a matter of right. AIR 1957 Punj 63.

—O. 9. R. 7, O. 18, R. 2; O. 20, R. 1— "Hearing of the suit" — Date on which Commissioner has to file report is not date of hearing. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 18, R. 2. AIR 1954 Punj 207.

—O. 9, R. 7—Suit for eviction — Ex parte proceedings set aside — Defendant put in a position as if he had actually appeared on the first day of hearing — If arrears of rent paid on that day provision of law concerning deposit of money on the first day of hearing is satisfied. See Houses and Rents — Delhi and Ajmer-Merwara Rent Control Act (1947), S. 9 (1) (a). AIR 1953 Punj 247.

—O. 9, Rr. 8, 9—"Sufficient cause."

A bona fide mistake by counsel in noting the date of hearing is a good ground for restoration of a suit. See Civil P. C. (5 of 1908), O. 9, R. 9. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 4166.

—O. 9, R. 8 and O. 3, R. 4 — Suit dismissed under O. 9, R. 8 — Application for restoration — Necessary to file fresh vakalat— Strictly and technically a fresh vakalat should be filed when an application for restoration of suit dismissed for default for appearance is filed. —O. 9, R. 8 — Application under Ss. 4 and 46 of Bombay Agricultural Debtor's Relief Act (28 of 1947) (as applied to Kutch) — Dismissal for default.

Apart from the fact that O. 9, R. 8 will not in terms apply to the proceedings as S. 46 of that Act is not made applicable to the State of Kutch, apparently an order dismissing an application for default is not contemplated. See Debt Laws — Bombay Agricultural Debtors' Relief Act (28 of 1947), S. 4. AIR 1953 Kutch 36.

—O. 9, Rr. 8, 7 and Ss. 151, 152, 153 — Amendment of ex parte decree.

——O. 9, R. 9 — Ex parte finding on issue of status— Finality.

Section 4, Mysore Agriculturist's Relief Act (18 of 1928), does not say that ex parte order based on a finding on the preliminary issue as to the status of the defendant cannot be reopened under O. 9, R. 9 or 13 read with S. 141 of the Code. See Debt Laws—Mysore Agriculturists Relief Act (18 of 1928), S. 4. A I R 1955 NUC (Mys) 1237.

——O. 9, R. 9 and O. 34, R. 5 — Application for final decree — Dismissal for default — Restoration.

An application (made within limitation) for a final decree can be dismissed for default and then there would be no "res judicata" because the right of the decree-holder still remains. See Civil Procedure Code (5 of 1908), O. 34, R, 5. AIR 1952 Nag 177.

——O. 9, R. 9—Decree — Setting aside of—Ex parte decree—Suit to set aside, on ground of suppression of summons — Nature of proof required.

Where a party brings a suit for setting aside an ex parte decree on the ground of fraud the plaintiff must show that the decree was obtained by fraud; he must show that summons was fraudulently suppressed and by fraud of the defendant he was kept ignorant of the decree; mere non-service of summons is not sufficient. In order to charge a party with fraud, it is essential to prove that the non-service was the result of some active part taken by that party in not having the summons served and thereby keeping the opposite party from the knowledge of the suit. After the Court comes to a finding as to the non-service of summons or notice, the Court may go into the question whether there was a motive for wilful or fraudulent suppression of the notice or summons in order to obtain a decree based on a false claim. Fraud must be specifically proved and cannot be based on mere suspicion. ——O. 9, R. 9—Restoration application — Notices.

The Court must issue notices not only to the contesting defendants but also to those who were not contesting. If restoration were ordered after issuing notices only to those defendants who were contesting, the order would be one passed in contravention of O. 9, R. 9 (2). AIR 1951 Orissa 266.

——O. 9, R. 13 — Fraud — Ex parte decree obtained by fraud—Remedy of party.

Where an ex parte decree is alleged to have been obtained by fraud, the aggrieved person can either get it set aside under O. 9, R. 13, C. P. Code; or have it set aside through a separate action on the ground of fraud. In the latter event, when no further relief is claimed, the Court can simply set aside the decree and need not say anything about the retrial. A I R 1952 All 424.

——O. 9, R. 13 — Revenue Courts — Partition case— Reopening of proceedings—Order of D. C. as to due service of notice — Reconsideration by successor — Permissibility—C. P. Code, O. 9, R. 13.

The fact that a previous D. C., from reconsidering the matter on a proper application being filed in the nature of an application under O. 9, R. 13, C. P. Code and the D. ——O. 11, R. 21 — Striking out defence — Order for when could be made—Propriety of order—(AIR 1957 All 400, Not foll.)

An order striking out the defence is an order of a very drastic nature which very seriously curtails the rights of a party. Such an order is to be made not merely because there has been an accidental default in complying with the order made by the Court, but only in the interest of justice where the Court feels satisfied that the party defaulting had been acting deliberately or had been reticent. This penalty should only be imposed in the case of wilful default and should be applied in extreme cases as a last resort when default is wilful, and not the result of mere negligence. ——O. 13, R. 1—"First hearing of the suit'—Meaning compared with other provisions of the Code.

The first hearing for production of documents contemplated in O. 13, R. 1 is not the first hearing duly mentioned in the summons for appearance of the defendant, if the suit is a contested one. The scheme of the Code is such that interrogation, and discovery, production and inspection of documents should all be completed before a case be taken up for hearing of evidence. The word hearing is a comprehensive word which may be used with a more or less extensive meaning according to the context. In the context in which they are used, the words 'at the first hearing of the suit' in O. 13, R. 1, mean that hearing after the pleadings are completed and before issues are framed under O. 14. Upto that stage, production of documents is permissible without cause being shown, as contemplated by O. 13, R. 2, but thereafter 'good cause' must be shown for late production of documents. When pre-emption is allowed what takes place is the substitution of the name of the pre-emptor in the sale deed in place of that of the vendee. Since that is so, the pre-emptor will be deemed to be a party to the document and therefore bound by all the terms thereof including a condition for reconveyance.

The law of pre-emption derogates from the general law inasmuch as it interferes with the right of free transfer of property. It is therefore to be strictly construed. Sub-section (4) of S. 174, Berar Land Revenue Code does not in terms apply to a case where pre-emption has already been decreed. After the claim is decreed the original sale-deed must be regarded as one in favour of the pre-emptor. He must, therefore, be held bound by the terms thereof, whatever they may be. 18 N L R 202, Dissented from.

As regards the consideration for the reconveyance which the vendor wants to enforce against the pre-emptor the sale-deed stands amended by the decree for pre-emption and therefore the vendor will be liable to pay only the pre-emption price determined by the decree and not the consideration mentioned in the sale-deed. 1952 Nag L J 402=ILR (1953) Nag 518 =AIR 1952 Nag 316 (DB).

——O. 20, R. 18—Suit for—Joint property capable of being conveniently partitioned — Jurisdiction of Court to direct sale — Co-sharer effecting improvements and repairs—Equitable relief.

In a suit for partition of a joint property (e. g.) a dwelling-house, belonging to certain co-sharers who cannot be considered to be members of a joint Hindu family, the Court has jurisdiction to direct a sale of the property among the co-sharers independently of the Partition Act, if it cannot be reasonably or conveniently partitioned by metes and bounds. A sale amongst the co-sharers subject to valuation made by the Court is the best method of determining which of them should retain the property and what sum should be paid by way of compensation by the co-sharer retaining the property to the other co-sharers. If no offer over the valuation made by the Court is forthcoming from any of the co-sharers, the property can be sold by public auction. (1952) 90 Cal L J 147.

——O. 20, R. 18—Co-sharers — Partition — Finding secured by one co-sharer relating to invalidity of malviappa — Finding enures to benefit of other co-sharers.

A decree for partition is a joint decree in favour of all the share-holders so that execution proceedings taken by one of them are sufficient to keep the decree alive in favour of all. Thus the finding secured by one of the share-holders relating to the invalidity of a particular transaction (e. g. Malviappa) would enure to the benefit of the other share-holders also even though that share-holder had paid the Court-fees only for his share. 1949 Ker L T 5 = 1949 Trav-Co L R 1 (DB).

—O. 32, Rr. 3, 4 and O. 1, R. 10—Minor—Interests should be safe-guarded — Revenue Courts should see that minor is properly represented in a proceeding in which his interest appears to be involved.

Sale deed of a field stood in the name of a minor, though it was alleged to be so taken by his father. In a proceeding under S. 36 (1) read with S. 21 (3) of the Tenancy Act of 1958 the minor's father was made a party but not the minor. The Tahsildar allowed the tenant's application. The minor's father preferred an appeal to the Sub-Divisional Officer who dismissed it. An application was made on behalf of the minor to the Sub-Divisional Officer that he should be made a party, but no order was passed by him on that application. The Revenue Tribunal in revision observed that the minor was not a necessary party and his application for being joined as a party must be deemed to have been rejected by the Sub-Divisional Officer. The Revenue Tribunal proceeded as if the minor's father was the owner and not the minor, when the sale deed was in his name, though the father stated that he purchased the field benami in the name of the minor. The minor moved the High Court under Art. 227 of the Constitution of India.

Held, that in so far as the father claimed the sale deed to be benami his interest was adverse to that of the minor. The Revenue Authorities should have taken sufficient care to see that the minor was properly represented before them and in fact determined who should be his next friend or guardian. It was incumbent on the Tahsildar himself when the sale deed was produced before him to have taken steps for proper representation of the minor in whose name it stood. 1963 Mah L J (Notes) 32.

A sale by Receiver who is an officer of Court under orders of a Court is no doubt not a sale in execution of a decree so as to attract all the incidents of an execution sale, but at the same time it is not to be regarded as a sale by private treaty in all its aspects. An examination of the case law both in England and in America shows that the view has been taken that when an offer made by the prospective purchaser to the Receiver, or to any other officer conducting the sale, has been confirmed by the Court and the entire sale price had been deposited as per orders of Court, the sale deed, though executed later in point of time will date back and take effect from the anterior date when the offer by the purchaser was accepted and the sale confirmed by the Court after payment of the full purchase price. ● ——O. 41, R. 25—Superior and subordinate tribunals —Duty of subordinate tribunal to carry out directions given by superior tribunal — Principle when is not applicable.

A subordinate tribunal has to carry out directions given to it by a superior tribunal in the exercise of its appellate powers for if it refuses to do so the result will be chaos in the administration of justice. This is the principle stated in the decision of AIR 1961 S C 182. However, to attract the principle, it is necessary that there should be an order of a superior tribunal clear, certain and definite in its terms and without any ambiguity, to which the subordinate authority or officer to whom it is addressed, could give effect. Thus, where as a result of the order or orders passed by the superior tribunal, the subordinate tribunal is directed to give effect to a particular judgment of the Supreme Court and its interpretation is left to the subordinate tribunal, the principle of the decision in AIR 1961 S C 182: (1961) 1 S C J 191 : (1961) (1) M L J (S C) 35 : (1961) 1 Andh W R (SC) 35 is inapplicable. T. A. only by 25—Appellate authority remanding case for fresh disposal in accordance with law — On remand, R. T. A. issuing notices to all 70 applicants—Petition by one of appellants praying for issue of writ of prohibition directing R. T. A. to forbear from considering subject relating to grant of permits in pursuance of notices consequent on remand — Held, order of remand must mean and could only mean that direction was to consider 'case' of parties to 25 appeals before appellate authority—Though terms of one statute could not be interpreted with reference to another, by way of analogy, even applying principles of O. 41, R. 33, appeal against order of R. T. A. could not enure to benefit of anybody, except appellant, as each appeal was separate venture—Fact that appeals were considered in batch would make no difference to individuality of appeal — Though on remand, R. T. A. acted without jurisdiction there was no question of any lack of initial jurisdiction in him — Though, therefore, relief (writ of prohibition) could not be granted, petition would not fail for failure to ask appropriate relief—Proper relief would be writ of mandamus. ●—O. 46, R. 1—Specific question referred to Full Bench—Extent of jurisdiction of that Bench.

Where only a specific question has been referred to a Full Bench by a Division Bench the former Bench has jurisdiction to answer that question only and it is not open to it to enter into a question of fact which is before the Division Bench for decision. ●—O. 46, R. 1 — Procedure — Reference to Full Bench—Reference of entire case—Desirability.

Although it is always competent for a Bench of the High Court to refer an entire case to a Full Bench of the Court, yet it is always desirable, whenever possible to refer to a larger Bench only those points on which the decision of a larger Bench is considered to be necessary. Questions of fact or law on which there is no necessity of inviting the opinion of a larger Bench should not be referred to the larger Bench, as firstly, it involves unnecessary waste of time of the larger Bench and secondly, it might also happen that the opinion of the larger Bench on question of law of a controversial nature may be rendered obiter by reason of the ultimate decision of the case, Moradhwaj v. COHIN LAND ACQUISITION ACT (2 of 1070 M.E.)

See also corresponding provisions of Land Acquisition Act (1894).

——S. 1 — Travancore-Cochin Requisitioning and Acquisition of Property Act (1 of 1956), S. 1—Object and fields of operation of two Acts are different— Cochin Act held not repealed by Act 1 of 1956— Words and Phrases — 'Requisitioning' and 'Acquisition' — Travancore-Cochin Requisitioning and Acquisition of Property Act (1 of 1956), S. 1.

The Cochin Act provides for the acquisition of any property but Act 1 of 1956 provides for the requisitioning of property, and in certain cases, for the acquisition of requisitioned property. Requisitioning and acquisition are different concepts in law, requisitioning implying only a temporary deprivation of the owner, of the use and possession of a property, acquisition implying a transference of the property, or all the rights thereto. In requisitioning, the title remains with the owner, but he is excluded by the State from the right to the possession or enjoyment of the property, but acquisition is the acquiring of the entire title of the expropriated owner whatever the nature or extent of that title may be. 1950 S C R 863, Foll.

Acquisition under the T. C. Act of 1956 is limited only to the property requisitioned and can be made, only on the fulfilment of certain conditions. This is not the object of statutes like the Cochin Act relating to the acquisition of land, under which any land may be acquired, without the need for requisitioning. The two Acts are intended to serve different purposes, and to apply to different situations and can well stand together. There is therefore no repeal of the Cochin Act or any of its provisions by the T. C. Act 1 of 1956. 1960 Ker L T 181 = 1960 Ker L J 224= (1960) 1 Ker L R 364=I L R (1960) Ker 464.

——Ss. 13, 16 and 17 — Alteration in object clause in memorandum of Association to undertake new and additional business— Courts when should sanction such alteration.

Whether a new or additional business is to be undertaken by a company is primarily a matter which concerns its directors, managers and share-holders subject to the wishes of creditors who have lent money to the Company either with or without security. If the directors of the Company approach the share-holders for sanction by a special resolution to the alteration of its memorandum so as to undertake new and additional kinds of business which do not go to destroy the business already carried on by the Company the Court should not take any exception to such alteration. ——S. 17 — Confirmation of amendment of object clause — Considerations.

Where an object clause of a company is sought to be amended by incorporating therein some new business the fact that the new business is a departure for the company, having nothing in common with the existing business is not fatal to the petition for amendment. What is to be seen is whether the additional business is one which may conveniently or advantageously be combined with the existing business and whether the new business is in any way inconsistent with or destructive of the existing business. Where this is not so the amendment can be allowed. (1964) 34 Com Cas 86 (All).

——S. 17—Proposed additional business of Company may be entirely different from the existing one — But that by itself is not sufficient to refuse confirmation under S. 17 (2) — Court has to consider whether the new business is not destructive of or inconsistent with the existing one and confirmation cannot be given unless there is a present desire for the Company to carry on the new business in the near future —It is not for the Court to tell the Company but it is for the shareholders, to decide what business should be carried on or how it should be carried. ——S. 237 (b) — Order under section — Validity — Section is not a hostile piece of legislation.

By making an order of investigation no one is being subjected to a judicial process and there is no legal grievance which can possibly be said to arise. Article 14 prohibits hostile legislation directed against individuals or groups of individuals, but it does not forbid reasonable classification. Section 237 cannot be said to be a hostile piece of legislation in which any arbitrary discrimination has been made in case of companies. The power of the Central Government has been delegated to the Company Law Board which has to reach its independent conclusion about the existence of circumstances to justify an investigation. ——Ss. 543 and 235—Misfeasance or breach of trust—Mere misconduct of directors will not entitle a winding up order.

Mere misconduct on the part of the directors is not a ground for winding up, where it had not affected the finances of the Company. After all, a company exists for the benefit of the share-holders and where profits have been earned, notwithstanding mismanagement by the Directors, it will not be fair to the share-holders to kill the company by winding it up, and it is not a proper remedy for redressing the alleged misconduct. An alternative remedy is open under S. 235 by a petition to the Central Government. (1965) 2 Com L J 272 = 78 Mad L W 579 (Mad).

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA

PREAMBLE

——Preamble—Constitutionality of legislation—Principles—Doctrine of pith and substance to be applied. ILR (1965) Bom 897=67 Bom LR 484 (DB).

——Preamble — Interpretation of statutes — Taxing statutes—Principles.

A taxing statute cannot be interpreted by importing notions of equity or natural justice. Where the terms of the statute are clear, they would have to be given effect to whether harsh or unjust. He who seeks a benefit under a statute by reason of a special provision therein to which he would not otherwise be entitled to must conform to the provision diligently and to the letter of the statute. Equity has its place within or outside the sphere of law, but it wields no influence over the interpretation of statutes which are omnipotent and which speak and operate only through its language, expressed or necessarily implied. Any departure from the terms of the statute into regions of equity which is not a concept of definite or precise import might lead the Court unwarily into the field of legislation. That surely is not the province of Courts. (1964) 1 Mad L J 211=(1964) 15 STC (421)= ILR (1964) 1 Mad 205 (DB).

——Preamble—Interpretation of statutes—Subsequent legislation may be called in aid to interpret ambiguous provisions in an earlier statute on the same subject. ILR (1963) Mad 791=(1964) 53 ITR 683.

——Preamble—Civil P. C. (1908), Preamble — Interpretation of Statutes — Constitution of India, preamble and Art. 246 — Question of motive of legislature is immaterial where there is no lack of legislative competence to pass an Act. See Civil P. C. (1908), Preamble. (1964) ILR 43 Pat 25.

——Preamble — Interpretation of statutes — Initial presumption in favour of its validity—(Interpretation of statutes).

A statute is passed as a whole for the purpose of effectuating the legislative scheme, each section, to some extent, taking colour and content from its associate sections. And then, respect due to the wisdom, integrity, partriotism and loyalty to the Constitution on the part of the legislative body requires an initial presumption in favour of validity of statutory provisions and also calls for a construction if the language permits, to restrict its operation within constitutional bounds to avoid challenge of unconstitutionality. ——Art. 14 — Bombay High Court Appellate Side Rules (1960), Chapter XVII, R. 15-A (as added in 1964)—Validity—Rule does not contravene Art. 14.

Rule 15-A does not contravene Art. 14. It is well settled that if there is any reasonable or clear classification, an attack on the ground of discrimination under Art. 14 cannot be available. Different treatments of matters arising out of different Acts dealing with different subjects cannot give rise to any challenge on the ground of discrimination, nor can the fact that the applications from the different Acts decided by different authorities ultimately reach the High Court under its jurisdiction under Art. 227 required all such matters to be treated alike by the High Court in their disposal. 1965 Mah L J 203 = ILR (1966) Bom 243= 67 Bom L R 69 (DB).

——Art. 14—Scope—Article forbids class legislation but does not forbid reasonable classification for legislation — Test for permissible classification laid down—The principle applies not only to classifications made under statutory provision but also applies to those made under executive orders.

Article 14 forbids class legislation but it does not forbid reasonable classification for the purposes of legislation; in order, however, to pass the test of permissible classification two conditions must be fulfilled, namely (i) that the classification must be founded on an intelligible differentia which distinguishes persons or things that are grouped together from others left out of the group and (2) that that differentia must have a rational relation to the object sought to be achieved by the statute in question. In other words, what is necessary is that there must be a nexus between the basis of classification and the object of classification. This rule applies not only to classifications made under any statutory provision but also those made under executive orders. The refusal to issue a passport on irrelevant grounds amounts to a hostile discrimination within the meaning of Art. 14. (1939) 307 U. S 325 and A I R 1956 S C 479, Rel. on. (1965) 4 Law Rep 617 = (1965) 2 Mys L J 605.

The law which seeks to obtain industrial peace for a limited period by prohibiting strikes cannot be said to be an unreasonable restriction on a right to go on a strike, if such a right was guaranteed by the Constitution. What the Legislature has rendered illegal is to go on a strike during a limited period during which the machinery of conciliation and arbitration is brought into operation and for some time thereafter which is reasonable enough. ——Art. 19—Guarantee of fundamental rights under the Article is not absolute.

It is well recognised that the guarantee of the fundamental rights under Art. 19 of the Constitution is not absolute. The individual rights which the Constitution safeguards are individual rights in a social organization which requires the protection of laws against the evils which menace the life, safety and welfare of the people. The rights and powers of the Constitution are largely means of protecting important social and individual interests; and because it is necessary that these interests should be balanced, the Articles of the Constitution cannot be construed in an absolute sense. (1964) ILR 43 Pat 25.

The provisions of S. 14 (4) of the Punjab Sugarcane (Regulation of Purchase and Supply) Act, 1953 do not impose unreasonable restrictions on the right of the cane-grower to hold property and carry on business. As a matter of fact, the restrictions are reasonable and in the interest of the general public. They are intended to aid the economic growth of the country. Besides, the provisions of S. 14 (4) are invoked only in special circumstances, that is, when the sugar mills do not get adequate cane supply for their daily crush and there is an imminent danger of their being closed on account of the non-supply of sugarcane.

Moreover, there is no total prohibition when the cane-grower can make the necessary purchases of sugarcane from the areas, which are outside the assigned area of the factory and, thus, manufacture gur by animal-driven crushers. (1963) 65 Pun L R 750 (DB).

Complete prohibition is permissible while enforcing regulatory provisions. Inasmuch as R. 131 (2) (gg) clearly permits complete prohibition it would be impossible to hold that complete prohibition is beyond its scope. Besides, so far as the first part of the impugned order dated 17-8-1964 excluding private operators from certain route, is concerned, it is a mistake to think it to be one requisitioning or acquiring property. The real nature, the essential quality, in other words, the pith and substance of that part of the order is preventive, the object being to restrain persons from carrying on activities which may jeopardise national security, and in such a case no question of payment of compensation obviously arises. The reason why a statute is held in an appropriate case to have replaced the prerogative right to the whole or a part of its extent is that the Crown is an assenting party to a statute and where a statute does provide that the Crown can only do a particular thing under and in accordance with its provisions, the Crown is necessarily taken to have agreed to a curtailment or abolition of its prerogative power.

But the statute must be such that its terms do limit the Crown to its provisions and thereby exclude the prerogative or hold it in suspension, as in the case of temporary statute. ●——Art. 134—Supreme Court —Practice—Findings of fact—When can be interfered with.

In so far as a conclusion is a pure finding of fact, the Supreme Court will not ordinarily interfere therewith. If, however, the conclusion is apparently vitiated by an error of law it becomes proper and desirable for that Court to consider what the correct finding would be on a correct appreciation of law. the Supreme Court—When issues were framed in the trial Court counsel for both the parties expressly stating that there was no other point in dispute and that they gave it up if a mention of it was made in the pleadings — Held under the circumstances it was too late to allow the point to be raised in the argument before the Supreme Court. Wali Singh v. Sohan Singh, AIR 1954 SC 263 (266) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

●——Art. 134—Supreme Court — Practice— Concurrent findings — Held, Supreme Court did not find good reason for departing from well-established practice of Supreme Court of not disturbing concurrent finding of the trial Court and the first appellate Court in the present case, held the finding that the parties were Sudras was largely based on the oral evidence, and Judges of High Court in arriving at their conclusion had not overlooked the tests laid down in a series of authoritative decisions for determining the question whether a person belongs to the regenerate community or to the sudra community. ARTICLE 136

●——Art. 136 — Interference by Privy Council in Criminal cases.

Where there was evidence upon which the trial Court could find the appellant guilty of the crime with which he is charged though another tribunal might have come to a different conclusion upon it, it is the established practice of the Privy Council not to interfere with the decision of the Courts in India. Suka v. The King, AIR 1950 P C 72 (72, 73) (Pr 3).

●——Art. 136—Privy Council — Practice—Question as to fault in procedure—Question not argued before High Court nor referred to in petition for special leave to appeal — Board cannot entertain such question.

It is quite contrary to the settled practice of the Board to entertain a question whether there was any fault in procedure in the case when that question was not argued in the High Court and was not referred to in the petition for special leave to appeal. Lumbhardar Zutshi v. The King, AIR 1950 P C 26 (27) (Pt C) (Pr 7).

●——Art. 136—Privy Council — Practice — Point inconsistent with plaint — Point cannot be raised for first time.

Where a point is not merely not raised by, but is inconsistent with the plaint, the plaintiff-appellant cannot be allowed to raise the point for the first time before the Board. Savitri Devi v. Ram Ran Bijoy, AIR 1950 PC 1 (4) (Pt A) (Pr 22).

The office of a patel or a lambardar is an office of profit under the Government of Rajasthan and a person appointed as a patel under the Jaipur Land Revenue Act of 1947 continued to be so under the Rajasthan Act of 1956. The Office of patel in the former State of Jaipur was an office of profit ever since the Jaipur Land Record Manual came into force. Under the Jaipur Land Revenue Act of 1947 which came into force in the State of Jaipur later there is no doubt that a patel was the holder of an office of profit under the Government of that State in view of S. 35. Under the Rajasthan Land Revenue Act of 1956 which repealed the Jaipur Land Revenue Act, the office of lambardar under that Act who is a Government servant holding office of profit corresponds to the office of a patel under the Jaipur Land Revenue Act which continues in force under the Rajasthan Act in view of S. 27 of Rajasthan General Clauses Act. 1959 Raj L W 234 = 20 Ele L R 301 = ILR (1959) 9 Raj 389.

1. Act of State, writ in respect of.

——Art. 226 — Action of Government under S. 53-A of C. P. and Berar Municipalities Act (1922) — Justiciability — Held, on facts that the invocation of the power of the High Court under Art. 226 was not open to the petitioner, and even if it was, the Court should not accede to his request. See Municipalities —C. P. Berar Municipalities Act (1922), S. 53-A. 1958 MPC 197=1958 MPLJ 553 = 1958 Jab L J 637.

2. Administrative authority.

● ——Art. 226 — Administrative tribunal — Duty of.

It is well known that even administrative bodies or authorities which are authorised to deal with matters within their jurisdiction in an adminstrative manner, are required to reach their decisions fairly and objectively; but in reaching their decisions, they would be justified in taking into account considerations of policy. Even so, administrative bodies may, in acting fairly and objectively, follow the principles of natural justice; but that does not make the adminstrative bodies tribunals and does not impose on them an obligation to follow the principles of natural justice. On the other hand, authorities or bodies which are given jurisdiction by statutory provisions to deal with the rights of citizens, may be required by the relevant statute to act judicially in dealing with matters entrusted to them. An obligation to act judicially may, in some cases, be inferred from the scheme of the relevant statute and its material provisions. In such a case, it is easy to hold that the authority or body must act in accordance with the principles of natural justice before exercising its jurisdiction and its powers; but it is not necessary that the obligation to follow the principles of natural justice must be expressly imposed on such an authority or body. If it appears that the authority or body has been given power to determine questions affecting the rights of citizens, the very nature of the power would inevitably impose the limitation that the power should be exercised in conformity with the principles of natural justice. Whether or not such an authority or body is a tribunal, would depend upon the nature of the power conferred on the authority or body, the nature of the rights of citizens, the decision of which falls within the jurisdiction of the said authority or body, and other relevant circumstances. Shri Bhagwan v. Ramchand, AIR 1965 S C 1767 (1770) (Pt A) (Pr 5).

●——Art. 226 — Administrative orders — Duty of public authorities.

Public authorities cannot play fast and loose with the powers vested in them, and persons to whose detriment orders are made are entitled to know with exactness and precision what they are expected to do or forbear from doing and exactly what authority is making the order. Commr. of Police, Bombay v. Gordbandas Bhanji, 1951 S C J 803 = 65 Mad L W 212 = 1952 S C R 135 = 54 Bom L R 383 = (1952) S C A 53 = AIR 1952 S C 16.

3. Administrative order.

●——Art. 226 — Administrative orders — Public orders — Construction — Deed, construction — Interpretation of Statutes —Public orders.

Public orders, publicly made, in exercise of a statutory authority cannot be construed in the light of explanations subsequently given by the officer making the order of what he meant, or of what was in his mind, or what he intended to do. Public orders made by public authorities are meant to have public effect and are intended to affect the actings and conduct of those to whom they are addressed and must be construed objectively with reference to the language used in the order itself. Commr. of Police, Bombay v. Gordhandas Bhanji, 1951 S C J 803 = 65 Mad L W 212 = 1952 S C R 135 = 54 Bom L R 383 = (1952) S C A 53 = AIR 1952 S C 16 (18) (Pt B) (Pr 9).

——Art. 226 — Commissioner's order under — It is administrative order and not subject to certiorari — Earlier order of Income-tax Officer becomes merged in order of Commissioner — Hence even Income-tax Officer's order cannot be quashed. See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 33A (2). ILR (1963) Andh Pra 420.

——Art. 226 — Administrative orders—Order issued not to be vague.

On a representation made by an employee of a Municipal Committee which had ordered recovery of pay paid to the clerk for suspension period after his reinstatement, the Collector informed him "you can take legal recourse in the matter if you so like."

Held, this was hardly an order. The Collector should not have summarily rejected the applicant's petition without obtaining report from the Municipal Committee and without applying his mind to the facts of the case. The Collector's communication was so vague that it left the applicant in a very uncertain position making it difficult for him to know what further course he was expected to follow. 1958 M P L J (Notes) 63 (Rev).

——Art. 226 — Removal of sarpanch by notification for holding office of Lambardar Gountia on ground that he was "holder of office of profit" — Office of Lambardar Gountia abolished by subsequent notifition — Proper remedy for Sarpanch to move Government to cancel prior notification — No interference under Art. 226. (1962) 4 O J D 431 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Collector dropping the proceedings against Government servant, instituted on charge of illegal gratification — Commissioner is authorised to revive the proceedings. 1962 B L J R 852 = ILR 42 Pat 521.

——Art. 226 — Administrative orders — Passed in accordance with rules not materially affecting rights of aggrieved party — Courts not competent to scan the wisdom of such orders. AIR 1963 Punj 345.

14. Certiorari.

——Arts. 226, 225 and 227 — Certiorari — Bench of High Court is not empowered to issue certiorari against an order passed by a Single Judge on original side—Such order is by the High Court itself—Art. 226 or Art. 227 cannot be invoked—Letters Patent (Bom), Cls. 36, 11 and 12. 50 Bom L R 293, Dist. 1965 Mah L J 414=I L R (1965) Bom 790 (DB).

15. Civil servant, dismissal of.

——Art. 226 — Order of dismissal of public servant after enquiry into his conduct by tribunal — Objection that tribunal which recorded evidence was not tribunal which submitted report of his enquiry—Dismissal of public servant is only administrative act and not judicial act, though order is preceded by proceeding resembling judicial enquiry and hence authority competent to punish servant can very well delegate enquiry to any agency it chooses; delinquent officer can only succeed if he establishes that order challenged was made by punishing authority without directing its mind to evidence in the case. I L R (1965) Andh Pra 482.

——Art. 226—Dismissal of public servant by Government of Andhra Pradesh on report of enquiry into his misconduct — Charges against servant enquired into by tribunal relating to period prior to formation of State of Andhra Pradesh — S. 116 (2) clarifies that

S. 116 (1) would not prevent competent authority after appointed day from passing in relation to a civil servant any order affecting his continuance in his post or office — Held further, that police officer who conducted enquiry into charges was officer within S. 125 and hence subsequent proceedings held by tribunal on strength of his report were in accordance with Act (Obiter). I L R (1965) Andh Pra 482.

——Art. 226—(Madras Elementary Education Act (8 of 1920), S. 56)—(Rules for Grant of Recognition and Aid to Elementary Schools, R. 13 (2) (ii), Proviso)—Termination of service for gross insubordination—Previous approval of Deputy Inspector of Schools—Necessity when a charge of gross insubordination is proved, the management is not called upon to get the previous approval of the Deputy Inspector of Schools. See Madras Elementary Education Act (1920), S. 56. (1959) 1 Andh W R 386.

——Art. 226—Disciplinary proceedings — Petitioner challenging his dismissal from service inter alia on ground that charge of which he was found guilty was false—Held, writ Court was not Court of appeal and would not go into truth or falsity of charge unless findings on charge was based on no evidence whatever or was highly perverse. (1963) 1 Lab L J 708=(1963) 6 Fac L R 26 (Cal).

——Art. 226 — Disciplinary proceedings — Relevant documents asked for by delinquent to enable him to cross-examine witnesses — Documents ordered to be produced by Inquiring Officer but not produced by Department and consequently not supplied to delinquent at any stage of enquiry — Held, principles of natural justice were not observed at enquiry. (1963) 1 Lab L J 708=(1963) 6 Fac L R 26 (Cal).

——Art. 226—Disciplinary proceedings—Opportunity to show cause is not matter of form but of substance —To burden a person proceeded against with mass of documentary evidence against him and then in a day or two to call upon him to meet evidence is not giving proper opportunity to show cause. (1963) 1 Lab L J 708=(1963) 6 Fac L R 26 (Cal).

——Art. 226—Disciplinary proceedings—Opportunity to show cause—Petitioner's request for short adjournment of inquiry and for supply of copy of deposition of witnesses refused by Inquiring Authority and petitioner asked to cross-examine witnesses at once—Held, petitioner was not given reasonable opportunity to defend himself. (1963) 1 Lab L J 708=(1963) 6 Fac L R 26 (Cal).

——Art. 226 — Central Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules (1957), Rr. 13, 16—Disciplinary action against Government Servant—Departmental fact finding inquiry — Resulting in minor penalties — No formal inquiry as is necessary for imposing major penalties required—Where particular procedure is prescribed by rules for disciplinary action, principles of natural justice cannot be imported in such inquiry. (1963) 6 Fac L R 38 (Cal)=(1963) 1 Lab L J 698.

——Art. 226—Central Civil Services—Punishment—Imposition of minor penalty — The concerned civil servant given an opportunity to show cause against the imposition of minor penalty — The final order rejecting the representations and imposing a minor penalty, held, not vitiated on ground that the enquiry was not conducted — The delinquent servant could not ask for a joint enquiry as a matter of right. (1963) 6 Fac L R 38 (Cal) = (1963) 1 Lab L J 698.

——Art. 226—Departmental enquiry — Purpose and nature of findings based on evidence — High Court will not decide adequacy or reliability of evidence. See Constitution of India, Art. 311. (1964) 2 Mys L J 65=(1967) 2 Lab L J 156.

16. Delay in applying.

——Art. 226 — Writ Petitions — Limitation—Petition filed beyond 90 days of the order without explaining the delay—Petition dismissed. It is settled practice of Allahabad High Court that writ petitions should be filed within 90 days of the order complained against. (1962) 46 ITR 529 (All).

——Art. 226—Civil P. C. (1908), S. 151, O. 41, R. 19 — Limitation Act (1908), Art. 168 — Dismissal of appeal for default — Application for restoration contending that applicant was not aware of posting of appeal—Court finding that dismissal of appeal was erroneous as applicant was not aware of posting of appeal but dismissing application as barred by time holding that applicant had knowledge of dismissal of appeal—Held, Court was not justified in invoking principles of O. 41, R. 19 or Art. 168 while dismissing application—Court should have allowed application under S. 151 — Its not doing so constituted error of law apparent on face of record and could be corrected in writ proceedings. AIR 1949 All 36, Rel. on. Constitution of India, Art. 226. See Civil P. C. (1908), S. 151. ILR (1963) A P 1022.

——Art. 226—Delay or laches.

If the impugned notification is invalid the delay in filing writ petition is not a ground on which the High Court will refuse to grant any relief to the petitioner. ILR (1964) 16 Assam 482 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Writ petition — Delay in filing — If alleged wrong is a continuing one, delay cannot be ground for rejecting it — Term of Municipal Committee expired — Fresh election not ordered — Term not extended under S. 25 of Bombay Municipal Boroughs Act (1925)—Old committee continuing in a continuous wrong — Delay in filing writ petition is excusable. (1962) 64 Bom L R 557=ILR (1963) Bom 188 (DB).

17. Dismissal, removal, discharge or reduction in rank.

——Art. 226—(Madras Elementary Education Act (8 of 1920), S. 56; Rules relating to Elementary Schools, R. 13 (2) (ii) (a) and (b))—Non-compliance—Effect of —Issue of writ of ceriorari—Petitioner's employment elsewhere—If bar. The fact that the petitioner is employed elsewhere will not affect the issue of writ of certiorari to quash the illegal order of dismissal of the petitioner. See Madras Elementary Education Act (8 of 1920), S. 56. (1960) 2 Andh W R 305.

——Arts. 226, 227 and 321—Dismissal of servant for misconduct and negligence in his duties — Domestic enquiry on which servant was dismissed not unfair or violative of principles of natural justice — Writ-Court cannot act as Court of Appeal or review and substitute its own judgment for that of management. (1964) 1 Lab L J 500 (Mad).

——Arts. 226, 311—Dismissal of Excise Sub-Inspector on charges of giving false deposition and shielding accused in trials conducted by him—Writ petition filed by him two years after order of dismissal—Subsequent petition for starting contempt of Courts proceedings against superior officers — It could be legitimately inferred that he was inspired by mala fides in that he wanted the contempt of Court proceedings as a lever to gain success in the writ petition ultimately—Petition for contempt of Court was liable to be dismissed. ILR (1964) Andh Pra 811 (DB).

——Art. 226—Madras Shops and Establishments Act (36 of 1947), S. 41 — Appeal by employee on his dismissal on ground of misconduct — Finding no evidence on record as to justify punishment, Commissioner holding order of dismissal as wrong—Held no error was committed by Commissioner in exercise of his jurisdiction and Court could not interfere with his order under Art. 226 : 1958-1-LLJ 280 and 1959-2-LLJ 245, Ref. Madras Shops and Establishments Act (36 of 1947), S. 41. (1963) 1 Lab L J 44 (Mad).

18. Domestic tribunals.

——Art. 226—Domestic Tribunal — Rules of natural justice to be followed.

A domestic tribunal must act honestly and with good faith, and must give a delinquent a chance of explanation and defence. It has been held that so long as a domestic tribunal acts honestly, in good faith, with a sense of responsibility and in consonance with its own rules, its decision cannot be questioned on ground of breach of rules of natural justice, for the reason that in that case the rules of natural justice will be deemed to have been observed. ——Arts. 226, 227 and 311 — Domestic Tribunal — Open-mindedness and detachment is essential in every person charged with duty of holding enquiry and giving opinion against another — Held, there was no evidence that presiding officer at enquiry was biased against petitioner, a dismissed servant, or that he was virtually his prosecutor. 1932 AC 586, Rel. on. Civil P. C. (1908), S. 9, Master & Servant. (1964) 1 Lab L J 500 (Mad).

——Art. 226—Domestic Tribunals — Discretionary orders—Interference—Not permissible.

Administrative Tribunal holding enquiry against delinquent employee has discretion to allow or reject his belated prayer to examine additional witnesses. High Court cannot, in exercise of its jurisdiction under Art. 226 of Constitution, interfere with that exercise of discretion, even if the discretion is assumed to be exercised wrongly. AIR 1963 404, Rel. on. 1963 East L R 12 Orissa (DB).

——Art. 226—Tribunal—Association — Chamber of Commerce—Produce section—Managing Committee —Action of, in fixing clearance price—Validity.

The normal business of the Produce Section of a Chamber of Commerce was the carrying on of formal transactions in respect of cocoanut oil and pepper. On 24-9-51 day the oil market opened at 10 a.m., at Rs. 700 per candy and came down to Rs. 690. Seeing the downward tendency of the market the Secretary of the Produce Section issued a notice closing the market abruptly at 2-45 P. M. and fixing the price for clearance at Rs. 707 per candy. As many members of the Produce Section resented the action of the Secretary the Committee which managed the Produce Section met on the morning of 25-9-1951 and resolved to fix the price of oil for clearance at Rs. 696 per candy and closed the market for the day. Though under the Bye-laws the Committee could ordinarily fix the rate of settlement for clearance on every Friday after closing the business for that day it could fix any special clearance prices on any day in the week if circumstances warranted such a clearance in the interests of the trade.

Held, that the power to fix the clearance price on any day in the week implied the power to close the market on any day and, therefore, the action of the Committee in fixing the clearance price by the resolution dated 25-9-51 was not ultra vires.

Held, further that the resolution of the Committee, not being vitiated by any malice or dishonesty was not ultra vires, unjust or unfair. 1951 Ker L T 701=ILR (1951) Trav-Co 667=AIR 1953 Trav-Co 26 (29, 31) (Pt A) (Prs 11, 17).

——Art. 226—Tribunal — Association — Voluntary association—Charactristics.

One of the fundamental characteristics of a voluntary society is the notion that it should be autonomous and that its powers of Self-Government should not be interfered with save in exceptional circumstances. 1951 Ker L T 701 = ILR (1951) Trav-Co 667=AIR 1953 Trav-Co 26 (30) (Pt D) (Pr 16).

——Art. 226—Tribunal—Proceedings of—Conditions imposed.

There are two conditions imposed by the Court on the proceedings of a domestic tribunal. The first is that the tribunal must not exceed its jurisdiction, and the second is that the proceedings should not offend the rules of natural justice. 22. Fundamental rights, suspension of.

——Art. 226 — Railway platform — Licences for sale of articles on platforms cancelled — If an infringement of fundamental rights.

There is nothing illegal in the State, when it took upon itself the Railway Administration in April, 1951, in its act of cancelling licences previously granted to vendors selling articles on the platform of a Railway station. The Railway platform being the private property of the Railways there has been no infringement of the fundamental rights of petitioners by the State in revoking licences granted to them. 65 Mad L W 336 (1)=(1952) 2 Mad L J 28=A I R 1952 Mad 834 (834, 835) (Pr 2) (DB).

——Art. 226 — Infraction of fundamental rights — Court is bound to interfere even if justice is not on side of petitioner.

Where a petitioner complains of infraction of his fundamental rights, the Court must interfere under Art. 226 to protect such fundamental rights and should not refuse protection on the ground that he has other remedy available to him or that justice is not on his side. 1955-55 Bom LR 246 and observations of Mahajan C. 33. Mandamus.

——Art. 226—Mandamus—Prior demand for justice —Exception.

When a petitioner asks for a writ in the nature of mandamus, which is generally done against a public officer or a public corporation, the public officer or the corporation concerned, should have an opportunity of setting matters right before the Court is moved. There are, however, several exceptions to this rule, one of them is that a prior demand for justice is excused when it is found that such a demand would be useless. (1964) 9 Fac L R 275 = (1966) 2 Lab L J 719 (Cal).

34. Natural justice.

●——Art. 226 — Enquiry by management — Representation — Workmen entitled by standing order to representation only by representative of recognized

Union — Workmen insisting on assistance of representative of their unrecognized Union with a view indirectly to obtain recognition to Union—Principle of natural justice is not violated by refusal of such request. Dunlop Rubber Co. v. Their Workmen, AIR 1965 SC 1392.

——Art. 226—Departmental enquiry—Reasonable opportunity—Mere refusal to be represented by lawyer does not, by itself, offend principles of natural justice — Charge of accepting bribe — Trap laid by Anti-Corruption Department — Evidence in support of charge led by Police Sub-Inspector — Delinquent refused permission to be represented by lawyer but allowed assistance of another police Sub-Inspector of his choice to conduct case for him — Full opportunities given to delinquent to know charge against him and to lead evidence and all witnesses produced in support of charge cross-examined by Sub-Inspector — Held, refusal of permission did not amount to denial of reasonable opportunity for purposes of Art. 311(2). See Constitution of India, Art. 311(2). (1967) 2 Lab L J 156=(1964) 2 Mys L J 65.

——Art. 226—Principle of natural justice — Compliance — Sales tax assessment proceedings — It is enough if the gist of the private information collected by the assessing officer is made known to the assessee so that he may be in a position to rebut it — Persons from whom information obtained need not be produced and examined before assessee. (1963) 14 S T C 642 (Orissa).

——Art. 226—Natural justice—Rules of—Compliance of—Enquiry against examinee for using unfair means in examination—Adequate opportunity to be heard.

In an enquiry against the petitioner examinee on a charge of smuggling written answer book from outside, when the material which went against the petitioner and on the basis of which the petitioner had been disqualified was put to him and he was afforded full opportunity to explain it away, the mere fact that the material is such that it cannot at all be explained away is no ground to hold that the opportunity afforded is not either proper or adequate. (1965) 67 Pun L R 544.

——Arts. 226 and 32—Natural justice — Reasonable opportunity—Essentials indicated.

The requirement of a reasonable opportunity of being heard has two elements. The first is that an opportunity must be given and the second is that this opportunity must be reasonable. Both these matters are justiciable and it is for the Court to determine both whether an opportunity has in fact been given as well as whether that opportunity was reasonable. There is no invariable standard of "reasonableness" except that the Court's conscience has to be satisfied that the person against whom the prejudicial order is proposed to be made has a fair chance of convincing the authority that the grounds on which the proposed order is sought to be made either do not exist or do not justify the proposed order. This would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. (1964) 66 Pun L R 351.

——Art. 226—Employees' Provident Funds Act (1952), S. 19-A—Scope of—It does not deal with individual controversy between parties — Order of Central Government under S. 19-A directing that the establishment is new set up, passed at instance of party without hearing the other side — Order is invalid — Order also held as violative of principle of natural justice. ——Art. 226—Proceedings under — Nature of — Proceeding takes its colour from the nature of original proceeding—I L R (1958) Mad 117, Foll.

The character of the proceedings under Art. 226, will have to be determined with due regard to the nature of the relief which was asked for and granted or refused. The proceeding under Art. 226 will necessarily take its colour from the nature of the original proceeding before the inferior tribunal. There are several kinds of jurisdictions which have been vested in the inferior tribunals under a variety of special legislations and in all these cases the party aggrieved can invoke the jurisdiction of the High Court under Art. 226 on the ground that there is an infringement of a fundamental right or excess or jurisdiction. 51. Error on face of record.

——Arts. 226 and 227 — Error on face of record — When a Tribunal does not take into consideration material evidence, it fails to exercise jurisdiction vested in it and hence its finding must be quashed. ILR (1963) Andh Pra 500 (DB).

——Art. 226 — Income-tax Act (1922), S. 18-A (6), Proviso 5 (as inserted with retrospective effect) — Charging of penal interest — Jurisdiction of Income-tax Officer and of Commissioner in revision — Error on face of record—In this case the High Court has to see whether the petitioner is able to establish from the records that there is an error of law apparent on the face of record. And it is in the light of the decision in 34 I T R 439 (Bom) that the High Court has to examine the order of the Commissioner of Income-tax, and if that be done, it is difficult to see how it can be said that there is no error of law apparent on the face of record — See Income-tax Act (1922), S. 18-A (6), Proviso 5. ——Art. 226 — Certiorari — Writ of — Order of Central Government as final authority under statute — Quashing of — Fact that it does not give detailed reason is not a sufficient ground. (1965) Pun L R (Sup) 460.

——Art. 226—Mala fides—Grounds for—Bias—Test.

No question of mala fides can be raised when the Court has to examine whether the order of a quasi-judiciai Tribunal should be quashed by certiorari. But bias in the Tribunal is certainly a ground for doing so and the Court will quash the determination arrived at by it by certiorari. The test is not whether in fact a bias has affected the judgment; the test always is and must be whether a litigant could reasonably apprehend that a bias attributable to a member of the Tribunal might have operated against him in the final decision. 74. Mandamus and prohibition, compared.

——Art. 226—R. T. A. granting pucca stage carriage permit only to two applicants out of 70—Appeal against order of R. T. A. only by 25—Appellate authority remanding case for fresh disposal in accordance with law — On remand, R. T. A. issuing notices to all 70 applicants — Petition by one of appellants, praying for issue of writ of prohibition directing

R. T. A. to forbear from considering subject relating to grant of permits in pursuance of notices consequent on remand — Held, order of remand must mean and could only mean that direction was to consider 'case' of parties to 25 appeals before appellate authority— Though terms of one statute could not be interpreted with reference to another, by way of analogy even applying principles of O. 41, R. 33, appeal against order of R. T. A. could not enure to benefit of anybody, except appellant, as each appeal was separate venture—Fact that appeals were considered in batch would make no difference to individuality of appeal —Though on remand, R. T. A. acted without jurisdiction there was no question of any lack of initial jurisdiction in him—Though, therefore, relief (writ of prohibition) could not be granted, petition would not fail for failure to ask appropriate relief—Proper relief would be writ of mandamus. ARTICLE 228

——Art. 228 — Article when is applicable. A reading of Art. 228 of the Constitution would reveal that in order to make that article applicable three essential ingredients must exist : (1) a case must be pending in the Court subordinate to the High Court, (2) the High Court must be satisfied that the case involves a substantial question of law as to the interpretation of the Constitution. It should really involve such a question. I L R (1965) Andh Pra 645.

——Arts. 235, 309, 234 — Disciplinary proceedings against subordinate judicial officer — Authority competent to initiate.

Having regard to Rr. 8 and 11 of the Mysore Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, 1957 and Arts. 234, 235 and 309 of the Constitution, both the Governor as well as the High Court have competence to initiate disciplinary proceedings against a subordinate Judicial Officer. It cannot be said that it is the High Court and High Court alone that is the sole authority competent to initiate such proceedings. (1965) 3 Law Rep 356 (Mys).

ARTICLE 245

——Art. 245 — Order of dismissal of public servant after enquiry into his conduct by tribunal — Objection that tribunal which recorded evidence was not tribunal which submitted report of his enquiry — Dismissal of public servant is only administrative act and not judicial act, though order is preceded by proceeding resembling judicial enquiry and hence authority competent to punish servant can very well delegate enquiry to any agency it chooses. Delinquent officer can only succeed if he establishes that order challenged was made by punishing authority without directing its mind to evidence in the case. ILR (1965) Andh-Pra 482.

——Art. 245 — Andhra Pradesh (Abolition of Cash Grants) Act (14 of 1959), S. 4 — Validity — Not invalid though right to receive cash grants is abolished with retrospective effect — Contention that compensation provided by section was merely illusory as it did not confer real benefits on grantee, compensation being far below amount payable as arreare from date of abolishment till 1959 — Held grantee had no right to receive grant from date on which right was deemed to have been abolished and, therefore, there was no substance in argument that what grantee received by way of compensation was much less than what he was entitled till 1959 and that what had become his property was taken away without any provision for compensation. ILR (1964) Andh-Pra 607.

——Art. 245 — Practice and procedure.

It is the first principle of law that a delegated authority cannot be further delegated unless he has been given power to delegate such delegated authority.

Thus when an inquiry was directed to be made by the Asistant Registrar of Co-operative Societies he was acting under a delegated authority and he could not delegate that duty to some one else. 1953 All W R (Sup) 99 = 1953 Cri L J 1592 = 57 C W N 716 = 54 Cri L J 1592 = AIR 1953 Cal 689 (689, 690) (Pt C) (Pr 2).

——Art. 245 — Statutory powers — Delegation of — — Exercise by officers.

The officers on whom statutory powers are conferred should realise that there should be a substantial compliance with the conditions laid down by a statute before they can validly exercise the powers conferred on them. It is not sufficient merely to reproduce the section under which they are acting. There must be something ex facie the order passed by them to show that there are reasons for the order and that the conclusion is based on materials before them.

There is nothing in the Madras Local Boards Act (14 of 1920) which compels the Inspector exercising the powers under S. 45-A delegated to him under S. 233, to make an inquiry before passing an order of supersession. (But the desirability of avoiding a cryptic order which practically reproduces S. 45 (1) and making it more full pointed out). ('51) 1951-1 M L J 285 AIR 1951 Mad 775 (777) (Pt B) (Pr 7) (DB).

—Arts. 310-311—Master and Servant — Compulsory retirement — Misconduct or inefficiency of servant how far a ground for compulsory retirement.

The difference between misconduct or inefficiency furnishing the background and its being the basis for termination of service is that in the latter case the connection between it and the order is direct whereas in the former case the connection, if any, is indirect. When a servant can be compulsorily retired in public interest, he can be retired in public interest in exercise of this power on the ground that on account of his misconduct or inefficiency he does not deserve to be retained in further service. The misconduct or inefficiency can be a ground for the exercise of the power of compulsory retirement without converting it into removal. 1964 All L J 791 = 1964 All W R (H C) 467 = (1964) 9 Fac L R 197 = AIR 1965 All 142 (FB).

—Arts. 310-311— Suspension of servant pending enquiry.

Suspension is ordinarily of two kinds, namely suspension as a punishment and suspension pending enquiry. Suspension pending enquiry may, however, also be of two kinds, for a distinction must be drawn between suspending an employee from service and suspending him from performing the duties of his post or office. If there is a contract of service in the strict sense, the first kind of suspension involves the suspension of the contract, while the second involves only a suspension of the employee from the performance of his duties on the basis that the contract is subsisting : (S) AIR 1955 Pat 131 (134), Relied on. 1961 All L J 350 = 1961 All W R (HC) 292 = A I R 1961 All 580.

—Arts. 310, 311 and 309—Public servant — Right to claim salary from Crown — Contractual right— Existence of—U. P. Civil Service (Executive Branch) Rules (1941), R. 25.

There is no doubt that the relationship between the Crown and the civil servant is contractual. What are the terms of the contract is a different matter. The contract is not with the head of the department but with the Crown because when the head of the department contracts in the public capacity the contract is deemed to be entered into by the Crown : Case law referred.

There is, however, no contract, within the meaning of the Contract Act, by the Crown to pay any salary to a public servant. There is a contract of service but it contains terms enforceable against the civil servant and not against the Crown. The United Provinces Civil Service (Executive Branch) Rules, 1941, are only for the guidance and do not form the terms of the contract between the Crown and the civil servant. The promise by the Crown to pay salary at a certain rate to the civil servant is no more a contract enforceable in a Court of law than a promise to dine with a friend.

Per Dayal J. — Even if it be possible to hold that there was a contract between the Government and the civil servant, in view of public policy the contract should be deemed to have an implied term that the civil servant will not have a right to sue in a Court of law for the recovery of pay. A I R 1951 All 205 (DB).

All lapses are not justifiable on the theory of mistake. Before charging a person with disobedience, a disciplinary authority must be sure of a prima-facie case against such person. To charge a person with disobedience, without being so sure, reveals a fault-finding mind and a mala fide disposition. Further, in a case, where the person charged had not shown cause, it is of utmost necessity that the disciplinary authority examines the case with greater care, before he makes up his mind about the guilt of the person. In the case of a continuing contract like the contract of service between master and servant suspension means that the relationship of master and servant remains in abeyance for a certain period. Suspension, however, need not be complete and it cannot be argued that whenever a contract of service is suspended, the servant is free to go and seek employment elsewhere and the master is free to withhold the wages due to the servant and to employ some other servant to do his work. Suspension is something less than termination of service and therefore a connection, however tenuous, continues between the master and servant. The servant cannot seek employment elsewhere though he does not perform his normal duties for his master. Similarly the master is obliged to give a subsistence allowance to the servant though he may not be obliged to pay him that full wages which are to be paid for specific work done by the servant. ——S. 10—Deed - Construction - Powers of Attorney —Rules of construction—Principal and Agent.

Powers of attorney must be strictly pursued and are construed as giving only such authority as they confer expressly or by necessary implication. The following are the most important rules of construction: (1) The operative part of the deed is controlled by the recitals. (2) Where authority is given to do a particular act followed by general words, the general words are restricted to what is necessary for the proper performance of the particular acts. (3) General words do not confer general powers, but are limited to the purpose for which the authority is given and are construed as enlarging the special powers only when necessary for that purpose. (4) The deed must be construed so as to include all medium powers necessary for its effective execution. 52 P L R 84 and Bowstead's Law of Agency Ref. 1952-22 Com Cas 146 = AIR 1952 Punj 99 (101, 102)(Pt A) (Prs 8, 14).

——S. 16—Pardanashin Lady—Deed by — Validity— Essentials— Simple transaction—Reading over document without explaining its import—Sufficiency.

The rule that in the case of a document executed by a pardanashin lady it is not sufficient to show that the document was read out to her and that it is further necessary to establish that she understood the nature of the act, applies only where such person transfers property to her disadvantage. It would be necessary to explain the import of the document when the transaction is of a complicated nature, or the document is couched in language which is not simple. Where the transaction is of a simple character and the language used is also simple, reading over the document to her is ordinarily sufficient. To hold that simple transactions entered into by an illiterate and pardanashin woman in the ordinary course of management of her estate ought to be looked at with suspicion and to say that any one dealing with her will be doing so at his peril would well-nigh make it impossile for such a woman to derive any income from her estate. In the case of transaction by a pardanashin lady, though independent legal advice is not in itself essential for the validity of the same, the disposition made by her must be substantially understood by her and must really be the mental act, as its execution is the physical act of the person who makes it. ——Ss. 73, 74 — Deposit and part payment—Distinction.

The difference between an earnest or deposit and an advance part payment of price is now well established in law. "Earnest" is something given by the buyer to the seller to mark the conclusiveness of the contract. This is quite apart from the price. It may also avail as a part payment if the contract goes through. But even so it would not lose its character as earnest if in fact and in truth it was intended as mere evidence of the bargain. An advance is a part payment towards the agreed price of sale to be adjusted at the time of the final payment. If the buyer defaults to carry out the contract, he loses the earnest but may recover the part payment leaving untouched the seller's right to recover damages. It is characteristic of a deposit to entail forfeiture if the depositor commits breach of his obligation. (1963) 2 Mad L J 153=ILR (1964) 1 Mad 634.

Section 54(1)(a) of the Bombay Co-operative Societies Act, 1925, provides for a domestic Tribunal with jurisdiction to decide such of the disputes as fall within its scope. The first paragraph of sub-s. (1) embodies the requirements which necessitate reference of a dispute to the Registrar or his nominee for his decision. These requirements are (1) there should be a dispute; (2) the dispute must touch the constitution or business of the society; and (3) it should arise between the members or past members of the society or between the society or its committee and any officer, agent, member or servant of the society past or present etc. The scope of the business of the society has to be determined by reference to its bye-laws and rules defining the object of the society and the nature of the transactions or dealings which it is required to carry on in furtherance of its object. —TRAVANCORE CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETIES ACT (5 of 1112, M. E.)

——S. 10 — Society registered under — Bye-laws — Nature of—Authority of secretary—Undertaking to pay debt of member—If binding on society.

The bye-laws are not merely rules of internal management but these govern and regulate dealings of the Society with the outsiders. The Secretary is only an officer of the society and he can bind the Society only when he acts within the scope of his authority as provided by the bye-laws. An undertaking to discharge a debt of a member is not one of the objects of the Society and, even if it were, the Secretary could not under bye-law 27 execute a deed undertaking such a liability. Where a party obtains such an undertaking from the Secretary alone, he acts with gross negligence in the matter and the society cannot be made liable under such an undertaking by the secretary. 1957 Ker L T 1079.

——Ss. 54, 56—Applicability and scope—Society's funds found short—Dispute between member and society.

It is only in the four cases specified in S. 54 that that section applies and if there is a dispute between a member and the society relating to society's funds found short, the 56th is the section that applies. The language of S. 56 is wide enough to take in dispute between the society and a member, however the dispute might have arisen. 1955 Ker L T 280=I L R (1955) Trav-Co 187=AIR 1955 Trav-Co 260 (261) (Pt B) (Pr 5) (DB).

——S. 56—'Dispute touching the business of a registered society'—Dispute between sureties—Nature of —(Travancore-Cochin Co-operative Societies Act (10 of 1952), S. 62).

If there is a dispute among the members of a co-operative society, which has some reference or relation to the business of that society, the requirements of paragraph 1 and clause (a) of S. 56 (1) would be satisfied and the Registrar would be competent to decide the dispute himself or to refer it to an arbitrator under S. 56 (2). A dispute between two members of a co-operative society, who were sureties for a loan taken from the society by another member, as to their rights and liabilities inter se in regard to a claim for contribution on account of the discharge of the debt by one of them, being a dispute about rights and liabilities which came into existence on account of the business of the society, is a dispute 'touching the business of a society' falling under S. 56 (1) (a) : (1953) 2 M L J 340 : AIR 1954 Mad 103 (FB); A I R 1954 Bom 101 ; S. ——S. 56 (1), Explanation — Scope—(Travancore-Cochin Co-operative Societies Act (10 of 1952), S. 60).

The Explanation does not say that the dispute referred to in S. 56 (1) must be a dispute in respect of an existing debt or demand. All that it says is that a claim for a debt or demand due to the society from a member or other persons mentioned therein, whether it is admitted or not, will also be a dispute touching the business of the society. 1957 Ker L J 286=ILR (1957) Ker 313=1957 Ker LT 362.

When a statute provides for the forum for adjuication of certain matters and provisions are made regarding the details thereof, a subsequent statute cannot in the absence of inconsistency or express terms in that behalf operate to abrogate any of the provisions of the earlier one.

The Travancore Co-operative Societies Act contained a complete machinery for the adjudication of disputes and there is nothing in the later Act 11 of 1115 abrogating any of those provisions. The contention that the rules have only subordinate importance cannot be accepted in view of the provisions contained in S. 74 (4). In express terms of the Statute, no concurrence of any party is necessary when reference is to a single arbitrator which can be made by the Registrar alone. 1955 Ker L T 280=ILR (1955) Trav-Co 187=AIR 1955 Trav Co 260 (261, 262) (Pt D) (Pr 6) (DB).

—S, 10—Registration of Co-operative Societies—Discretionary power vested in Registrar—Delegation to Deputy Registrar on strength of Government Memorandum—Amounts to interference by Government with exercise of judgment by Registrar.

By S. 10 of the Act, the Registrar is called upon to exercise a statutory function in deciding whether a society should be registered or not. Government can exercise only an appellate jurisdiction in a case of refusal to register. The Registrar is not to act under the dictation of some person to whom authority is not given by law.

Thus, where the Registrar has, instead of exercising his discretion, directed the Deputy Registrar of Co-operative Societies on the strength of Government Memorandum, to take steps to register a co-operative society for the collection of white limeshell.

Held, that this amounted to an interference by Government with the exercise of his judgment by the Registrar. (1960) 2 Ker L R 570=1960 Ker L T 1100.

—R. 115—Validity—Does not contravene Art. 14—Constitution of India, Art. 14.

Rule 115 does not contravene Art. 14 of the Constitution. The principle upon which a complaint that Art. 14 is violated must be examined, is that the statute or rule must operate unequally against persons similarly situated. In respect of procedural provisions of the U. P. Co-operative Societies Rules, whether a dispute is decided by the Registrar or is the subject of arbitration proceedings, there is no difference whatever. If an award is given by the arbitrator, the appeal ultimately lies to the Registrar so that in the final analysis the decision even upon a matter referred to arbitration is rendered by the Registrar. 1965 All W R (H C) 258.

——S. 210 — Framing of charge — Duty of prosecution.

Where it is the prosecution case that the act of the accused in inflicting the injuries on the person of the deceased caused the death of the deceased, obviously the charge should be under S. 302, Penal Code and not under S. 304 of that Code, unless special circumstances are present which clearly and beyond any doubt indicate that the offence could only be one under S. 304. The prosecution should invariably leave the matter of determining the guilt of the accused under the correct section of the Penal Code that is applicable to the Sessions Court and they should not decide for themselves or prejudice the case by deciding to frame a charge under S. 304. If a charge is framed under S. 302 and the Court ultimately comes to the conclusion that the offence is one under S. 304, it would be open to the Sessions Judge to come to that finding and convict the accused on that charge acquitting him of the charge under S. 302 of the Code. 1964 (1) Cri L J 393 = ILR (1964) 16 Assam 67 = AIR 1964 Assam 53 (54) (Pt B) (Pr 6).

CUSTOM

● —General — Pre-emption — Non-Muslims — Observance of forms — Muhammadan Law.

When a custom of pre-emption is established by evidence to prevail amongst non-Muslims in a particular locality it must be presumed to be founded on and co-extensive with the Muhammadan Law on that subject unless the contrary is shown; the Court may as between Hindus administer a modification of the law as to the circumstances under which the right may be claimed when it is shown that the custom in that respect does not go to the whole length of the Muhammadan law of pre-emption, but the assertion of right by suit must always be preceded by an observance of the preliminary forms prescribed in the Muhammadan law which forms appear to have been invariably observed and insisted on through the whole of the cases from the earliest time of which we have record. 39 Cal 915 (P C), Relied on. ——(Punjab)—Pre-emption— Suit for — Waiver— Proof — Acceptance by plaintiff of mortgage money from vendee — Not sufficient to support waiver of plaintiff's right of pre-emption.

In a suit for pre-emption, the mere circumstance that the plaintiff accepted from the vendee the amount of the mortgage deed due to him giving up as a necessary consequence possession of a small area mortgaged to him out of the total area of the land which had been sold by the mortgagor, is not enough to support a plea of waiver of the plaintiff's right to claim pre-emption and does not estop him from asserting it. The mortgagee in accepting the mortgage money from the vendee does nothing more than to recognize that the latter as transferee from the mortgagor has the right to redeem. The mere recognition by the plaintiff of the vendor's right to redeem by taking the mortgage amount from the vendee cannot by itself amount to waiver of the plaintiff's right of pre-emption. 138 Punj Re 1888 and 154 Punj L R 1906, Overruled ; A I R 1924 Lah 159 and A I R 1948 East Punj 5, Approved ; I L R 35 Cal 402 (P C), Rel. on. In transactions which become the subject-matter of a suit for pre-emption a duty is cast upon the Court to determine the nature of the transaction — whether it is a sale or exchange—when such a question arises on the pleadings and the Courts cannot be satisfied merely by looking at the cloak which the parties chose to give to the transaction to be entered into. ——(Rajasthan) — Pre-emption — Suit for pre-emption — Not defeated by cancellation of sale — Sale cancelled or declared ineffective by Court in a suit — Pre-emptor not a party to suit — Right of pre-emptor not affected.

The right of pre emption accrues to the pre-emptor on the date of the sale. The principle of pre-emption is that the pre-emptor is substituted for the vendee. The pre-emptor takes the property as it is sold to the vendee. The suit of the pre-emptor cannot be defeated if the sale is cancelled by the buyer and the seller. Sutherland Weekly Reports, XIII, Civil P. 332, Rel. on.

Even if the sale is cancelled or declared ineffective by a Court of law in a suit to which pre-emptor is not a party, such declaration would not affect the right of pre-emptor. He has a right to be substituted and takes whatever is conveyed by the sale-deed. 1962 Raj L W 642=ILR (1962) 12 Raj 965.

Where therefore a right of pre-emption on the ground of vicinage came into existence before the Constitution and was upheld by the decree of the trial Court on 18th October, 1941 which was the crucial date on which the right merged in the decree, it did not matter if the decree was later set aside or the right was not consistent with the provisions of the Constitution which came into force during the pendency of the proceedings after the trial Court's decree. ——(Rajasthan)—Pre-emption—Hindu father selling joint family property—One of sons succeeding partly in challenging sale — Son later on claiming pre-emption — Claim is not maintainable. (Hindu Law — Alienation—Father—Right of son to pre-empt). 1956 Raj L W 381.

● ——(Rajasthan) — Pre-emption—Nature of right—Not an incident of property.

The right of pre-emption is not a right which attaches to the land but is a personal right. The right is not one which is in existence prior to the sale but arises only when there is a valid and complete sale and in case of no other alienation. A I R 1929 Bom 206 and 4 Beng L R 134, (FB), Rel. on.

It is a right which comes into existence in persons who have been described as Shafi Sharik, Shafi-i-khalit or Shafi-i-jar and according to Muhammadan Law this is a personal right of the pre-emptor, which is lost if the pre-emptor dies without enforcing the same by a suit. Panch Gujar v. Amarsingh. 1954 Raj LW 204=I L R (1954) 4 Raj 84 = AIR 1954 Raj 100 (FB).

——(Rajasthan) — Pre-emption — Loss of right — Vendee becoming co-sharer by purchase after suit is filed—Effect.

Right of pre-emption is a very weak right and can be defeated by any legitimate means. The policy underlying this law is that no stranger should be allowed to thrust himself upon the co-sharers in a property against their will. If, therefore, before the First Court's decree the vendee becomes just as much a co-sharer as the pre-emptor, the latter can have no complaint that a stranger has thrust himself upon the property and hence can have no preferential right over the vendee.

No doubt it looks very unsavoury that a defendant by his unilateral and voluntary act should defeat the plaintiff's suit which was perfectly justified when it was brought and it appears to prevent such an undesirable result that recently statutory provisions have been made in the Agra and Punjab Pre-emption Acts. But in the absence of any such statutory safeguards, the general principle shall prevail that the pre-emptor in order to succeed in a suit should prove his subsisting right against the vendee not only on the date of sale but also on the date of suit and the date of the First Court's decree. ——(Rajasthan)—Pre-emption—Right of—Possession as mortgagee—Sufficiency.

It is the ownership in a property which gives rise to a right of pre-emption and not possession only as a mortgagee. ILR (1951) 1 Raj 329=AIR 1952 Raj 5.

——(Rajasthan)—Pre-emption—Suit for—Property to be adjacent—Muhammadan law—Pre-emption.

According to the general law of pre-emption, plaintiff, in order to be a shafi-i-khalit, should have his property adjacent to the property which he claims by pre-emption. Where there is a gally between the plaintiff's property on the strength of which she is claiming pre-emption, and the property which is the subject-matter of pre-emption, the existence of the gally would defeat the right of the plaintiff to pre-empt the property in dispute. Case law discussed. 1952 Raj L W 442=ILR (1952) 2 Raj 189.

——(Rajasthan)—Pre emption — Custom of—Recognition in Mewar—Co-extensive with the Mahomedan Law — Talab — Assertion within reasonable time—Necessity—Joinder of strangers to the claim—Effect — Sons, strangers under Muhammadan law until opening of inheritance.

Where a sale-deed of a house was executed by certain Hindu owners of Marwar and a well in the house was jointly owned by the executants and the owners of the adjacent house who were Mahomedans and the same was attested by M one of the co-owners of the adjacent house and a suit for pre-emption was filed by him five months after the deed and the other co-owners (also Mahomedans) along with their sons filed another suit for pre-emption. 1952 Raj L W 245=ILR (1952) 2 Raj 147.

——(Rajasthan)—Pre-emption — Right of—Pre-emptor if should also be resident of the locality.

The law of pre-emption does not lay down that a pre-emptor should also be resident of the place where the property sought to be pre-empted is situated. AIR 1951 Raj 126.

——(Rajasthan)—Pre-emption—Suit for—Person with right of pre-emption joining with himself stranger in the suit — Effect.

Where a person having a right of pre-emption joins with himself strangers in the suit (i.e) persons having no right of pre-emption, he forfeits his right of pre-emption. 52 Cri L J 662 = (1950) 1 Raj L W 93 = 52 Cri L J 662=AIR 1951 Raj 14.

——(Uttar Pradesh)—Pre-emption—Pre-emptor whether bound by agreement to re-sell — Sale and agreement to re-sell forming part of same transaction—Pre-emptor bound by agreement to re-sell.

If the sale and the agreement to re-sell split up into two documents are parts of the same transaction and the pre-emptor had notice of the latter at the time when he exercised his right of pre-emption, he would be as much bound by it as if it were incorporated in the sale deed itself. The splitting up of the transaction into two documents does not release the pre-emptor from the obligation to re-sell if he had notice of it when he exercised his right to pre-empt.

If an agreement to re-sell is incorporated in the sale deed itself, the transaction may be not a sale but a mortgage by conditional sale and there would be no right of pre-emption in such a case. AIR 1963 All 194.

——(Uttar Pradesh)—Kumaun — Pre-emption—Non-residential co-sharer who is relation of vendee within three-degrees — Preference over resident co-sharer who is not a relation.

According to the custom of pre-emption prevailing in Kumaun a resident co-sharer has preference over the person who is a non-resident co-sharer. The fact that the non-residential co-sharer is a relation of the vendee within three degrees does not give him preferential right over the resident co-sharer who is not a relation. 1960 All L J 116 = 1960 All W R (H C) 131.

There is custom of pre-emption in city of Banaras. AIR 1955 NUC (All) 2737.

——(Uttar Pradesh) — Pre-emption—Custom as to—Prevalence in a locality—Effect—Effect of instances of refusal of claim.

Once the custom of pre-emption is said to prevail in a certain locality, it will be deemed to prevail in that locality irrespective of that locality assuming a well-known name or its recognition by the Municipality as a separate mohalla, till such time that it could be proved from instances that the people of such a locality actually abandoned the custom. Abandonment of the custom can be proved not merely by the fact that no instance of the enforcement of the right of pre-emption took place, but by the fact that somebody claimed pre-emption but failed because the people of the locality were against the custom. Instances of such refusal will determine the alleged abandonment and not a mere absence of any case of pre-emption. AIR 1951 All 578.

——(Uttar Pradesh)—Pre-emption—Amroha town in U. P.

There is a custom prevailing in the town of Amroha in U. P. whereby a co-sharer who was related, has a preferential right of pre-emption. Making of demands, as required under the Muhammadan law is not necessary. 1951 All L J 482 (DB).

On reading the provisions of Ss. 2 (9) (g) and 2 (17) together, it is clear that loan to a trader is entirely outside and is not affected by the Act and to a suit to recover such loan provisions of the Act (except Ss. 23 and 25) do not apply. Consequently, lender of such loan does not need a licence as money-lender under the Act and is entitled to a decree in a suit for recovery of the loan inspite of the provisions of S. 10. —HYDERABAD PREVENTION OF AGRICULTURAL LAND ALIENATION ACT (3 of 1349-F)

——Preamble—Validity—Action pending when Constitution came into force, if invalidated — (Evidence Act (1872), S. 115)—(Constitution of India, Art. 15).

The Act safeguards the agricultural classes and not a person belonging to a particular community. AIR 1952 SC 196, Relied on. The classification made in the schedule of the Act is not based on the basis of religion but on the avocation in life. AIR 1942 Cal 825, Relied on. As the plaintiffs proceeded on the basis of the impugned Act, they should have challenged it at the very beginning and they should not have submitted themselves to the jurisdiction under the Act. Having not done so, plaintiff cannot challenge the very Act giving them the protection. The plaintiffs cannot challenge the constitutionality of the impugned Act on the ground that it violates or threatens the rights of other persons, in other words the rights of non-protected class. The Constitution has no retrospective effect and does not affect the pending actions, therefore the proceedings for permission of the Collector under the Act, started before the Constitution cannot be invalidated on the coming into force of the Constitution. 37 Mys L J 358 = AIR 1960 Mys 59 (61, 63) (Pt A) (Prs 14, 16, 20 to 23, 25, 26) (DB).

——S. 4—Applicability—Conditions.

One of the conditions necessary for S. 4 to come into force is that the parties, alienor and the alienee, should be agriculturists, specified in the schedule and secondly that they should be of different groups. If they are of different groups of the same class, then sanction of the Collector is not necessary in the cases specified therein. At any rate, the alienations can only be made where the alienor and the alienee are of different groups of the class of agriculturists specified in the schedule unless sanction of the Taluqdar is accorded. ——S. 6 (c)—Words 'who has taken'—Meaning of — Interpretation of the section—Applicability.

The language used in the section does not necessarily connote the idea of an express contract between the purchaser and the mortgagor as to the liability for payment of the mortgage money. The words 'who has taken' are equivalent to the words 'who has acquired' and they do not imply an express contract for the payment of encumbrances which may fall on the purchaser by operation of law. The section is applicable in such a case also. AIR 1952 All 645.

—USURIOUS LOANS ACT (10 of 1918)

——S. 3—Scope — Party claiming relief under — Factors to be established.

In order to apply S. 3 of the Usurious Loans Act, two facts have to be proved: The first is that, interest was excessive and the second is that, the transaction was, as between the parties substantially unfair. Both these essentials must be proved to co-exist. The section enacts a number of circumstances which have to be considered by the Court before it exercises any of the powers. The party invoking the relief has to satisfy the conditions necessary for granting the relief under the Act. (1965) 2 Andh W R 510.

——S. 3 (b)—'Any suit'—Meaning of — If would include a claim by a mortgagee for the compesation amount under S. 30 of the Land Acquisition Act — Land Acquisition Act (1 of 1894), S. 30—Proceedings under—Nature of—If a suit — If would attract the provisions of Usurious Loans Act.

In interpreting a statute like the Usurious Loans Act which is a beneficial enactment providing relief to debtors under certain circumstances of oppressive rates of interest, the Court should adopt a generous interpretation and not a narrow or literal interpretation which will not be in consonance with the object the Act or the intention of the Legislature. The term 'suit' is not confined strictly to an action. Any proceeding in a Court of justice to enforce a demand is a suit. When used in statutes it is capable of an extended or restricted interpetation as the context and the intention of the Legislature in enacting the particular statute appears to the Court to require. The word 'suit' in S. 2 (3) of the Usurious Loans Act cannot be interpreted in a restictive sense of a proceeding commenced by a plaint under the Civil Procedure Code. A proceeding in a Court following a reference under S. 30 of the Land Acquisition Act will be a suit within the meaning of the Usurious Loans Act and a party entitled to the compensation amount deposited can invoke the aid of the Act to get relief against excessive interest against his creditor who claims a right over compensation amount in those proceedings. (1963) 2 MLJ 526 = AIR 1966 Mad 322.

DEFENCE OF INDIA ACT (51 of 1962)

——Ss. 6 (4) and 43—Defence of India Rules (1962), R. 131 (2) (gg)—Motor Vehicles Act (1939), Chapter IV-A—Effect of S. 6 (4)—Section 43 makes R. 131 (2) (gg) override Chapter IV-A.

The provisions of S. 6 (4) of the Act do not amend Chap. IV-A of the Motor Vehicles Act with the result that the provisions of that Chapter remain intact. But the circumstance that Chap. IV-A remains intact and the further circumstance that the provisions of Chap. IV-A override those of Chap. IV of the Motor Vehicles Act cannot lead to the conclusion that R. 131 (2) (gg) is subject to those provisions and in the case of inconsistency between the two, the former will override the latter. On the other hand, S. 43 of the Defence of ,India Act clearly makes the provisions of R. 131 (2) (gg) override the provisions contained in Chap. IV-A of the Motor Vehicles Act. The effect of S. 6 (4) of the Defence of India Act is not to incorporate the provisions of Chap. IV-A of the Motor Vehicles Act. S. 6 (4) of the Act does not reiterate the force of Chap. IV-A of the Motor Vehicles Act nor does it accord it any special status. All that it does is to allow that Chapter to remain where it is unamended. ILR (1965) 2 All 303.

Section 44 is directory and not mandatory, even though the word 'shall' and not 'may' has been used. It is well settled that not much depends upon the use of the word 'may' or 'shall,' Even a directory provision has got to be obeyed. The difference between the disregard of a directory provision and a mandatory one is that whereas the infringement of the former is not actionable unless prejudice and injustice has been caused, the violation of the latter is illegal per se. In passing the order dated 17.8-1964 no injustice or prejudice having been caused, and it not having been established that the minimum necessary interference with ordinary avocations of life, has been exceeded and that the conditions prevailing on the route and the exigencies of the the emergency permitted any other order, it cannot be said that S. 44 of the Act has been infringed. ILR (1965) 2 All 303.

DEFENCE OF INDIA RULES (1962)

——R. 131 (2) (gg)—"Any vehicle or class of vehicles"—Meaning of.

Rule 131 (2) (gg) envisages classifications of all types and so long as a group of vehicles can fall in a category, it is a class of vehicles within the meaning of the rule. In view of the wide sweep of the words "class of vehicles" and also because these words have got to be read along with the preceding words "any vehicle" the sentence being "any vehicle or class of vehicles," the conclusion necessarily has to be that all classes of vehicles, whatever be their nature and every vehicle, fall in the ambit of the words "any vehicle or class of vehicles" occurring in R. 131(2)(gg). ILR (1965) 2 All 303.

——S. 13—Easement of necessity — When can be claimed.

An easement of necessity could be claimed only when it is necessary for the plaintiff to exercise that right for the reasonable enjoyment of his own property which cannot be otherwise enjoyed. So also if the right claimed by way of an easement of necessity is the right of way and there are more ways than one from which the plaintiff could reach his own property, he would not be entitled if he could reach his property by the other way to claim a right of way over the defendent's land. ●——S. 18 — Pre-emption—Right of—Decree for—Time at which decree-holder is substituted in place of original vendee.

The right of pre-emption could be effectively exercised or enforced only when the pre-emptor has been substituted by the vendee in the original bargain of sale. A conditional decree whereunder a pre-emptor gets possession only if he pays a specified amount within a prescribed time and which also provided for the dismissal of the suit in case the condition was not complied with, could not obviously bring about the substitution of decree-holder in place of the vendee before the condition was complied with. Such a substitution took place only when the decree-holder complied with the condition and took possession of the land. AIR 1916 P C 179; 32 MLJ 459, Rel. on. Bishan Singh v. ——S. 18 — Pre-emption — Right to — Joining of strangers.

The law of pre-emption is technical and has got its rules according to which the law has to be applied. It is a weak right and any infringement of those rules takes away the right and defeats the claim.

A pre-emptor, therefore, loses his right of enforcing pre-emption by joining in his claim persons who are strangers and the fact that the latter get their names removed from the record by an amendment of the plaint does not make any difference, nor can O. 1, R. 9 or R. 10 help the pre-emptor. 5 All 197, Foll. 1953 All L J 536 = 1953 All W R (H C) 609 = A I R 1954 All 94.

——S. 18 — Pre-emption — Right to — Device to defeat a claim for — Legality — Acquisition by gift from vendor of fractional share — Effect — Matters to be considered by Court.

Though it can be said that in a way it is permissible to resort to a device, if it is not illegal, to defeat a claim for pre-emption, the rule only permits a proposed vendee to improve his position vis-a-vis the likely pre-emptors by acquiring a status equal or superior to theirs. He may do so by acquiring property in the village, mahal or sub-division of the mahal, which he intends to purchase, by a transaction which is not liable to pre-emption (e.g.) exchange or gift. Whenever a proposed vendee, before purchasing the property, acquires a small bit of it by exchange, the only matter that requires investigation is, whether the transaction of exchange is a genuine transaction or only sham or bogus.

Where an intending vendee acquires some little property by gift from a person other than the intending vendor, in order to acquire a status equal or superior to that of likely pre emptors to meet a claim for pre emption, the plaintiff pre-emptor can succeed in his suit only if he can prove that the ostensible gift is sham and bogus or that it is in fact a sale. Where, however, the intending vendee acquires property by an ostensible gift from the intending vendor under similar circumstances, the position is somewhat different. In such a case it cannot be said that the intention of the ostensible donor or of the parties to the transaction is the sole determining factor. The legal effect of a transaction cannot always be controlled by the intention of the parties. ILR (1953) 1 All 374 = AIR 1952 All 149.

——S. 18—Pre-emption — Every villager, if he has right to pre-empt sale of land in village.

Having regard to the common meaning which the law attaches to the word "pre-emption," it cannot be said that every villager has, regardless of the fact whether he has any property or not in the village, a right to pre-emot the sale of land in the village. EMPLOYEES' PROVIDENT FUNDS ACT (19 of 1952)

—S. 1 (3) — Object of the Act.

The Act is a beneficient measure enacted for the purpose of institution of Provident Fund for employees in factories and other establishments. The provisions have been made for the better future of the industrial worker on his retirement and for the benefit of his dependents in case of his death while in employment. However, to avoid any hardship to new establishments who may not start making profits in their infancy it has been provided that they shall be exempted from the application of the Act for the stated period. 1966 Raj L W 209=ILR (1966) 16 Raj 130=(1965) 2 Lab L J 704 (Raj).

—S. 19A — Employees' Provident Fund Scheme (1952), R. 26B—Relative scope of.

A comparison of R. 26B with S. 19A of the Act reveals that, though both are meant for removal of certain doubts the frame of the two provisions differs in material respects. While S. 19A of the Act contemplates the making of a provision or giving of a direction which should not be inconsistent with the provisions of the Act by the Central Government, R. 26B of the Scheme contemplates a decision by the Regional Commissioner or the State Commissioner. Then while S. 19A does not in terms provide for hearing of the employer and the emplovee, R. 26B makes an express provision for hearing. Then what is significant to note in S. 19A of the Act is that the difficulty or doubt should arise "is giving effect to the provisions of this Act." 1963 Raj L W 209 = ILR (1966) 16 Raj 130=(1965) 2 Lab L J 704.

—Ss. 19A (iv) and 16 — Scope of S. 19A — It does not deal with individual controversy between parties —Order of Central Government under S. 19A directing that the establishment is new set up, passed at instance of party without hearing the other side — Order is invalid - Order also held as violative of principle of natural justice — Constitution of India, Art. 226.

Section 19A is an adjunct only to the administrative machinery provided by the Act for enforcing the several provisions thereof and could be resorted to only for the removal of difficulties or doubts that the officers might experience. It is designed to clothe the Central Government with the power of issuing direction of a general nature or to make provision which may be of a general nature and not for dealing with any individual controversy between the parties. For that they are left to pursue the ordinary remedies under the law particularly when the provisions of the Act do not bar the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts regarding the settlement of disputes between the employer and employee relating to Provident Fund. 1966 Raj L W 209=ILR (1966) 16 Raj 130 = (1965) 2 Lab L J 704.

—Ss. 53, 66, 75 — E. S. I. Corporation incurring liability to pay workmen's compensation — Re-imbursement of compensation from employer — Actual payment of compensation by Corporation — Not a precondition.

In the context in which the word "re-imbursed" is used in S. 66, it merely means the right to recover from the employer the actuarial present value of the periodical payments which the Employees' State Insurance Corporation is under a liability to make to the dependants of the deceased employer, irrespective of the actual amount which the Corporation may ultimately have to pay. Therefore, it cannot be said that the Corporation is not entitled to call upon the employer to reimburse the amount of compensation, unless the amount is actually paid to the dependents of the deceased worker. In the case of circumstantial evidence, the circumstances sought to be relied upon must be proved beyond reasonable doubt. The circumstances proved must not be inconsistent with the innocence of the accused and consistent only with his guilt, and they should not be capable of any explanation on any reasonable hypothesis other than the guilt of the accused. (1961) 2 Guj L R 451 (DB).

——S. 3—Will—Proof of – Standard of proof required.

The English rule laid down by the Ecclesiastical Courts that in the case of inofficious will, the duty of a party propounding a will is to satisfy the conscience of the Court by removing all suspicion about the will has no application in India. In India no higher standard of proof than what is necessary under the statute law viz., S. 3, Evidence Act is required for proof of the will. ('50) 28 Mys L J 124 (DB).

——S. 5 — Appreciation of evidence — Demeanour of witness—What is—Remarks on demeanour.

Merely because a witness does not state facts which are incriminatory of the accused and which other witnesses have deposed to, it cannot necessarily be inferred that the witness is trying to suppress the truth and to favour the accused. His evidence may be true and that of the other witnesses false. Demeanour of a witness is his bearing or outward behaviour. It is distinct from the impression made on the Judge by the demeanour. Remarks made by a Judge on the demeanour of a witness should relate to the demeanour of the witness. (1961) 2 Guj L R 451 (DB).

——Ss. 9, 134—Identification evidence — Admissibility—Whether identification by one witness is sufficient is a question of fact.

The identification evidence is admissible under S. 9 of the Evidence Act. The statement of the identifier in the identification parade is merely a former statement of the identifier and can be used either for contradiction or for corroboration. (1963) 29 Cut L T 217.

●——S. 13—Pre-emption—Custom—Non-Muslims—Proof.

If the right of pre-emption is set up by non-Muslims on the basis of a custom, the existence of the custom is a matter to be established by proper evidence. But when the existence of a custom under which the Hindus claim to have the same rights of pre-emption as Muhammadans, in any district, is generally known and judicially recognised, it is not necessary to prove it by further evidence. A long course of decisions has established the existence of such custom in Bihar, Sylhet and certain parts of Gujarat. Audh Behari Singh v. The words "Nabalig ryot" occurring in S. 30 (a) of the Wajib-ul-arz suggests that ryots can be minors also, and that such minors will be deemed to be ryots. There is no reason to suggest that the word 'ryot' occurring in S. 28 refers only to "adult ryots." A "minor ryot" may lease out the holding till he attains the age of 18 years, but he certainly cannot allow the holding to lie fallow. ('51) 1951 N L J 196 (Rev).

——S. 17—Admission as to date of his birth by party —Presumption.

Per Division Bench: Where the plaintiff had at all material times given his date of birth as 30-3-1901, then in the absence of any evidence to the contrary it may be presumed that that was his date of birth on the principle that what a party himself admits to be true may reasonably be presumed to be so. ——S. 24—Extra judicial confession—Value of.

The truth of the evidence of an extra judicial confession has to be carefully weighed just like any other evidence in a criminal case. If true it is cogent evidence. The actual words used by the accused are the primary evidence of the confession and if possible they should be ascertained because it is the function of the Court and not of the witness to construe the confessional statement. ● ——S. 92 — Deed — Construction — (T. P. Act (1882), S 8).

Where a document has to be construed, the intention must be gathered, in the first place, from the document itself. If the words are express and clear, effect must be given to them and any extraneous enquiry into what was thought or intended is ruled out — The real question in such a case is not what the parties intended or meant but what is the legal effect of the words which they used. If, however, there is ambiguity in the language employed, then it is permissible to look to the surrounding circumstances to determine what was intended. AIR 1954 S C 345.

GOVERNMENT GRANTS ACT (15 of 1895)

●——S. 3 — Land tenures in Garhwal and Kumaun — Pakka and Kachcha Khaikari rights in villages — — Suit for declaration claiming Pakka Khaikari rights in village — Words and Phrases — "Pakka Khaikari"—"Hissedar."

Pakka Khaikari is a term used in Kumaun and Garhwal in a special sense. A Kachcha Khaikar seems to mean a tenant, while a Pakka Khaikar is in a sense a proprietor. According to Stowell's Manual of Land Tenures of the Kumaun Division, 1954 Edition, a Pakka Khaikar is a sort of ex-proprietor and his right is in reality an under-proprietary right. A 'Hissedar' means in Kumaun and Garhwal 'a co-sharer in the zamindari rights'. A Pakka Khaikari village may, in course of time, become a Kachcha Khaikari village by reason of the Pakka Khaikars losing their Pakka Khaikari rights. But a Kachcha Khaikar can, in no case, become a Pakka Khaikar, nor can a Kachcha Khaikari village be converted into a Pakka Khaikari village. Soham Singh v. ——S. 3 — Mutation Rules in ex-State of Baramba, R. 1 — Sanction order passed — Tenant performing condition for recognition—Tenancy is created.

Rule 1 must be construed in the context of accepted juristic theories. Read in that light there can be absolutely no doubt that the moment the sanction order was passed and the tenant performed the condition for getting the recognition, tenancy right was created in his favour. The mutation slip and the rent receipt establish the factum of recognition of tenancy right. The contention that the entry in the mutation slip is not an entry with Register of Mutation as required under the rule is a pure question of fact which should be specifically canvassed in the trial Court. GOVERNMENT OF JODHPUR ACT (1947)

——S. 6—Effect of—Validity of proclamation, dated 31st August, 1948.

The words of S. 6 clearly show that the Maharaja of Jodhpur was voluntarily limiting his sovereign powers so long as he allowed the Government of Jodhpur Act, 1947, to continue; but his power to abrogate the Act, still remained with him under the first part of the section, and hence the contention that he had no power to abrogate the Government of Jodhpur Act, 1947, cannot be accepted.

It was thus open to him to suspend the Government of Jodhpur Act, or any part thereof in exercise of his sovereign authority. This is what he actually did by the proclamation of the 31st August, 1948, which was published in the Jodhpur Government Gazette Extraordinary of that date. It cannot therefore be contended that the proclamation was beyond the powers of the Maharaja. 1954 Raj L W 268 = ILR (1954) Raj 274 = AIR 1954 Raj 117 (121) (Pt B) (Pr 9) (DB).

ILR (1963) Mys 998.

——Debts — Pious obligation of sons — Handnote executed by one of sons as Karta in lieu of father's antecedent debt — Sons' liability for such debt is co-extensive with assets of joint family in their hands — Promissory note held was distinct promise to pay as contemplated by S. 25, Cl. ——Joint family — Right of, to perform Pooja of deity — Income therefrom belongs to joint family.

Where the right to perform the pooja of the deity in the temple belongs to the family whatever income is received from the temple constitutes a joint family income. The family has a right to the income received from the temple which includes the receipts by way of 'Dakshina' or 'Gift'. In such circumstances, it cannot be said that 'Dakshina' or 'Gift' made to the deity is obtained by the poojari, a member of the family for private services rendered by him. It is a service which is being rendered by a member of the family on behalf of the family and not a private service. AIR 1934 All 851 and 1956 (2) Mad L J 551, Disting. (1965) 2 Law Rep 585 (Mys).

——Joint Family — Self-acquisition — Member of family acquiring property through grant — Property becomes his self-acquired unless contrary is mentioned in document of grant.

The grants made to individuals must be held to be individual grants and not grants made for the family of which the grantee constituted a member, unless it appears from the grant that it was intended for the benefit of the family. Mulla's Hindu Law, Para. 230, Ref. (1965) 2 Law Rep 585 (Mys).

——Joint family—Partition—Rule that partition suit should comprise all family property is not inflexible —Question whether second suit for partition is or is not permissible depends on reason for institution of incomplete first suit—In first suit for partition certain site not included on account of litigation then pending between members of family and outsider who claimed part of site as his own — Second suit for partition of site — Held, partition has two-fold concept—Division of right and division by metes and bounds — Since while plaintiff instituted first suit there was obscurity created as regards identity of suit site as well as its extent because of litigation then pending, plaintiff could not have then sought division of site by metes and bounds — In other words omission to claim partition of suit site was ascribable to an acceptable reason, namely, impossibility of partition by metes and bounds — Hence, second suit was maintainable : Case law discussed. Civil P. C. (1908), O. 2, R. 2. I L R (1963) Mys 1016.

——Joint family—Handnote executed by Karta—Suit on—Liability of members of joint family under handnote.

Where in the plaint the plaintiffs stated that the suit was based on the handnote executed by the Karta of the joint family but along with that they had also alleged that the transaction was in lieu of an antecedent debt of the father by which all the members had been benefited.

Held, that reading the plaint as a whole, it could not be said that it was confined to action on a promissory note pure and simple. The circumstances in which the handnote was executed brought in the liability on the members of the joint family. AIR 1933 Pat 687, Distinguished. (1963) I L R 42 Pat 704 (DB).

——Joint family business—No presumption normally arises—Business should grow from joint property or earning should blend with joint estate to become joint family business — If business is joint or separate is a question of fact—Burden of proof on person claiming share to prove it was joint family business. ——Family settlement and family arrangement—Right to property obtained under compromise — If right by inheritance.

The theory that every compromise implies the recognition of an antecedent title in every one of the parties taking benefit under the compromise is certainly not universally true. There are many instances when rights are conferred on persons who have admittedly no antecedent title in and to the property to which they become entitled under the compromise, e. g. family settlement. 70 Mad L W 540= (1957) 2 Mad L J 132 = 1957 Mad W N 368=I L R (1957) Mad 861=A I R 1957 Mad 534 (536) (Pt B) (Pr 3) (DB).

The use of word "may" would not necessarily mean that a discretion is vested in an authority and that the matter is not to be decided by exclusive reference to the use of word "may" or "shall" in deciding as to what meaning should be bestowed on the word "may" or "shall". The context, in which those words are used, has to be borne in mind because it can give the best clue about the exact connotation of those words. (1965) 67 Pun L R 491.

Sections 3 and 5 both can be made applicable to the cases where the relationship of the landlord and tenant exists between the parties. These sections do not apply to the cases where a lease has been determined and the relationship of landlord and tenant does not continue between the parties. Once the tenancy has been determined by service of a notice under S. 106 of the Transfer of Property Act, the tenancy cannot be considered to be still existing between the parties, simply because the landlord is debarred from taking the possession of the property from the tenant, by S. 8. The position of the tenant after the determination of the tenancy in such a case would be that of a licensee or a trespasser. The licensee may be liable on such a case to pay damages to the landlord at a rate mentioned in the notice served upon the licensee and impliedly accepted by him. A I R 1952 Raj 111 (112) (Pr 2).

●——S. 1—Act is intra vires—Government of India Act (1935), Sch. 7, List II, item 21 and List III, item 8.

The U. P. Temporary Control of Rent and Eviction Act, 1947 is within the legislative competence of the U. P. Legislature as the subject-matter of legislation comes under item No. 21 of List II, Government of India Act, 1935, which gives the Legislature power to enact laws regulating the relationship of landlords and tenants. It is true that the item begins with the word 'Land', that is to say, rights in or over land and land tenures, but the word 'land' in this item is wide enough to include house or house property. Besides this item, it also comes under List III item No. 8 which allows legislation with respect to transfer of property. Raman Das v. State of U. ——Ss. 7 (1) Second Explanation and 10 (5A) (b)—Persons falling under Cl. (b) of S. 10 (5A)—S. 7 will not apply to such persons—Interpretation of Statutes.

Section 7 is a general provision relating to the persons who are receiving salary or wages, annuity, pension, or gratuity, etc. S. 10 (5A) is a special provision relating to managers who are managing an Indian company or other companies or managing the business of some other persons. The latter section relates only to this limited class of persons. It is a well settled principle of law that when there is a general provision and a special provision it is the special provision which prevails over the general provision. It would, therefore, follow that even if it may be that some of the persons falling under Clause (b) of S. 10 (5A) also fall under the second explanation of S. 7 (1) they would be governed by the special provision contained in S. 10 (5A) and not by S. 7. (1965) 2 I T J 498=(1965) 58 I T R 206= 68 Bom L R 122 (DB).

——S. 46 — Crown debt — Principle of priority — Applicability after enforcement of constitution.

Prior to the adoption of the Constitution the claim of the Government of India as the representative of the Crown to priority of its debts, was recognised by Courts.

After the enforcement of the Constitution the situation has not undergone any change as to the priority enjoyed by the State for the debts due to it. The common law doctrine, that if the debts due to the Crown are of equal degree to the debts due to a private citizen, then the Crown must have priority against the private citizen, is a part of the law of this country. The assessee sought to file an appeal to the Supreme Court under S. 66-A (2) of the Income-tax Act against an order of the High Court refusing to direct the Income-tax Tribunal to make a reference under S. 66 (2).

INTERPRETATION OF STATUTES

——Dictionary — Value of, in construing meaning of words.

In finding the meaning of words in the Constitution and Statutes, Judges make some use of the layman's crutch—the dictionary. Yet, the value of a dictionary must be considered limited by the fact that in English, as in any other language, the meaning of words are in steady process of change. As an authority on meanings, the dictionary is a man-made institution without pretence of guidance by a higher power, or any basic substratum of natural law, or even by superior wisdom, to all of which jurists sometimes lay claim. The aid from the dictionary might in some cases be useful, but as the meanings of words undergo constant changes, the dictionary cannot be considered as definite guidance in all cases. 12 S T C 286, Rel. on. (1964) 15 S T C 795 = ILR (1965) Andh Pra 720.

——Parliamentary exposition made in subsequent statutes may throw light upon meaning of words used in statute. See Sales Tax — Andhra Pradesh General Sales Tax Act (VI of 1957), Sch. IV, Col. 2, Item 3 (c) (as amended by Act VI of 1961). (1964) 15 S T C 795=ILR (1965) Andh Pra 720.

——Interpretation of Statutes — Speeches in legislature introducing legislation are ordinarily no guide for interpreting statute.

Speeches made in Parliament cannot be taken into account or interpreting a statute, but they may be referred to for the purpose of finding out the background in which a particular statutory provision was enacted. (1965) 58 ITR 693 (Cal).

——Rule framed by President—Interpretation of such rules by him — Interpretation how far binding on Court.

Even though as a general rule, the powers of the Court cannot be fettered by the interpretation of a rule of law by the President, still when the meaning of a word in the rule framed by the President himself under a statutory power is not clear, the interpretation which has been given by the President, to that word should be accepted and given effect to. (1956) 2 Lab L J 160=59 Cal W N 1050=(1956) 2 Lab L J 160=I L R (1957) 2 Cal 309=A I R 1956 Cal 93 (94) (Pt B) (Pr 7).

LIMITATION ACT (9 of 1908)

——Arts. 96 and 120 — Suit for declaration as to plaintiff's correct date of birth — Art. 96 and not Art. 120 applies.

Per Division Bench: A suit for declaration that the plaintiffs correct date of birth was 30-3-1910 and not 30-3-1901 as given in the service register and for consequential relief, is governed by Art. 96 and not Art. 120, Limitation Act and the starting point of limitation is the date when the plaintiff came to know about the mistake. The language of Art. 96 is quite general and a mistake whether of fact or law is within its purview. Art. 120 is a residuary Article and could only be called in aid when no specific provision applies. ILR (1965) Andh Pra 142.

——Art. 120—Suit for declaration as to plaintiff's correct date of birth—Art. 96 and not Art. 120 applies. See Limitation Act (1908), Art. 96. ILR (1965) Andh Pra 142.

——Art. 120 — Applicability — Deposit of fees with Transport Authority by way of stamps—Fees becoming unnecessary later on—Failure to mention exact date thereof while returning stamps—Suit for refund of stamp amount—Limitation starts from the date of return of stamps—S. 120 applicable.

Payment was made to the Transport Authorities in the form of stamps in pursuance of an agreement, but later on it transpired that the fee was not payable and accordingly the Transport Authorities returned the stamp on 16-1-46 without giving exact date when the fee became repayable. The revenue department refused to refund the amount of stamps and the suit filed in Civil Court was also dismissed as barred by limitation. 1963 Jab L J 46.

MADHYA BHARAT VIKRAM UNIVERSITY ACT (18 of 1955)

——S. 19 — The Syndicate and the Results Committee while condemning a student alleged to have used unfair means at the examination act quasi-judicially.

Under the Vikram University Act, the Syndicate under S. 19 of the Act is the executive body of the University. As provided in S. 20 (m), this body exercises the powers and performs duties among others, of making amending and repealing University Ordinances. It is authorised to appoint special committees. It can delegate to such committees power to deal with any subject, subject to subsequent confirmation by the Syndicate. Under an Ordinance framed by the Syndicate for delegating its functions, a special committee known as Results Committee has been formed to deal, among others with the cases of candidates using unfair means at the University examinations. Thus the cases of such candidates have to be formally dealt with by the Results Committee with functions of the Syndicate delegated to it subject to subsequent confirmation of its action by the Syndicate. There is no provision requiring the Results Committee, in dealing with the case of a candidate, to act judicially nor is there any provision requiring it to give opportunity to the candidate to explain the materials and circumstances appearing against him.

On the question whether the Results Committee and the Syndicate in punishing a candidate for the alleged act of using unfair means at the examination is required to act judicially, that is, whether it is required to afford an opportunity to candidate for meeting the circumstances alleged to have been found against him :

Held, (per Newaskar and Tare, JJ.) — That notwithstanding that there is no express provision making it obiigatory upon the Results Committee to call for an explanation from the candidate and give an opportuuity of hearing to him, yet it is implicit in the provision that the Committee must be satisfied that the candidate has in fact used unfair means at the examination. Thus it is its duty to decide objectively and to act quasi-judicially. The Legislature is competent to put an end to the finality of a decision of a Court by an enactment. And such an enactment of law having such effects does not constitute exercise of judicial functions by the Legislature. Thus by enacting M. P. Janapada Election Matters Validating Act (1 of 1955) the Legislature merely declared what was void to be valid and in doing so it was exercising its legislative function. Gulabrao Keshavrao v. Section 43-A which was added by the Madras Legislature in 1948 and the instruction issued by the State Government under that section do not stand repealed on the ground of any inconsistency between that section and Ss. 43 and 44 as they stand after the amendment of the Act in 1956 and therefore an order of the State Transport Authority directing the Regional Transport Authority to take into account such instructions while granting permits under S. 47 is not wrong. ——S. 47 — Inexperience of grantee the ground for cancellation—Ground for cancellation is not extraneous to section.

Where a State Transport Authority cancelled a carriage permit granted by the Regional Transport Authority, taking into account the fact that the grantee had no experience in the field of motor transporting being a new entrant and that certain other applicants were preferable to him as they had gained much experience, it cannot be postulated that the State Transport Authority took into consideration a test which was extraneous or foreign to the tests propounded by S. 47. MYSORE EXCISE ACT (5 of 1901)

——Ss 3, 29, 69 — Mysore Foreign Liquor Rules under the Act, R. 1 — Validity — Mysore General Clauses Regulation (1899), S. 3 (16).

Per G. K. Govinda Bhat, J.:— Rule 1 is a valid law, if it was issued by the Sovereign Rules; the expression 'Foreign liquor' therein is capable of being construed to mean liquors of the foreign type, though they may be manufactured in India. (Obiter).

Per K. S. Hegde, J. (Contra):— There would be some force in the contention that R. 1 having been made by Sovereign Authority was as effective as the provisions contained in the 'Act,' if it is factually correct. But then, while the 'Act' was enacted by Her Highness the Maharani, who was the Regent at that time as seen from the preamble to the "Act," the power to make Rules was conferred on the Government — See S. 29. The Government of Mysore was not the sovereign. The person contemplated in S. 3 (16) of the Mysore General Clauses Regulation, 1899, must necessarily be somebody other than the sovereign. He is somebody authorised by the sovereign "to administer executive Government." Therefore, the Rules in question were not framed by the sovereign. Hence the Rule-Making Authority had no authority to alter the provisions in the "Act." Section 69 of the "Act" does not enlarge the powers of the Rule Making Authority. In view of that provision rules validly made have the force of law and they are to be read as part of the "Act." But that will not be the case if the rules made are invalid for any reason. Hence cls. (a) and (b) of R. 1 of the Foreign Liquor Rules are ultra vires of the "Act." ILR 1964 Mys 697.

——S. 15 — Mysore Foreign Liquor Rules Rule 13A — Renewal of Refreshment Room licences.

Neither the "Act" nor the Foreign Liquor Rules provide for the renewal of Refreshment Room Licenses. Every time a Refreshment Room license is given it is an independent license. It has to be seperately applied for; the applicant must satisfy all the conditions necessary to be satisfied before a fresh license is granted. The contention that because there is power to renew the license granted under the Brewary Rules and the Distillery Rules, such a power should be deemed to exist under the Foreign Liquor Rules also, has no substance. OSMANIA UNIVERSITY RULES

——R. 11—Interpetation of.

The guiding principle underlying R. 11 in the matter of admission appears to be to grant admission to students strictly in the order of merit having regard to the marks obtained by them in the qualifying examination in one attempt. According to the above principle preference would be given to such students as have come out successful in the examination in the first attempt and among such students the ranking would be according to the marks secured by them. The rule does not contemplate that the candidate should have passed all the subjects in one examination. ILR (1955) Hyd 665 = AIR 1954 Hyd 25 (27) (Pt E) (Pr 4) (DB).

A candidate standing for election as a Sarpanch should not be in arrears of the tax in regard to that very Panchayat to which he is seeking election and his being in arrears regarding any other Panchayat though constituted under the same Act cannot prevent him from standing for the election. Rejection of nomination paper of a candidate on the ground that he was in arrears of tax regarding some other Panchayat was held to be wrong and that such improper rejection of nomination paper materially affected the results of the election.

The use of the word "the" instead of "any", held significant. The Legislature had used word "any" wherever it wanted to do so as in cl. (g) of S. 6 (5). ILR (1962) 2 Punj 24.

Sub-rule (5) of R. 75 is only a specific delineation of some of the powers embodied in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, and made available by sub-r. (2) for the trial of election petitions. In other words, the provisions of sub-r. (5) are in effect, to use a familiar statutory expression, "without prejudice to the generality" of the provisions of sub-r. (2). Sub-rule (2) of R. 75 corresponds to sub-s. (2) of S. 90, Representation of the People Act, 1951, (Central Act). The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure 1908, Act (XLIII of 1951) and sub-r. (5) of R. 75 to S. 92 of that which are made available under S. 90 (2) are not trammelled by the provisions of S. 92 of the enactment. AIR 1954 S C 210=(1954) S C J 257 =(1954) 1 M L J 480, Foll.

The object of O. 9, R. 13 is to ensure, within reasonable limits, that every defendant shall have a hearing and to place the applicant, if successful, in the same position to which he would have been if no decree had been passed against him. Such a provision is necessary in the interests of justice and should be considered as available in view of R. 75 (2) of the Travancore-Cochin Panchayat Rules, 1951. The finality and conclusiveness indicated in R. 79 (4) has nothing to do with the operation of such a provision. 1954 K L T 582=ILR (1954) Trav-Co 1194= A I R 1955 Trav-Co 24 (25) (Pt B) (Prs 7, 8, 9) (DB).

——S. 361—"Take . . . . . out of the keeping of the lawful guardian of such minor"—Interpretation.

The well settled rules to interpret the expression "takes . . . . . out of the keeping of the lawful guardian of such minor" are:—

(a) The 'taking' referred to in S. 361 is not necessarily physical removal as removed by force or compulsion;

(b) He who howsoever inspires or aids the decision of the minor girl to leave the home, as much takes her out of the keeping of her guardian, as one who removes or allures her out of such guardianship;

(c) Although the man who does not so influence the will of the minor girl is under no legal duty to restore to her guardian, a determined girl who forces herself on him, his dissuasion which disinclines a wavering penitent girl to go back to her guardian constitutes even at that stage, taking out of the keeping of the guardian; and (d) but if all that is established by the evidence is that the girl herself left the house of her guardian and went to some one who did not do anything to encourage or incite her to burn the bridges, and, in consequence, she does not return to her guardian there being no conduct on the part of the man such as would amount to 'taking' no offence is committed. ILR (1964) Mys 486.

——S. 361—Abandonment of guardianship — Minor girl who is in keeping of her lawful guardian can discard her guardianship by simply walking out of the home of the guardian—If no one is responsible for the minor girl abandoning the guardianship in that way, no one can be said to have taken her out of the keeping of the lawful guardian—(Words and Phrases —Abandonment. Satta parchas are not mere memoranda of bets but they are instruments of gaming used for purposes of gaming within the meaning of the term as used in S. 1 of the Act. Consequently by virtue of the first clause of S. 1, the recovery of such slips from a house would give rise to a presumption under S. 6 of the Act that the house in question is being used as a common gaming house. Where on being satisfied by the information supplied by the police that a house was being used as a common gaming house, the Magistrate issued a search warrant but did not put the date on the same and the date appearing in the warrant was written by some clerk.

Held, that it was not necessary for the Magistrate to insert the date on the warrant in his own hand; it was quite sufficient for him to sign at the foot of the warrant and to affix his seal. There was, therefore, nothing illegal or even irregular in the date on the —S. 63 — Will—Execution—Proof—Person taking benefit under will taking active part in preparing it —Inference—Rule if applies to attestor.

If a person taking an active part in getting a will prepared or executed gets a benefit under the will, the propounder must adduce the best evidence to remove suspicion regarding the will on account of such a circumstance. This principle, however, cannot be extended to the case of attestors, because in the case of a person, who prepares the will and takes a benefit under it, it may reasonably give rise to suspicion that the clause in the will relating to the benefit conferred on him may be his own and may have been surreptitiously introduced into the will without the knowledge of the testator. The same cannot be said of an attestor taking a benefit under the will. He is only a legatee taking benefit under the will and he merely attests it in token of his witnessing its execution. That circumstance cannot at all lead to the inference that he exercised any influence on the mind of the testator. (1950) 28 Mys L J 124 (DB).

—S. 70 — Will — Revocation—What amounts to—Compromise with members of testator's family — Other properties allotted to testator — Effect — Will, if revoked.

Where a testator after execution of a will enters into compromise with other members of his family as a result of which he is allotted properties different from those that were allotted to him at the time of execution of the will, this has not the effect of revocation of the will. Since the will takes effect only after the death of the testator, it will operate only in respect of properties that the testator died possessed of. It is not necessary that there should be identity of the property. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 93 (96) (Pt D) (Pr 12) (DB).

—S. 70—Will—Revocation — Will not re-affirmed in other documents—If can be revoked.

—S. 74—Will — Construction— Personal covenant to pay if can be implied.

A case of personal covenant which is a matter of mutual agreement does not at all arise in a will under which the testator bequeaths his properties in a particular manner which is to take effect after his death. To say, therefore, that there was no personal covenant to pay in the will under consideration is to misconceive the very nature and scope of the document. —S. 74—Will—Construction—Rule.

When the Courts have to construe a will they must look to the terms of that will and the circumstances surrounding the particular will. It would be ordinarily very unsafe to seek to ascertain the wishes of a person who has executed a particular document by referring to the words used by another person in a wholly different context. 72 Mad L W 270 = ILR (1959) Mad 601 = (1959) 1 M L J 335.

—S. 74 — Will — Construction — General rule — Exception.

The general and accepted rule of construction namely, that the express intention of a testator should be gathered from a reading of the entire will is paramount. But if the testator appointed a person as sole trustee without words of limitation and there is no indication in the document to the contrary, the said grant conveys an estate of inheritance. But the rule is not inflexible and in a case where the will contains other directions which are inconsistent with such intention, the Court should give effect to his real intention. 40 Cal 274 ; (1938) 2 M L J 623 and 49 Cal 459, Rel. on. 1952 Mad W N 100 = 65 Mad L W 154=1952-1 Mad L J 169= AIR 1952 Mad 784 (785) (Pr 4).

——S. 74—Will— Construction — Use of precedents —Not desirable.

It is always dangerous to construe the words of one Will with the aid of construction placed by Courts in another case on more or less similar words in a different Will. The terms and tenor of the Will concerned should in the final analysis be the guiding factors. (1963) 2 Mys L J 437 (DB).

——S. 74— Will — Construction — Subsequent conduct of testator — Not material— Failure to provide for lapse—Does not affect construction of will.

The omissions of the testator to provide against a lapse is not a circumstace which will bear on the construction of a Will. In construing the terms of a Will, subsequent conduct of testator is not very material. While construing a Will the Court is on the search for the intention of the testator on the date of execution of the Will and not at about the time of his death. (1963) 2 Mys L J 437 (DB).

——S. 74 — Will — Validity — Will attacked as inofficious — Recital in will explaining such unnatural disposition—Value of.

Where a will is attacked as inofficious on the ground that the heir-at-law has been deprived of the bulk of the properties, the explanation given by the testator in the will for such unnatural disposition if true and sufficient is entitled to great weight. The recital in a solemn document like a will is very important and sufficient weight should be attached to it, and particularly when in respect of a matter which third parties cannot know and which was within the special means of knowledge of the testator, the only possible evidence is the recital in the will. ——S. 74 — Will — Construction — Property not included in will—Succession to.

The property of the testator not included in the will would after his death go to his nearest heir. Where, therefore, in a will bequest was made to two ladies for life only for their maintenance and the testator did not say what would happen to the shares of these ladies after their death the shares given to these ladies constituted the property left by the testator undisposed of, subject to the life interest of these ladies, and the nearest heir of testator at the time of the will, would be entitled, to the shares given to these two ladies by the will for their maintenance, after their death. A Will must be construed as a whole, giving attention to every person therein; intention of the person making the grant must be gathered from the language employed by the grantor; the plain and natural meaning is to be given to the words used; and if there is any doubt, the document is to be construed as to lean to vesting. ——S. 218 — Will — Grant of probate — Long delay in applying for — Effect — Genuineness of will — Onus of proof.

It is true that an application for probate can be made at any time. There is no limitation of time for making such an application. Mere delay itself cannot be a ground against the genuineness of the will. But still the Court is bound to be satisfied with regard to the genuineness of the will that is set up. The burden of proving due execution is upon the person propounding the will. He must satisfy the conscience of the Court that the instrument so propounded is the last will of a free and capable testator. It is usual to demand an explanation when there is unreasonable delay in applying for probate. Such explanation is necessary to assist the Judge in coming to a finding as to the genuineness of the will propounded.

In the instant case the alleged will is an unregistered one. The testator lived only for five days after the execution of the will. There is no proof of his mental capacity. The will was executed in the house of the propounder and a major portion of the estate is bequeathed to him and his brothers. There is considerable delay of 36 years in coming to the Court for the probate of the will. Its execution is doubtful, the conduct of the parties is not in favour of the existence of the will, the disposal of the properties is unnatural and the attendant circumstances are all of a suspicious nature. In these circumstances the propounder who applied for the probate has to explain the reasons for the delay in coming to the Court and prove due execution of the will to the satisfaction of the Court. He has not done so and is therefore not entitled to the grant of probate of the will. 78 Mad L W 83 = ILR (1965) 2 Mad 131 = (1965) 2 M L J 387.

●——S. 8-A—(Inserted by Ordinance 10 of 1949 and Amended by Ordinance 15 of 1949) — Validity—(Constitution of India, Art. 14).

A proper classification must always bear a reasonable and just relation to the things in respect of which it is proposed.

When the State of Rajasthan was formed in April and May, 1949, the Jagirdars of only a part of the present State of Rajasthan could not collect their rents while Jagirdars in other areas which were covered by Jaipur, Bikaner, Jaisalmer and Jodhpur and Matsya Union were under no such disability. In the former State of Rajasthan provisions regarding the management by Government of Jagirs and the right to collect rents already existed, whereas there was no such provision in the former States of Jaipur, Bikaner, Jaisalmer and Jodhpur and Matsya Union, but when the integration took place in April and May, 1949, the discrimination exhibited itself not by virtue of anything inherent in the impugned Ordinances but by reason of the fact that Jagirdars of one part of the present State of Rajasthan were already subjected to a disability in the matter of management of their Jagirs while the other parts were wholly unaffected. This discrimination however undesirable, was not open to any exception until the Constitution came into force on 26th January, 1950. Such an obvious discrimination could be supported only on the ground that it was based upon a reasonable classification.

In the absence of any allegation supported by evidence it could not be held that the Jagirdars of the particular area to which category the respondent belonged were differently situated to other Jagirdars. There was no real and substantial distinction why the Jagirdars of a particular area should continue to be treated with inequality as compared with the Jagirdars in another area of Rajasthan. No rational basis for any classification or differentiation had been made out. Section 8-A of the impugned Ordinance as amended was a clear contravention of the respondent's right under Art. 14 of the Constitution and must be declared void. State of Rajasthan v. WORDS AND PHRASES ——Expression 'date of receipt of records'—Meaning. See Document. I L R (1965) Cut 823.

——'Unable to preside at meeting'.

The words "unable to preside at meeting" in S. 40-A(5), Madras District Municipalities Act, 1920 are quite general and would apply to a case where the Revenue Divisional officer is prevented from holding the meeting by prohibitory order issued by Court. These words are not confined to incapacity of physical character but include legal incapacity. See Municipalities — Madras District Municipalities Act (5 of 1920), S. 40-A. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 891 (DB).

——"Under restraint of Court".

There can be restraint without confinement—Convict released on probation after execution of bond under form C of Probation Rules — He is under restraint of Court within meaning of S. 19(xvii), Court-fees Act. See Court-fees Act (1870), S. 19(xvii). 1964 All L J 665=AIR 1967 All 81.

Ein Zeichen (Symbol) ist ein Muster, das eine Bedeutung hat. Es kann ein Bild, ein Wort, ein Ton oder eine Geste sein. Zeichen helfen uns, Informationen zu speichern und weiterzugeben. Ohne Zeichen könnten wir nicht miteinander kommunizieren.

Ein Computer kann nur mit Zahlen rechnen. Deshalb müssen alle Zeichen, die wir eingeben, zuerst in Zahlen umgewandelt werden. Diese Umwandlung heißt Codierung. Der Computer speichert dann nur die Zahlen.

Damit alle Computer dieselben Zeichen verstehen, gibt es Zeichensätze. Ein Zeichensatz ordnet jedem Zeichen eine feste Zahl zu. Der bekannteste Zeichensatz heißt ASCII. Er enthält 128 Zeichen.

Die Zahlen im ASCII-Code werden im Dualsystem gespeichert. Das Dualsystem hat nur zwei Ziffern: 0 und 1. Jede Ziffer heißt Bit. Acht Bit zusammen ergeben ein Byte. Ein Byte kann also 256 verschiedene Werte annehmen.

Der Buchstabe A hat im ASCII-Code die Zahl 65. Im Dualsystem ist das 01000001. Der Buchstabe B hat die Zahl 66, also 01000010. Man sieht: Sie unterscheiden sich nur an einer Stelle. Das ist kein Zufall.

Kleine Buchstaben stehen 32 Plätze nach den großen. Das a hat also die Zahl 97. Ziffern beginnen bei 48. Die Zahl 0 hat dort den Code 48. Leerzeichen, Punkt und Komma haben ebenfalls feste Codes.

Steuerzeichen sind unsichtbar. Sie steuern Geräte, zum Beispiel den Zeilenumbruch oder den Ton. Sie stehen im ASCII-Code an den ersten 32 Plätzen. Heute werden sie selten gebraucht.

Für Sonderzeichen reicht ASCII nicht aus. Deshalb gibt es Erweiterungen wie ISO 8859-1. Sie nutzen das neunte Bit und haben 256 Zeichen. Damit lassen sich auch Umlaute darstellen.

Unicode ist heute der wichtigste Zeichensatz. Er enthält fast alle Zeichen der Welt. Jedes Zeichen hat eine Nummer, die mit U+ beginnt. Das A ist U+0041. Das Euro-Zeichen ist U+20AC.

Unicode kann auf verschiedene Arten gespeichert werden. Eine davon heißt UTF-8. Sie braucht für ASCII-Zeichen nur ein Byte. Für andere Zeichen braucht sie zwei, drei oder vier Bytes.

Beim Speichern von Text ist die Codierung wichtig. Wird sie falsch gewählt, erscheinen unlesbare Zeichen. Das passiert oft bei Umlauten. Dann sagt man, der Text ist verstümmelt.

Eine Datei enthält nur Bytes. Ob sie Text, Bild oder Programm ist, weiß der Computer nicht von selbst. Das Programm muss wissen, wie es die Bytes deuten soll. Sonst ist alles nur Zahlen.

Beim Übertragen von Daten können Fehler entstehen. Ein Bit kann kippen, also von 0 zu 1 werden. Dann ist das Zeichen falsch. Deshalb gibt es Verfahren, die Fehler erkennen und manchmal sogar beheben.

Ein einfaches Verfahren ist das Paritätsbit. Es wird an ein Byte angehängt. Es sorgt dafür, dass die Anzahl der Einsen gerade ist. Fehlt diese Gerade, weiß der Empfänger, dass ein Bit gekippt ist.

Komprimieren heißt, Daten kleiner machen. Dabei werden Wiederholungen und Muster ausgenutzt. Eine Datei kann danach weniger Platz brauchen. Beim Öffnen wird sie wieder entpackt.

Es gibt verlustfreie und verlustbehaftete Verfahren. Verlustfrei heißt, dass nach dem Entpacken alles genau gleich ist. Verlustbehaftet heißt, dass etwas verloren geht. Bei Bildern merkt man das oft kaum.

Ein Archiv fasst viele Dateien in einer zusammen. Das ist praktisch zum Verschicken. Oft wird dabei auch komprimiert. Bekannte Archivformate sind ZIP und TAR.

Verschlüsseln heißt, Daten unlesbar machen. Nur wer den Schlüssel kennt, kann sie wieder lesen. Das schützt vor fremden Augen. Es ist etwas anderes als Codierung.

Eine Prüfsumme ist eine Zahl, die aus einer Datei berechnet wird. Ändert sich die Datei, ändert sich die Prüfsumme. So kann man leicht sehen, ob eine Datei unverändert ist. Das ist nützlich beim Herunterladen.

Ein Hash ist eine feste Zahl, die aus beliebig vielen Daten entsteht. Er ist wie ein Fingerabdruck der Daten. Aus dem Hash lässt sich die Datei nicht zurückrechnen. Gute Hashes ändern sich stark bei kleinen Änderungen.

A. I. R. Commentaries Judicially Appreciated

A.I.R. 1948 Patna 460 (462) (Pr. 9) [V 35 C 161] (D.B.)—Per Meredith J.—"I will make two quotations from Chitaley and Annaji Rao's annotated edition of the Civil Procedure Code, 4th Edn. Vol. III, because those learned commentators have, in my opinion, correctly summed up the position in language which cannot be battered."

CONSTITUTION OF INDIA.

1961 Manipur 1 (4) (Pr. 11) [A.I.R. V 48 C 1]—Tirumalpad J. C.—"What is prohibited (in Art. 23 (1)) is begar and other similar forms of forced labour. The A. I. R. Commentaries on the Constitution of India at page 635 define 'begar' as a system under which persons are pressed to carry burdens for individuals or public or to perform other forms of menial service under compulsion".

1961 All. 341 (345) (Pr. 33) [(S) A.I.R. V 43 C 126] (DB).—Desai J.—"Shri Jagdish Sahai could not cite any authority in support of his contention that the right given to the Court to draw an adverse inference is equal to compelling the accused to be a witness against himself. We notice that Chitaley in his Commentary on Constitution, Vol. I, pp. 497.498, does not see any conflict between the provisions of Art. 20 (3) and those of S. 342, Cr. P. C."

1956 J. & K. 1 (10) (Pr. 34) [(S) A.I.R. V 43 C 1] (F.B.)—Kilam J.—"The learned author Chitaley in his luminous commentary on the Constitution has, after discussing almost the whole case law on the subject, enunciated some principles which I might give more or less in his own language. According to the learned author . . . ." (Points from Note 8 (g) under Art. 21, p. 588 quoted.)

CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908.

1953 S.C. 23 (27) [A.I.R. V 40 C 7]—[Touching the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court set out in S. 115, Civil P. C.] "A large number of cases have been collected in Edn. 4 of Chitaley & Rao's Code of Civil Procedure (Vol. I) which only serve to show that the High Courts have not always appreciated the limits of the jurisdiction conferred by this section."

1949 P. C. 156 (158) (Pr. 19) [A. I. R. V 36 C 48] — Sir John Beaumont — "There have been no doubt, decisions in some High Courts in India which lend support to the view upon which the Judges acted. The cases are collected in Edn. 4 of Chitaley and Rao on the Code of Civil Procedure, Vol. I, p. 1105."

P. L. D. 1965 (W. P.) Lahore 590 (594, 595) (DB). — Sajjad Ahmad J.—"There has been a conflict of judicial opinion on the question of the applicability of this section to decrees in appeals under the Letters Patent. The High Courts of Bombay, Punjab, Madhya Pradesh and Madras have held that the section applies. The High Court of Patna took a contrary view (See Chitaley's Commentary on S. 114 of the Civil P. C.—headnote 1, at page 1507, Vol. II, 1968, Edition.) In a recent Full Bench decision reported in Jwala Prasad v. Jwala Bank Ltd., A. I. R. 1961 All. 881, the Allahabad High Court has held that . . . . and has overruled an earlier decision to the contrary given by another Full Bench of the same Court reported in Mst. Abhilakhi v. Sada Nand, A. I. R. 1931 All. 244."

1968 J. & K. 13 (14) (Pr. 7) [A. I. R. V 55 C 4] — J. N. Bhat J. — "The principle as laid down in certain authorities as summarized in the Commentary on Chitaley's Civil P. C. (7th Edn., Vol. 2, Page 1927) is that the Court has to see whether the suit cannot be determined in the absence of the person who applies to be made party or whether his interests will not be prejudiced by not being joined as a party".

1968 Mad. 1 (21) (Pr. 59) [A. I. R. V 55 C 1] (FB) — Venkataraman J.—"Pointing out that S. 105, C. P. C. must be read harmoniously with S. 99, C. P. C., the decisions have held that the phrase 'affecting the decision of the case' in S. 105 must be interpreted to mean 'affecting the decision of the case on merits'. The decision will be found collected in any text book, for example, in the Commentary of A. I. R. Section 105, Note 6. . . . . .

1965 All. 527 (531) (Pr. 28) [A. I. R. V 52 C 148] — Oak J. — "Mr. Brij Lal Gupta pointed out that the Court dealing with the matter in April 1947 was a Munsif. The present suit was tried by a Civil Judge. The valuation of the suit was Rs. 85,000. The Munsif had no jurisdiction to try the present suit. Under S. 11, C. P. C., the Court trying the former suit should have been competent to try the subsequent suit itself. (See Chitaley's Commentary on the Code of Civil Procedure Volume I, Page 415). (Now see 1968 (7th Edn.) pp. 879-880)."

1965 Punj. 494 (496) [A.I.R. V 52 C 157 Pr. 7]—Shamsher Bahadur J.—"The words 'for any other substantial cause' (in O. 41, R. 27 (b)) must be read with the word 'requires' in the beginning of the sentence and need not be construed in the narrow sense suggested by the doctrine of ejusdem generis ..... Reference may be made to Chitaley's Commentary on the Code of Civil Procedure, Vol. IV, at page 4819".

1965 Kerala 104 (105) (Pr. 3) — S. Velu Pillai J. — "The rights inter se of rival purchasers in sales in execution of decrees on mortgages, have been the subject of consideration in several decided cases. The result of these has been summarised as follows in A. I. R Commentaries on Civil Procedure Code, Vol. 3, 1957 (6th) Edn., pp. 3791 and 3792. (Now see 1963 (7th Edn.), pp. 3807, 3808, O. 34, R. 1, N. 39, Pts. 26 to 34) ....."

('64) I. L. R. (1964) 1 Ker. 320 (322) — Madhavan Nair J. — "The A. I. R. Commentaries on the Code of Civil Procedure in Note No. 4 to O. 34, R. 7 put the position succinctly thus ....."

COURT-FEES ACT, 1870 & SUITS VALUATION ACT, 1887.

1968 Manipur 52 (53, 54) (Prs. 5, 12) [A. I. R. V 55 C 18]—C. Jagannadhacharyulu J. C. — "There is consensus of opinion in most of the High Courts that S. 7 (iv) (b) of the Court-fees Act does not apply to a suit for partition by a person in joint possession for partition of his share but that Art. 17 (vi) of Sch. II of the Court-fees Act applies. Vide pages 111, 112, 113, 114 and 115 of the Court-fees and Suits Valuation Act (A. I. R. Commentaries) Second Edition. ...."

1965 Punj. 1 (11) (Pr. 25) [A. I. R. V 52 C 1] (FB) — P. C. Pandit J. — "With regard to this definition (of 'consequential relief'), Chitaley in his Commentaries on the 'Court-fees Act and the Suits Valuation Act (Second Edition)', on page 185 has observed thus—".

CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE, 1898.

A.I.R. 1969 Orissa 56 (57) (Pr. 5) [V 56 C 23] — S. Acharya J. — "Their Lordships of the Madras High Court in their decision reported in ..... A. I. R. 1954 Mad. 214 in quoting a passage from Chitaley and Annaji Rao's Criminal Procedure Code, observed as follows: 'But a Criminal Court, as well pointed in the exhaustive analysis in Chitaley and Annaji Rao's Criminal Procedure Code, Vol. III, 4th (1950) Edn. at page 2862, is not expected, under the provisions of S. 517 to 'try' civil cases .....' This view has been reiterated in a decision of this Court in ..... (1967) 33 Cut. L. T. 868."

1967 Current L. J. 717 (719) — Shamsher Bahadur J.—"Prior to the enactment of this amendment (S. 189-A), the Court had by judicial decisions engrafted a law which, according to Chitaley's Commentary on the Code of Criminal Procedure, Vol. I, Page 590, was this ....."

LIMITATION ACT, 1908.

1968 Mad. 226 (229) (Pr. 5) [A. I. R. V 55 C 50] — Natesan J.—"Quoting from Chitaley and K. N. Annaji Rao on Limitation Act, it is observed therein. ...."

1963 Punj. 457 (459) (Pr. 7) [A. I. R. V 50 C 127]—Grover J. — "As stated in Chitaley's Limitation Act, (3rd Edition), Volume 1, Page 524, the words 'Stayed by an injunction or order' have reference to an order of a Court and not to a disability to sue or to apply arising from other causes"

1961 Pat. 134 (137) (Pr. 18) [A.I.R. V 48 C 36]—Raj Kishore Prasad J.—"The question under consideration has been thoroughly and clearly dealt with in A.I.R. Commentaries on the Indian Limitation Act, 3rd Edition, Vol. I, Note 11, page 595, Note 18, pages 601-604 and Note 32, page 688."

1960 Kerala 306 (308) (Pr. 17) [A.I.R. V 47 C 144]—M. S. Menon and T. K. Joseph JJ. — "As pointed out by Chitaley : 'Where no time is fixed for delivery, if the correspondence between the parties shows that the matter was being enquired into and that there was no refusal to deliver up to well within a year of the suit, this article (Art. 81) cannot be pleaded as a bar . . . . . .' (Limitation Act, Vol. 2, Page 1187)."

REGISTRATION ACT, 1908.

1960 Madh. Pra. 3 (Pr. 8) [A. I. R. V 47 C 2] — Dixit J.—"The principle laid down in I. L. R. 4 Bom. 126 has been followed in many cases which have been noted in Chitaley's Registration Act (Second Edition) at page 867. . . . ."

1960 Mad. 244 (Pr. 9) [A.I.R. V 47 C 77] — Ramaswami J.—"It is interesting in this connection to note that the A. I. R. Commentaries on the Registration Act (Second Edition) at pages 526 to 530, after an elaborate discussion of the entire case-law and the principles of S. 77 of the Registration Act, mention at p. 530 that the view expressed by Abdur Rahman J. is correct."

STAMP ACT, 1899.

1967 Him. Pra. 29 (31) (Pr. 11) [A. I. R. V 54 C 9]—Om Prakash J. C.—"From the language, used in the document, it is capable of falling within the definition of a bond, as defined in sub-s. (5) (b) of S. 2, Stamp Act, and also within the definition of a promissory note, under sub-s. (22) of that section. The maxim being, specialia generalibus derogant, an instrument which satisfies the definition under sub-s. (5) must be held to be taken out of the more general definition in sub-s. (22), vide A. I. R. Commentaries on the Stamp Act, p. 70."

TRANSFER OF PROPERTY ACT, 1882.

1954 Punj. 210 (211) (Pr. 4) [A.I.R. V 51 C 52]—S. S. Dulat Actg. C. J. and D. K. Mahajan J. — "It is significant that the provisions of this section (S. 111, T. P. Act) have never been applied as a rule of equity, justice or good conscience by any of the High Courts in the territories to which this provision is not made applicable under S. 1 of the T. P. Act, whereas a number of cases will be found at page 178, Note 4, of Chitaley's Transfer of Property Act, Vol. I, where principles underlying the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act have been so applied . . . . . ."

1961 Mad. 28 (30) (Pr 7) [A. I. R. V 48 C 7] — Ramaswami J. — "In this connection the learned District Munsif has pertinently pointed out the implications of the decision in Gopal Chandra Das v. Harendra Nath Datta, 63 Ind. Cas. 483 (Cal.) . . . . This decision has been cited with approval in the well-known commentaries on the Transfer of Property Act by Chitaley and [illegible] Third Edition (1950) page 1861".
